HOUSE PASSES PENSION PLANS IN HOT SESSION

Gov. Horner Ripped for Delay.

BY STANLEY ARMSTRONG.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Dec. 11.—[Special.]—Two companion measures to the old age pension bill passed the Illinois house today in a fiery session in which legislators assailed Gov. Horner for delaying the program, attacked the bill itself, and ripped the New Deal for its interference with the state's powers.

The bills increased to 9 million dollars the state's appropriation for its share of the pensions and established the county dispensing units that the New Deal ordered Illinois to set up.

McClure Assails Horner.

As the latter measure—which has been stalled in the house since it was rushed to second reading Oct. 30 with a spectacular display of speed—was called for passage, Representative Frank McClure [Dem., Abingdon] declared that Gov. Horner alone was to blame for delaying the pension program.

Soon afterward, during a brief session of the senate, the pension program was attacked by Senator Earl B. Searcy of Springfield, Republican minority leader, as a flagrant example of New Deal tyranny.

McClure prefaced his attack with a denial of Horner's recent charges blaming the legislature for sloth in not passing the pension long ago.

Puts Blame on Governor.

"I rise to defend the general assembly as a whole," McClure declared. "I have opposed the governor, but never with malicious intent—always with the hope of making him a better governor.

"And, while I can lay my finger on no definite result, I always have encouraged myself with the thought that any change would have to make him better. It could not make him worse.

"While often he has attacked me, I have borne his attacks with the courtesy and patience due to a grumbling, querulous old man pitifully misplaced.

"House Ashamed of Act."

"The reason an old age pension bill has not yet passed this special session is not because there are not enough votes here to pass a pension bill but because this house was ashamed and the senate is afraid to pass and send out to the old people of this state a pauper law.

"Gov. Horner has complained because the legislature did not pass his bills in two weeks. The only bill that passes in two weeks around this place is a bill that brings money in, a bill that puts taxes on.

"They'll call out the militia to pass that kind of bill. I've seen the galleries filled with motorcycle cops. They said they were there to maintain order, but it seemed to me most of them were looking at me. But there is a strange absence of the big shots when the bills up are to pay money out.

"What has happened to the whole social security program? Unemployment insurance? The child welfare program? The blind bills? Where are all the big shots and where is the heat on these bills?

Expects Many Pension Bids.

"What about house bill No. 32? [This is the bill which sets up the county units for dispensing the pensions.] It will take nearer six months than six weeks to set up the machinery to receive and scrutinize all applications because half the people will apply.

"Yet that bill dawdles on our calendar.

"What's the matter with the Democratic party in this state? Two years ago we rolled up a majority of 700,000. Why is it that today the polls show us running two to one behind?

"The Democratic party hasn't changed. The people of this state haven't changed. The members of this general assembly haven't changed.

Sees Bill as Horner's End.

"The only thing that has changed in three years is Henry Horner running around the state as a candidate and Henry Horner as governor of this state refusing to perform.

"I hope the senate does pass the old age pension bill today. I hope they bring it back here, and that we concur in it because it will add just

SLAIN EDITOR'S WIDOW DEMANDS INQUIRY BY U. S.

Calls State Justice "Impossible."

BY WAYNE THOMIS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Minneapolis, Minn., Dec. 11.—[Special.]—Mrs. Edith Liggett tonight wired Attorney General Homer Cummings urging the department of justice to begin an investigation into the murder of her husband, Walter Liggett. Liggett was the editor and publisher of a crusading weekly newspaper of this city who was shot down by two gunmen at the rear of his home Monday.

In her wire, dispatched to Washington early tonight, she charged that "it will be impossible" to obtain a fair or comprehensive investigation of the slaying through either Hennepin county or Minnesota state authorities, all of whom were unfriendly toward Liggett. She added that a federal investigation was her last hope of solving the killing and bringing the slayers to justice.

Identifies Killer Suspect.

Earlier in the day there was a series of other developments, chief among which were:

Mrs. Liggett identified Isadore Blumenfeld, alias Kid Cann, hoodlum and official of a liquor distributing company, as the man who fired the fatal shots into her husband's back. Cann was pointed out by Mrs. Liggett at a dramatic showup at police headquarters.

Gov. Floyd Olson, against whom most of Liggett's vitriolic attacks had been launched, said he would sign a bill offering a reward for the editor's slayers if the legislature will pass such a measure. He also offered the facilities of state police and legal departments to aid in the apprehension of the slayers.

County Attorney E. J. Goff, who also was one of the public officials bitterly attacked by Liggett, asked Minnesota's attorney general, Harry H. Peterson, one of the few public officers who was not flayed by Liggett's paper, to aid in the Hennepin county grand jury investigation.

Picked from Seven Men.

The day's most dramatic moment came when Mrs. Liggett and her brother-in-law, Robert Liggett of St. Paul were spirited into police headquarters and led into the showup room. In the presence of half a dozen detectives, assistant prosecutors, and several other prisoners she walked toward a line of seven men on the showup stage.

Lifting her right hand, she extended her finger toward Cann, who was the center man of the line.

"That's the man who fired the shots and killed my husband," she said in measured and cool tones.

Cann who had been almost gay about his detention since a few hours after the murder on Monday when he voluntarily walked into the station to present his alibi, suddenly reddened.

Denies Her Identification.

"You don't know me. You just saw my picture in the newspapers," he gasped in a choked voice.

Mrs. Liggett calmly returned to the detectives, ignoring Cann's comment, and reiterating her identification with the statement: "I'm sure that's the man."

She then was asked to look at the photographs of known criminals in an effort to pick out any which might resemble the second man who drove the automobile in which the killer of Liggett sat while the shots were fired.

As she was led into the file rooms she staggered, then, pleading that she was ill and distraught, she asked to be allowed to postpone the examination a few days.

"O, that face," she sobbed, according to police, "it passed 18 inches from me and it was grinning, grinning. I'll remember that face to my dying day."

Ready for Grand Jury.

Immediately after the identification of Cann, assistant prosecutors were assigned to draw papers which, according to County Attorney Goff, are to be taken before the grand jury before the week is out. It was at this time he announced he had sought the support of Attorney General Peterson.

Meanwhile the investigation of Cann's alibi and the preparation of all the state's evidence will consume one or two days longer, he said.

Mrs. Liggett was under constant

Near Pact on Transatlantic Airmail Lines

Washington, D. C., Dec. 11.—(AP)—Representatives of four governments combined today to remove one of the principal obstacles to early inauguration of regular trans-Atlantic air service for passengers and mail.

American, British, Irish and Canadian officials agreed in principle to extend reciprocal landing and operating privileges in their countries for such service, and it was indicated that experimental flying might start next spring.

Pan-American Air Lines and British Imperial Airways, Ltd., are understood to have worked out arrangements for joint establishment of such a service. They were said to plan to use American flying boats of the type of the China Clipper, now in service on the trans-Pacific run.

Roosevelt Voices Hopes.

A few hours before the agreement was reached, President Roosevelt told Sir Donald Banks, director of the British postoffice and a participant in today's meeting, that he hoped regular trans-Atlantic air postal service soon would be a reality.

Up until now the British government has refused landing facilities to foreign planes in Bermuda, which would be one of the main way stations on the proposed new route. Today's agreement, it is understood, will make available to the British company landing facilities in the United States and to the American company landing facilities not only in Bermuda, but also in Canada, Ireland and Great Britain.

Alternate Routes Planned.

It was understood the two companies, which will operate as independent units in the service, contemplate using the southern route via Bermuda and the Azores Islands during winter and the northern route via Newfoundland and Ireland in summer.

The proposed American terminus would be New York and the European terminus some point in the British isles not yet designated. During severe weather a harbor south of New York would be utilized.

Under the arrangement it was understood that both companies had been assured mail contracts.

Permission still must be obtained by both companies from the Portuguese government for the privileges of landing in the Azores, but this was looked upon as creating no great difficulty.

A final meeting will be held tomorrow.

STRATO BALLOON PHOTOS EXHIBIT EARTH'S CURVES

Washington, D. C., Dec. 11.—(AP)—New visual proof that the world is round, shown in a stratosphere picture snapped at almost 14 miles above the earth's surface, was displayed tonight by the National Geographic society.

Capt. Albert W. Stevens of the army air corps, co-sponsor of the stratosphere flight of Nov. 11, showed for the first time still and motion pictures taken from the balloon's record-breaking ceiling.

The earth curvature picture shows a section of the horizon 220 miles long, more than three and one-half degrees of a circle and about 1-100 of the total circumference of the earth. Projected on a screen, it revealed clearly the curved line of the earth's surface.

Clerk Admits Losing County Cash on Races

A $6,000 shortage in the county tax redemption fund came to light yesterday when Treasurer Joseph L. Gill made public a confession by Harry Daugirda, 32 years old, one of his clerks assigned to the county clerk's office. Daugirda, said Mr. Gill, admitted that he withheld the money, then lost it betting on horse races.

Irregularities in the accounts were discovered during two days when the clerk was at home ill. Questioned upon his return, Daugirda confessed immediately, and offered to do anything possible toward straightening out the muddle his defalcations caused in the records, said Mr. Gill.

No Arrest Ordered.

Because of this, the clerk has not been arrested as yet. The treasurer feels that responsibility for prosecution lies with the two bonding companies that insured Daugirda for $25,000.

The companies are the United States Casualty company, which did the bonding under Thomas D. Nash, county treasurer following the death of Joseph B. McDonough, and the Fidelity and Deposit company, under Robert M. Sweitzer, and under Gill.

Daugirda was added to the county treasurer's staf in 1930 as a bank man, without political sponsorship.

According to his confession, Daugirda withheld tax payments made between the hours of 3 and 4 o'clock in the afternoon, then destroyed evidence of the payments, excepting some duplicates which he hid in a vault in the county clerk's office. In accordance with the usual procedure Daugirda would report his collections to the treasurer's office at 3 o'clock. Money received thereafter was to be totaled in the next day's figures.

$400 Item Causes Discovery.

Daugirda's illness, which led to the discovery, began after he had collected and withheld a $400 special assessment redemption payment made by a suburban citizen a week ago. The citizen reported the payment to the village authorities in order that they might claim the money.

"We could find no record of the payment," said Mr. Gill, "and when Daugirda returned to work, we asked him about it. He immediately confessed, and produced duplicates of the receipts he had withheld. He admitted he had lost the money on the horse races. We are endeavoring to learn whether he had any accomplice."

Daugirda is married and is the father of two children. He resides with his family at 1746 West 15th street.

Seven Seized; One Is Convict M'Nutt Freed

Two Indiana ex-convicts, one paroled last August by Gov. Paul V. McNutt, and the other a Dillinger aid, who was a stool pigeon on the Indiana state pay roll a year ago, were revealed last night as members of a gang of seven men held by the state's attorney for robbing a New York diamond broker of gems valued at $35,000. The robbery occurred in the loop last Sunday morning.

This revelation followed announcement by State's Attorney Courtney that the gang's operations may extend to several of the larger cities in the country. All seven men were seized late Tuesday night in four surprise raids by policemen led by Capt. Daniel Gilbert, chief of the state's attorney's police.

Three Confess Robbery.

Two of those under arrest were former Chicago jewelers whose activities previously have been the subject of police investigation. Three of the prisoners, including the paroled convict, confessed the actual robbery and were identified by their victim, Milton Jackson, 38 years old, vice president of the Simon Brothers Diamond company of New York. The seventh suspect is a former Chicago clerk. All were held last night in outlying police stations for further questioning today.

Meyer Bogue, 45 years old, no address, and James Brezak, 39 years old, 2947 Emerald avenue, are the ex-convicts from Indiana.

Held with them are Harry Malin, 32 years old, 1208 South 57th court, Cicero; Patrick J. Sullivan, 40 years old, bartender in a saloon at 4210 Emerald avenue; Irving Hornstein, 47 years old, of the Windermere hotel, 1642 East 56th street, and Meyer Gordon, 45 years old, 3565 Pine Grove avenue, both former jewelers here, and Frank Pishaw, 46 years old, 4300 Ellis avenue, an ex-clerk.

Most of Gems Recovered.

Jackson identified Brezak as the gunman who held him up; he identified Malin as the robber who seized his jewel sample cases, and Sullivan as the driver of the robbers' car. Bogue is suspected of being the "go-between" for the robbers and Hornstein and Gordon, who were to dispose of the stolen gems, according to Capt. Gilbert. Pishaw's connection with the case was obscure last night.

Most of the unset diamonds, rings and other jewels stolen from Jackson were recovered by Capt. Gilbert in Hornstein's room at the Windermere hotel. Jackson and an insurance adjuster last night were compiling an inventory of the recovered gems to be checked at the New York office of the jewelry firm to determine whether any gems still are missing.

Recalls Indiana Scandals.

Disclosures concerning the criminal records of Bogue and Brezak recalled the series of prison scandals during the régime of Gov. McNutt, a Democrat, which culminated in the liberation of 10 convicts from the Michigan City state prison in 1933 by John Dillinger, and his subsequent "wooden gun" escape from the Lake county jail at Crown Point.

Although Bogue's prison record started in 1907 when he was sentenced to San Quentin prison in California for forgery, his first general publicity in the Chicago area came on Feb. 19, 1934, when Attorney Louis Piquett took him to Crown Point as an "alibi witness" for Dillinger.

Dillinger had been captured on Jan. 30 in Tucson, Ariz., and returned to Crown Point to be tried for the murder on Jan. 16 of Policeman William P. O'Malley of East Chicago, Ind., during a bank robbery.

Bogue, Attorney Piquett said, was

ETHIOPIA FIGHTS FRANCO-BRITISH PEACE FORMULA

Duce Slated to O.K. Plan as Parley Basis.

Moves for Peace

France and Great Britain yesterday submitted official texts of their joint peace offer to Premier Mussolini and Ethiopia. The Italian people were reported as hopeful that it would be sufficiently acceptable to Il Duce to bring the African war to an end. Ethiopian officials, however, indicated Emperor Haile Selassie will reject the plan. Military operations in Ethiopia, meanwhile, were at a standstill. Britain faced more trouble in Egypt. New anti-British outbreaks occurred and the Egyptian cabinet decided to resign.

[Copyright: 1935: By the Associated Press.]

PARIS, Dec. 11.—Ethiopia answered the Franco-British peace proposals tonight with flat resistance to any "premium for the Italian aggressor."

Wolde Mariam, the Ethiopian minister to Paris, delivered his empire's reply after a conference with Premier Pierre Laval. The French premier already was reported assured the proposals have "every chance" of Italian acceptance.

Emperor Haile Selassie's envoy, in a formal statement, declared his nation has been "the victim of an unjustified aggression, solemnly condemned by unanimous vote of the council and assembly of the league of nations."

Will Reject Proposals.

Hence, he continued, "in these conditions the Ethiopian government is firmly determined to hold at a distance any proposals which, under a direct or indirect form, would accord a premium to the Italian aggressor. . . ."

Similarly, Mariam added, Ethiopia must shun any plan which would not meet the fundamental principles of the league, "particularly the principles of the territorial and political integrity of Ethiopia, and would tend to bring pressure to bear on a feeble state in order to lead it to submit to the domination of a powerful government which has never ceased to affirm that through force it will assure the triumph of its ambitions, with, without or against the league of nations."

Agree on Procedure.

The Italian ambassador, Vittorio Cerruti, also called at the foreign office. There was no statement from him, but Il Duce generally was expected to accept the Anglo-French terms as a basis for negotiations, even though he may make a number of new demands.

Informed sources said a definite method of procedure had come out of Anglo-French conversations on settlement. Diplomats said it involved postponement of an oil embargo discussion by the league of nations sanctions committee which meets tomorrow and a request that the league's committee of five handle the peace negotiations.

It was this committee, headed by the Spaniard Salvador de Madariaga, which formulated a plan for international assistance to Ethiopia some months ago. But Premier Mussolini turned it down.

The Peace Formula.

The new proposals, authoritative sources disclosed, embrace transfer of the Ogaden and Danakil desert territories in southern and eastern Ethiopia to Italy; an Italian colonization zone in the southeast and yielding of Tigre province, in the north, with the exception of the holy city of Aksum.

In return Ethiopia would receive access to the Red sea through the Italian-Eritrean port of Assab and a league treaty for financial and administrative assistance.

Under modifications reported insisted upon by the British, Selassie also would keep a strip of land linking the Tigre on the north to his empire, and would exert strict control over the proposed colonization zone.

Plan Denounced in Ethiopia.

ADDIS ABABA, Dec. 11.—(AP)—High Ethiopian officials denounced the Franco-British peace plan today and its rejection by this African empire appeared certain. Should Emperor Haile Selassie accept, they said, he would be forced by revolting natives to abdicate.

These officials refused to believe that Great Britain had approved the proposal, calling it "a reward to Italy for breaking covenants, and another device to delay further sanctions."

They expressed opposition to all major details of the plan except one—a provision for league financial and administrative assistance to Ethiopia.

OIL BAN CALLED BURIED

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Dec. 11.—An oil embargo against Italy as an instrument to force Premier Mussolini to stop his war in Ethiopia has been buried as a relic of unsuccessful diplomacy, it appeared here tonight.

Oil sanctions ought never to have been proposed because of their dangerous effect on the European situation, it was said, three weeks after President Roosevelt had been asked for the coöperation of the United States to make the embargo effective.

Diplomatic observers today found significance in Prime Minister Baldwin's statement that oil sanctions could not be applied because of the difficulty in making them effective.

Eden Leaves for Geneva.

Carrying the final instructions of the British cabinet, which met for two hours today, Capt. Anthony Eden, minister for league of nations affairs, left London for Geneva, where he will present the league with the Anglo-French peace proposals.

Opinion here, however, is that tomorrow's league meeting will merely be a formality, with no consideration of the oil sanctions or anything else, and that the peace offer and its discussion will go over until next week, when Russia and the little entente [Czechoslovakia, Jugo-Slavia, and Rumania] and other smaller states will have something to say.

Acceptance of the new peace terms by the league is considered a fifty-fifty bet. With the oil sanctions called off it was considered by diplomats that the league's committee of five [England, France, Spain, Turkey, and Poland] would draft a new plan with the Anglo-French proposals as a basis.

Much Secrecy.

Secrecy is everywhere being preserved about the steps to be taken next, but it was said that Prime Minister Baldwin wants to get rid of the Italo-Ethiopian squabble by all means before February and that later on he might be willing to consider further claims by Italy.

Meanwhile a motion tonight by Liberal and Labor members calling for an early debate on whether the house should accept, to ratify, a settlement of the dispute which ignores international obligations and gives the aggressor concessions was tabled in the house of commons.

Small League Powers to "Revolt."

GENEVA, Dec. 11.—(AP)—An implacable stand against any big concessions to Italy at the expense of Ethiopia's sovereignty took form tonight among smaller powers of the league of nations.

It came on the eve of a committee meeting to consider an oil embargo against Premier Mussolini's nation.

The "revolt" was discussed privately. Russians, Turks, Bulgarians, Finns, Czechoslovakians, and delegates from the Scandinavian countries were said to be among those expressing opposition to any sacrifice of Ethiopia or league principles.

One delegate said the little entente and the Balkan entente would certainly protest if there is any flagrant disregard of the league covenant, which the smaller powers regard as insurance against aggression upon them.

The league was nettled because it was ignored by France and Great Britain, which did not send Geneva a text of the African peace proposal.

Although the oil sanction is scheduled for discussion tomorrow, apparently no action will be taken until the Anglo-French peace formula situation is ironed out.

MUSSOLINI GETS NEW PLAN; ITALY SEES PEACE HOPE

French, British Envoys Hand Proposals to Duce.

[Special to the London Daily Telegraph and the Chicago Tribune.]
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, Dec. 11.—The British and French ambassadors handed the Anglo-French peace proposals to Premier Mussolini at 5 and 5:30 p. m., respectively, today in Il Duce's large study in the Palazzo Venezia.

The British and French embassies refused to comment on the proposals or on the prospect of their being accepted by Il Duce. In foreign diplomatic circles, however, a sense of relief was evident. They surmise that Mussolini will not lightly reject the proposals. Nor is it anticipated he will force the British and French governments to remit their mandate as peacemakers to the league of nations council should their efforts prove to be in vain.

Slow Progress Expected.

It was made clear tonight, however, that things will move slowly. These circles believe Il Duce will prove a good bargainer, determined to get the best terms obtainable to compensate the Italian people for the sacrifices they have made.

The speech of Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin in the British house of commons last night made a good impression in all spheres. It is interpreted as a guarantee of Great Britain's good will and moderation.

Above all it is regarded as a tacit undertaking that the Italian people will not be made to suffer through the "inhuman sanctions" as they are called here.

One of the most salient features of the diplomatic activity now going on under a surface that is calm and indifferent in Rome is the interest which Pope Pius XI. is taking in the situation.

Pope Seeks Peace by Christmas.

Within the last five days he has twice sent an emissary to speak with Il Duce. He has suggested an effort to clear up the atmosphere before Christmas.

The man in the street, it appears, wants peace. He is tired of war because it seems to lead him nowhere. He fervently hopes the Franco-British proposals will be acceptable to Il Duce. He hails the fact that lamb and pork were sold today—a scheduled meatless day—as a good omen.

In the overcrowded motor buses, uncomfortable with fumes from the "sanctionist" charcoal fuel, people were whispering words of hope and encouragement. The Italians are worn with anxiety about their husbands, brothers, and sweethearts in East Africa. Those who have no relations also are worried over the future of their businesses. Rome and other towns are suffering from a lack of tourists. Shops which cater to foreigners are closing one after another.

Woman Hospital Head Dies in Ethiopia After Operation

Haile Selassie Brands Italy 'Audacious Liar' on Bombing

WITH EMPEROR HAILE SELASSIE AT DESSYE, Ethiopia, Dec. 11.—(AP)—Ethiopia's emperor today called Italian denials of the bombing of the American hospital here last week "just audacious lies."

Haile Selassie who, experts said, probably owed his life to the fact that many of the bombs did not explode, declared:

"Italy makes itself out a downright hypocrite before the world by its denials regarding the bombing of the American hospital. The Italian aviators were perfectly aware of the crime they committed against humanity."

Refutes Italian Charges.

Replying to Italian charges that Red Cross insignia were displayed indiscriminately at Dessye, the king of kings asserted "the emblem only was on Red Cross hospitals and tents."

He said the American hospital was known not only to the former Italian consul at Dessye, but was registered wth the International Red Cross at Geneva.

Bombing Called Insult to U. S.

ADDIS ABABA, Dec. 11.—(AP)—The heads of all three American missions in Ethiopia and other members of the American colony presented a signed statement to Cornelius Van H. Engert, United States chargé d'affaires, today, protesting the Italian bombardment of Dessye.

"There was never a more deliberate insult to the American flag than Italy's bombardment of the American mission hospital property at Dessye and the consequent endangering of American lives," the statement said.

Dr. T. A. Lamble, head of the Sudan interior mission and secretary general of the Ethiopian Red Cross; John Cremer, head of the American United Presbyterian mission, and Bergman Nicola of the Adventist mission were among the signers.

Italian Advance Halted.

WITH THE ITALIAN TROOPS AT ADIGRAT, Ethiopia, Dec. 11.—(AP)—Marshal Pietro Badoglio has halted the Italian advance into Ethiopia along the present Makale-Dolo line on the northern front until supply and communication lines from Asmara, Eritrea, can be overhauled.

When the Fascist forces move again each column will be a spear leveled at Amba Alaji, 40 miles south of Makale, where an Italian army was routed 40 years ago. This will take the army well down the road to Dessye, 175 miles south of Makale and one of the major Italian objectives.

"You must understand, I have 150,000 men to feed and it is impossible to keep them in good condition unless we can take care of them," Marshal Badoglio said. "Therefore, it is necessary to pause in our operations to enable me to establish lines of supply before the next move forward."

GREAT BRITAIN AGAIN DEFAULTS ON DEBT TO U. S.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 11.—[Special.]—Great Britain today notified the United States, through Sir Ronald Lindsay, British ambassador, that it again will default on war debts. The amount of defaults to Dec. 15 is $117,670,765.

The action of the British government is expected to precipitate a flood of defaults from other debtor nations. The only nation which has met its obligations and has signified its intention to meet obligations falling on Dec. 15 is Finland.

The state department released the text of a note from Sir Ronald announcing the default. The note was an answer to a note sent to the British embassy on Nov. 26 by Secretary of State Cordell Hull.

In his note Secretary Hull listed the British debts and said: "I wish, in presenting this notice of amounts due under the agreements signed by the British government, to reiterate the fact that this government is fully disposed to discuss, through diplomatic channels, any proposals which your government may desire to put forward in regard to the payment of this indebtedness, and to assure you that such proposals would receive careful consideration with a view to eventual submission to the American congress."

Sir Ronald acknowledged receipt of Secretary Hull's letter and said that he had been instructed by the British secretary of state for foreign affairs to inform this government of the British government's appreciation of the readiness to discuss the debts.

"It does not appear to my government, however, that circumstances have so changed since their note of June 4, 1934, as to enable proposals to be put forward which would be acceptable to both governments," he continued. "They wish to repeat, however, that they will be glad to resume discussions whenever the situation warrants the hope that a satisfactory result might be reached."

U. S. WRITER FORGETS HIS PASSPORT; JAILED FOR NIGHT IN ITALY

Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 11.—[Special.]—Herbert Howe, American writer of magazine articles and movie scenarios, was jailed overnight in Italy on the occasion of Mussolini's recent address on Italian Armistice day, according to word received here by Howe's brother, Milt Howe of Twentieth Century-Fox Film studios.

"Herb had gone out to mingle with the crowd and listen to Il Duce," his brother said, "when he suddenly noticed gendarmes all about. They demanded to know who he was. He looked for his passport but had left it back in his hotel. They took him to jail at once.

"Later the Roman police went through Howe's hotel room and located his passport and the next day he was released and a police official apologized to him."

EGYPT'S CABINET QUITS; NEW RIOTS AGAINST BRITAIN

Students Attack English Troops; Break Windows.

BY ALEX SMALL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

CAIRO, Egypt, Dec. 11.—Squeezed into an impossible position between his own people rebelling against the British and the latter, who refused longer to sustain him, Premier Nessim Pasha and his cabinet resigned today.

The cabinet's action failed, however, to stop fresh anti-British outbreaks. Students attacked some British soldiers on a street car and later stoned street cars and smashed windows.

The resignation will be presented formally tomorrow to King Fuad, who, it is known, will accept it.

Premier Nessim's action is a striking victory for the students who have been leading the anti-British demonstrations of the last month. They forced the varied political factions to present a united front, which in turn forced Nessim's hand.

British Aid Refused.

During the last two days the premier implored Sir Miles Lampson, British high commissioner, to save the cabinet by giving his consent for a restoration of the constitution of 1923, which the rioters demanded. Lampson remained obdurate in spite of the fact that the British are now resigned to having the constitution restored.

By dropping Nessim, who had outlived his usefulness to them, the British now are relying on King Fuad to keep his people in order. They believe he will restore the constitution to allay discontent, but after a few months will find a way to suspend it again, since he is a crafty politician and likes that constitution no more than the British.

British Worried.

Fuad is expected now to form a cabinet out of the united front of all parties and to prepare for new elections in parliament.

However smooth their calculations, the British are worried. The new cabinet will be unable to avoid insistence that the British sign the treaty of 1930. The British do not intend to do that, since this treaty specifies that the British relinquish policing of the Suez canal immediately and agree to withdraw all troops from Egypt within twenty years.

If the students continue rioting to get the treaty the British plan to use severe measures. All British soldiers today were ordered to go armed and to see that any aggression against them was punished.

ALBERT MEYER, 'FRANC DEFENDER,' NAMED AS PRESIDENT OF SWISS

BERNE, Switzerland, Dec. 11.—(AP)—Albert Meyer, "defender of the Swiss franc," today was elected president of Switzerland for 1936. Giuseppe Motta, who has served as the country's president four times, was named vice president.

Meyer, peasant-born finance minister and former newspaper editor, was elevated to the highest post when the parliament assembled for its regular session. He succeeds Rudolph Minger, whose chief service was the reorganization of the country's military defenses.

Members of the federal council are chosen annually to head the confederation in the order of their seniority.

BRAZIL ACTS TO DEFEND NATION FROM RADICALS

RIO DE JANEIRO, Dec. 11.—(AP)—The chamber of deputies approved reforms in the national security law tonight for the avowed purpose of protecting the government against "extremism," on which was laid the blame for the recent bloody uprising here and in northeastern states.

The reforms, which go to the senate tomorrow, provide for temporary suspension of newspapers engaged in "propagandizing extremism" and arrest of editors with penal sentences provided of six months to two years.

Under the new law, any public official of an "extremist tendency" may be suspended, as well as policemen and army men. Federal Judge Edgard Ribas Carneiro today ordered dissolution of the National Liberating alliance, a leftist organization.

BORAH ASSAILS PEACE PLANS OF LEAGUE NATIONS

Strict Neutrality Is Urged for United States.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 11.—[Special.]—Denouncing the proposed dismemberment of Ethiopia by Great Britain and France in the name of peace, Senator William E. Borah [Rep., Idaho], famous irreconcilable, let go both barrels today at the league of nations he did so much to keep us out of.

"A subservient instrument of imperialism" is what the league will be if it approves the plan, said the senator.

Incidentally, Mr. Borah, who is ranking minority member of the senate foreign relations committee and its former chairman, mildly admonished the Roosevelt administration to preserve strict neutrality in the war mess abroad. Presumably what he had in mind was the efforts of the President to bend our neutrality policy to coöperate with the league in the coercion of Italy.

Power for Mussolini.

"If the proposed plan to dismember Ethiopia is consummated it leaves Mussolini the most powerful figure in Europe," said Senator Borah. "He will have brought Great Britain and France to his terms—securing more than he in the beginning asked. He will have made the league an instrument to accomplish his own purpose in spite of the vital pledge in the covenant to preserve the territorial integrity of its members.

"Only a few days ago a distinguished visitor from England advised us of the high purposes of the league and told us how unfortunate it was that the United States was not a member. If this proposal goes through the league will become a subservient instrument of imperialism. It is fortunate, indeed, that we have taken the position of a neutral in this affair. We ought to adhere strictly to the doctrin of neutrality.

"It seems incredible that such a scheme as that proposed can be consummated and a helpless nation dismembered. But that is the proposal, and the proposal is made not by nations at war, but by nonbelligerents and in the name of peace."

Recent Events Cited.

International events in the last few years have given the little band of irreconcilables of a decade and a half ago many an occasion to say, "I told you so." They had told the country that the elaborate machinery of the league covenant to preserve peace by force would not work. This prediction was borne out by the failure of the league to protect China from dismemberment by Japan.

They had told the country that the league was merely an instrument of the European powers to do whatever it was in their interest to do. This view was borne out by the evolution of the measures adopted by the league to coerce Italy into abandonment of her imperialistic adventure in Africa.

It was apparent from the start that the league would take no action against Italy unless Great Britain willed it and Great Britain willed it because of concern over her position in Egypt and India if Italy were to succeed in swallowing Ethiopia. France was loath to act, but was brought into line by Great Britain through fear of losing British support in European situations of even greater import to the French.

Sanctions Are Limited.

Thus impelled by Britain and France the league declared Italy the aggressor in the African war and proceeded to apply economic sanctions to Italy. These sanctions were limited at the instance of Great Britain and France to an embargo by all league members of imports from Italy and an embargo of exports to Italy of certain "key" articles useful in the prosecution of hostilities. It was stated that complete economic sanctions were not imposed because of the lack of coöperation by nonleague members, notably the United States and Germany, from which Italy could continue to obtain supplies.

The Roosevelt administration, however, was eager to coöperate with the league in punishing Italy as an aggressor. Mr. Roosevelt himself had always been a strong advocate of the United States joining the league and the world court. He campaigned for Vice President on this issue in 1920. He renounced his attitude only when goaded by William Randolph Hearst in the spring of 1932 when Gov. Roosevelt needed Hearst support to get himself nominated.

Policy Based on Coöperation.

Once elected, President Roosevelt began to shape a foreign policy based on coöperation with the league. His ambassador at large, Norman Davis, at the disarmament conference in May, 1933, formally stated that if a disarmament agreement were achieved such coöperation would be forthcoming from Washington.

The disarmament conference failed, but Mr. Roosevelt adhered to his policy. In 1933 and 1934 he tried to get through congress a resolution granting him the widest discretion in laying embargoes on arms shipments to belligerents. Under such powers he would be able to discriminate among belligerents and confine the embargo to the belligerent declared by the league to be the aggressor. The senate, however, blocked his move.

Last summer the senate adopted a neutrality resolution making mandatory the imposition of an embargo on arms exports to all belligerents. Again the President sought to obtain discretionary power. A state department representative before the foreign relations committee assailed the senate measure on the ground that it would permit trade with an aggressor nation. The President tried unsuccessfully to get the senate resolution amended to his liking in the house. All he could get was a limitation of the life of the mandatory embargo act to six months.

As soon as the war in Africa broke out the President proclaimed the neutrality policy which he was accused of shaping to afford coöperation with the league against Italy. In order, however, to divest his moves of the appearance of collusion with the league he acted in advance of the league. He was the first to recognize a state of war between Italy and Ethiopia. He proclaimed the embargo on the export of arms, ammunition, and implements of war to both belligerents as directed by the neutrality act.

Goes Beyond Act.

Then he went beyond the act and declared that American citizens would engage in any transactions whatsoever with the belligerents at their own risk. Thus he proclaimed that the United States would not protect its citizens in neutral trade in noncontraband, in effect scrapping our traditional policy of freedom of the seas, for which we went to war with England in 1812 and Germany in 1917.

Critics of the administration pronounced the Roosevelt policy unneutral. They asserted that American citizens trading in noncontraband were entitled to the protection of their government. They declared Mussolini justified in regarding stoppage of oil shipments unfriendly. Then the administration began to modify its policy. It declared that shipments of oil and other noncontraband materials would be discouraged only to the extent that such exports exceeded peacetime levels. Mr. Ickes corrected his oil pronouncement to conform to the amended policy.

TAILOR IS SLAIN IN SHOP; POLICE HUNT A ROBBER

Peter Payer, 65 years old, was found shot to death last night in his basement tailor shop at 1939 North Hoyne avenue. The police advanced a theory that he had been killed in resisting a robber.

The body was discovered by Payer's wife, Mary, who was on the first floor of the building visiting her daughter, Mrs. Josephine Prszczek, when the shooting occurred. She told investigators that she heard a muffled noise that she did not connect with a shooting and went down to investigate.

A bullet had been fired into the head of the tailor. Close to his right hand was a hammer, and Capt. Charles Pawlowski of the Shakespeare avenue police said it appeared that Payer had attempted to defend himself with the tool.

QUIT PAMPERING PRISONERS WITH EXTRA BOLOGNA

All prisoners in Chicago's police station lockups must, in future, observe regular meal hours. The menu will be the same at all meals, consisting entirely of bologna sausage and bread.

WOMAN IS KILLED AND COMPANION INJURED BY AUTO

Mrs. Anna Jasko, 45 years old, 5345 South Morgan street, was killed and Mrs. Marie Bartosik, 48 years old, of the same address, was perhaps fatally injured when they were struck by an automobile as they were crossing the inner drive in Sherman park at 53d street last night.

William Irwin, 26 years old, 7509 South Chicago avenue, driver of the car, said the women walked out from the curb and that he did not have time to avoid hitting them.

Lawyer Is Arrested.

William Beye, 54 years old, 612 Franklin avenue, River Forest, an attorney, was arrested on a charge of reckless driving yesterday by the Austin police after his car collided with another machine and seriously injured Mrs. Lucy Scott, 33 years old, 2851 Lexington street, and Mrs. Annabelle Meale, 40 years old, 1101 South boulevard, Oak Park.

Stephen Delord, driver of the car in which the women were riding, told police that Beye was driving on the wrong side of the street.

Mrs. Conchetta Russo, 50 years old, 3058 Harrison street, was critically injured last night when she was struck by two speeding hit-and-run automobile drivers in front of 2948 Harrison street.

Held for Manslaughter.

A coroner's jury investigating the death of Mrs. Elizabeth Masterson, 65 years old, 5334 Ferdinand street, who was fatally injured by an automobile on Oct. 9, returned a verdict of manslaughter yesterday and recommended that the driver of the car, Paul Drake, 6116 Cermak road, be held to the grand jury on the charge.

Deputy Coroner Louis Nadherney yesterday denounced the coroner's jury which freed Walter Witz, 28 years old, 3325 Lincoln avenue, of blame in the death of Miss Sadie Mitkowski, 19 years old, 4508 North Pulaski road, who was killed on Nov. 20 after she had left Witz's car near 4200 South Harlem avenue in Stickney.

Edward Pearson, colored, 60 years old, 620 Barber street, died in the People's hospital last night of injuries suffered Nov. 16 when he was struck at Roosevelt road and Canal street by an automobile driven by Oscar La Pedus, 4548 North Spaulding avenue.

At 4 p. m. yesterday 949 persons had been killed in automobile accidents in Cook county since Jan. 1. During the same period, 16,756 persons were injured and 737 were killed in trafic accidents within Chicago.

Other deaths yesterday:

Anthony Atly, 8 years old, 2919 Lexington street. Struck by a truck at Van Buren and Whipple streets.

Mrs. Rebecca Goldberg, 70 years old, 1082 Thorndale avenue. Killed when struck at Sheridan road and Thorndale avenue by the automobile of F. W. Cornell, 27 years old, 1201 Hull terrace, Evanston, a salesman.

Bert Pickett, colored, 45 years old, 73 East 42d street.

Convict Freed by McNutt Confesses Crime.

a tire salesman. Bogue would testify, Piquett said, that on the date O'Malley was machine-gunned to death, he [Bogue] and Dillinger were in Florida.

Piquett succeeded in getting a court order permitting Bogue to confer with Dillinger alone in his cell—and Bogue was Dillinger's last visitor before the public enemy brashly walked out of jail on March 3.

Last fall Bogue went to Indiana authorities at the statehouse in Indianapolis. His offer to furnish the "inside" information which would show that Dillinger bribed his way out of jail was eagerly accepted, and he was placed on the state pay roll as an "informer."

Bogue gave his "hot" information to J. Edward Barce, deputy attorney general appointed to investigate the Michigan City prison break and Dillinger's "wooden gun" escape. Soon afterward Gov. McNutt issued statements that bribery played an important part in Dillinger's escape and that arrests would be made.

Official Kidnaping Is Failure.

They were. Eight Lake county residents, alleged to have conspired in the Dillinger "payoff," were kidnaped from their homes by Barce and state police and held incommunicado for several days. On Nov. 8 all were freed and it was learned Gov. McNutt's "exposure" had collapsed. Bogue was immediately warned to produce his "real" information in ten days, or get off the pay roll. He failed, and the state authorities washed their hands of him.

Brezak's case was different. On May 23, 1930, he and Frank Pauley and James Radecki were sentenced to 10 years in the Michigan City prison for the $21,000 robbery of the Maywood Trust and Savings bank in Hammond, Ind.

On Aug. 14 of this year the clemency commission of Indiana, whose three members are appointed by Gov. McNutt, recommended that all three robbers be granted two year conditionary paroles. Gov. McNutt approved the recommendation.

Pleas Open Prison Gates.

The commission's report explained that the stolen money had been returned to the bank, that the trial judge, M. J. Smith of Lake county, and the superintendent of the Hammond police had recommended leniency, and that each prisoner represented that a legitimate job was awaiting him on his release. So Brezak and his pals were turned loose.

How investigators picked up the trail which led to the capture of Brezak, Bogue, and the others, Capt. Gilbert and his assistant, Lieut. Thomas Kelly refused to disclose last night. They maintained that further investigation on the case is necessary, investigation which may lead to the arrest of others involved in an extensive conspiracy to steal gems and dispose of them through "fences."

Late Tuesday night, Capt. Gilbert revealed, his squads struck simultaneously at four places.

Raids Net Seven—and the Gems.

In the Emerald avenue saloon they seized Sullivan, Malin, and Brezak. They raided Brezak's home, the police said, and found fitted jeweler's cases with order books and several rings. Pishaw was arrested at his home.

Capt. Gilbert and Lieut. Kelly went to Hornstein's room in the Windermere hotel. They found Gordon there, placed him and Hornstein under arrest, and sat down to wait.

Bogue soon walked in, carrying a small duffle bag, according to Capt. Gilbert. He was seized, and in the bag the investigators found Jackson's jewels, wrapped in newspapers.

Bogue insisted during his questioning at the state's attorney's office yesterday that the police had "planted" the bag in the room, and that he had not brought it there. Neither he, Hornstein, nor Gordon would talk. Each demanded to see a lawyer. Brezak and the two seized with him admitted their guilt, Capt. Gilbert said, but refused to tell any details of the robbery.

Two Implicated Before.

Both Hornstein and Gordon have been implicated in previous robbery cases.

The robbery of Jackson last Sunday morning was the diamond company executive's third experience with Chicago gem thieves. The holdup occurred at Wabash avenue and Monroe street while Jackson and Joseph Raymond, 50 years old, 440 North State street, a sample case carrier, were making a tour of visits to downtown jewelry stores expected to make holiday purchases.

An automobile swerved to the curb and two men, identified by Jackson as Brezak and Malin, jumped off the running board. Brezak, armed with a revolver, forced the gem dealer into the car. Malin seized the sample cases, thrust Raymond back on the curb, and jumped into the car, which Sullivan is alleged to have been driving.

Jackson said his captors searched his clothing for unset stones, but found none. They threw him from the machine at East 21st street and the Illinois Central railroad tracks.

The arrests of the seven men were revealed yesterday morning when Attorney Abe Marovitz filed a petition for a writ of habeas corpus in behalf of Gordon and Hornstein with Chief Justice Denis J. Normoyle of the Criminal court. State's Attorney Courtney, when apprised of this, asked a continuance on the writ until this morning, explaining that he wished to question Gordon further.

Slayer Leopold Loses His Job as Stateville Parole Adviser

BY JAMES DOHERTY.

Prof. Ferris F. Laune, state sociologist and actuary assigned to the Stateville prison, also a lecturer on psychology at Northwestern university, lost the services yesterday of his convict assistant, Nathan Leopold. This happened because Leopold was credited with the authorship of an article entitled "Parole Prediction as Science," in which Laune is featured as a leading authority on the subject.

Despite Leopold's denial of authorship, Warden Joseph Ragen decided that Leopold's time—life and 99 years—could be spent better at other tasks than that of unofficial adviser to Prof. Laune, who is an adviser to the state parole board. Leopold was recently disclosed as an exponent of the theory that convicts are the best judges—better even than the parole board—of whether other convicts would travel the "straight and narrow" if paroled.

Leopold Named as Author.

A press service in a copyrighted story yesterday named Leopold as the author of the scientific parole prediction article appearing in an unidentified publication. The press service writer said that his information was obtained in confidence, that he was not permitted to name the publication, but that its editor was his authority.

Warden Ragen asked Leopold if he was the author of the parole article. Leopold said he wasn't. With little difficulty a copy of the article in question was obtained. It appeared in the September issue of the Journal of Criminal Law and Criminology, published by the Northwestern University Press. The author's name was given as William F. Lanne.

Prof. Laune said he didn't know Mr. Lanne. He said he was sure Leopold was not the writer. He explained a statement in the article which said Prof. Laune had given the author access to certain of his papers by saying that forty copies of a paper he has written on the subject had been distributed at the university.

Editor Is Also Silent.

The editor of the journal, Robert H. Gault, professor of psychology at Northwestern, said he didn't know any William F. Lanne. He, too, was bound by a confidence, he said, and he couldn't reveal the article's authorship.

Henry Barrett Chamberlin, operating director of the Chicago Crime commission, who is an associate director of the journal, could give no help in solving the authorship mystery. It was possible, he said, that Leopold, who normally will not be eligible for parole until 1957, had given his ideas on parole to Prof. Laune and then some one conceived the plan of having Leopold's ideas printed in the guise of an article calling attention to Prof. Laune's pet theories.

Publicity for the article could then be achieved, Mr. Chamberlin remarked, by crediting the article to Leopold. As an associate editor of the publication, Mr. Chamberlin said no press-agentry of its articles should be tolerated—at least, nothing of this kind.

Back to Correspondence School.

Leopold and Richard Loeb, sons of rich men, are both serving sentences of life and 99 years for the murder and kidnaping of Bobby Franks.

From now on Leopold will have to stick to his correspondence school work in the prison, Warden Ragen ruled, and no more articles on the subject of parole are expected to be attributed to him.

NAZI BANK CHIEF DISCLOSES RIFT WITH HITLER AIMS

Private Ventures Needed, Dr. Schacht Says.

BERLIN, Dec. 11.—(AP)—Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, minister for economics and head of the Reichsbank, came to grips with Reichsfuehrer Hitler tonight on the purposes of Socialism and capitalism.

Addressing a federal trade organization, Dr. Schacht asserted that individual success was based on community service, but "nobody can demand success from the community."

"Everybody must use his success to help society," he declared. "That is active Socialism, in nowise contradicting private initiative, which is the supporting force of sound economics and which a mere marketing organism cannot supplant."

Lauds Personal Factor.

This apparently was an attempt to refute the strict marketing principles of Walter Darre, Nazi commissioner of agriculture, as well as Hitler's speech three days ago in which Der Fuehrer cited state railroads as proof that "an enterprise serving the community can be conducted efficiently without private capitalist tendencies."

Schacht insisted that personal factors cannot be removed from overseas commerce and other kinds of trade.

"Merchants, like contractors, must assume the chances of winning or losing," he said. "Nobody should believe the state can alleviate losses or guarantee gains. Commerce, like agriculture, is based on small units depending upon the individual worker and his working capital."

Need Money For Arms.

Count Lutz von Krosigk, finance minister, asserted today that economic tasks such as building homes for the people must be postponed "until Germany's rearmament has reached the necessary level."

He told officials that Nazi rearmament plans had added several billion marks to the public debt. Germany's revenue from taxation, he said, had increased by two and one-half billion marks, but this did not meet the increased expenditure.

Passengergs and crews of incoming ships will be searched for Reichsbank notes, it was disclosed by customs authorities at Hamburg. If the number of passengers exceeds 50, they will be taken in closed auto buses to the nearest control station. Otherwise they will be examined on board ship.

The German government prohibited importation of Reichsbank notes Dec. 4 in an attempt to obtain more foreign exchange with which it could buy raw material.

Claims Middle Ages Ended with Hitler Rise to Power

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Dec. 11.—"The middle ages did not end with the discovery of America or with the Reformation, but with the assumption of power by Reichsfuehrer Hitler," Prof. Baumler told a gathering of Nazi teachers today at Berlin university. According to Prof. Baumler, the outstanding features of the middle ages were the "fatal strife between emperor and pope, war and priests. Under Hitler at last the Germanic spirit succeeded in fighting its way to freedom from the Roman spirit and thus initiated a new era." Prof. Baumler's theories will be taught in high schools.

HAUPTMANN CASE JUST A POLITICAL FOOTBALL IN N. J.

Hoffman and Moore Kick It Back and Forth.

Trenton, N. J., Dec. 11.—[Special.] —Gov. Hoffman's activities in connection with Bruno Richard Hauptmann settled down today into a personal controversy between Hoffman, a Republican, and his predecessor, A. Harry Moore, Democrat.

Gov. Hoffman issued a statement strongly intimating that former Gov. Moore had made a misstatement when he commented recently on the connection of Ellis Parker, Burlington county detective, with the search for the kidnaper of Charles A. Lindbergh Jr. The governor stated in detail what had happened between Parker and Moore, now United States senator.

"I stand on what I said before," Senator Moore replied. "Any way, this matter has nothing to do with the question of Hauptmann's guilt or innocence; it's all beside the point."

Text of Hoffman Statement.

The Hoffman statement said:

"The public press has published a statement attributed to Senator A. Harry Moore, former governor, to the effect that he did not request the services of Ellis Parker in investigating the Lindbergh crime.

"I cannot believe the former governor made this statement.

"Inasmuch, however, as the varacity of my statement has been questioned, I feel that I am justified in setting out the following facts:

"On March 11, 1932, George H. Hillman Jr. of Moorestown wrote to the secretary to the governor, on the stationery of the Democratic state committee of which he was a member, stating that Ellis Parker, chief detective of Burlington county, had been working on the Lindbergh case and that he had been in touch with some of the so-called underworld.

Moore Writes to Parker.

"Three days later, on March 15, Gov. Moore wrote to Chief Parker requesting him to exercise all of his ability in connection with the Lindbergh case and stating that he would be very glad to facilitate his efforts in any way possible.

"On Aug. 22 Parker wrote a letter to Col. Schwarzkopf asking for a photostatic copy of the original ransom note. On Aug. 24 Col. Schwarzkopf declined to give a copy of the ransom note to Parker.

"On Aug. 26 Parker wrote to Gov. Moore requesting him to aid him in obtaining a photostat copy of the original ransom note, in view of the governor's prior promise to facilitate Parker's investigation. That letter never was answered."

New Move Awaits Death Date.

Trenton, N. J., Dec. 11.—(AP)—Egbert Rosecranz, one of Bruno Richard Hauptmann's attorneys, said today he and his associates probably will wait until a new execution date is fixed by Supreme Court Justice Thomas W. Trenchard before making another move to save the convicted Lindbergh baby killer from the electric chair.

Rosecranz said he thought the defense would ask the court of pardons for clemency before asking for a new trial. An appeal to this court, even if denied, would not prevent seeking a new trial on the basis of newly discovered evidence.

CHURCH ALTAR RUINED BY FIRE; $15,000 DAMAGE

Damage estimated at more than $15,000 was caused early today by fire that swept through the St. Anthony of Padua Catholic church at 216 Kensington avenue. The altar was ruined by the flames and water, but the sacred vessels were saved, as were vestments in the sacristy.

The fire started in the basement and gained rapid headway. It was first discovered by the Rev. Vincent Maselli, assistant pastor, who was in the rectory adjoining the church. He aroused the Rev. Joseph Chiminello and both went into the church after calling the fire department to carry out movable property.

Built in 1894, the church had been remodeled and redecorated at a cost of several thousand dollars in the last year.

ALBERT B. FALL BAPTIZED INTO CATHOLIC CHURCH

El Paso, Tex., Dec. 11.—(AP)—The El Paso Times says Albert B. Fall, seriously ill with pneumonia, was baptized into the Roman Catholic church on his hospital bed yesterday.

The former United States senator and cabinet member was baptized by Father Albert Braun, pastor of a tiny Catholic church on the Mescalero Indian reservation in New Mexico and Fall's friend for many years.

Fall is the grandson of the late Rev. Phillip Slater Fall, who, with Alexander Campbell, withdrew from the Church of Scotland to form the Campbellite or Disciple of Christ church. The late Mr. Fall also founded the Brown Street Christian church in Nashville, Tenn.

UNION WARFARE BLAMED AS GANG SEIZES RECORDS

Holdup Timed to Block Audit, Say Police.

Police last night were scrutinizing the turbulent history of local 191 of the Painters and Decorators' union in an attempt to solve a holdup yesterday of the local's officials, from whom all the union's financial records were stolen. The records were being taken to be audited by international officers of the union at the time of the holdup.

Eight men in two automobiles effected the robbery, at 59th street and Union avenue, after overtaking the automobile of Gustav H. Fischer, 11935 Longwood drive, Blue Island, financial secretary of the union, and Joseph Oswald, 6432 Union avenue, recording secretary. Both men were emphatic in declaring that money was not the object of the robbers; that their purpose was to prevent the audit.

Election Follows Strife.

Fischer was elected financial secretary of the union last August, succeeding William L. Schaaf. The election followed years of strife and near violence between factions of the union. Detectives were working on the theory that the faction that went out at the last election had acted to block the audit in fear it might reveal irregularities.

Fischer and Oswald went to the local headquarters of the union at 5444 Wentworth avenue yesterday morning and placed the records in a black bag which they put in their automobile. They were bound for the Stevens hotel, where the international official were meeting. As the two men were driving west on 59th street four men in another car drove up beside them at Union avenue.

Two of the men entered the officials' car and forced them to drive half a block to 5822 Union avenue, where four other men were waiting in another car. The latter four had revolvers. They demanded money from Fischer, but he said he had none.

Seize Officials' Auto.

"Well, it must be in this black bag," one of the gunmen said. Fischer and Oswald were pushed from their car and several of the bandits drove away in the machine while the others departed in their own cars. The officials' automobile was found two hours later in the rear of 5520 Union avenue, but the black bag was gone.

On Dec. 2 Schaaf, the former financial secretary, was mysteriously shot and slightly wounded by two gunmen as he was driving his automobile in front of 944 West 63d street. One of the bullets grazed Schaaf's left eye.

Quiz Official in Bombing.

Last may James G. Dungan, business agent of the union, was arrested for questioning in connection with the bombing of a sausage plant at 449 West 37th street. The police had been informed that nonunion painters worked at the plant a few days before the explosion. Dungan later was released.

Dungan and five other men were arrested Aug. 2 at the union headquarters after police had received an anonymous telephone call that arms and ammunition would be found in the union rooms.

In wooden lockers in the building and in Dungan's car, parked outside, the police found six loaded guns. The men were later released.

German Newsies Must Prove 'Aryanism' Back to 1800

19 DRAW LOTS TO FIX GUILT IN RIOT TRIAL

10 Fined $150 Each; 9 Are Set Free.

Cambridge, Ill., Dec. 11.—[Special.] —Nineteen men accused of strike rioting drew lots here yesterday to determine their guilt, it was disclosed today. The ten losers pleaded guilty and paid fines of $150 each and the others were discharged.

The drawing was done in a law library adjacent to the courtroom soon after the trial had begun. Defense attorneys conducted it after a conference with State's Attorney Martin E. O'Connor.

Two Days Spent Picking Jury.

The men were charged with rioting at the Boss Glove company's factory in Kewanee during a strike there Oct. 14. Two days had been spent selecting a jury to hear the charges in the Henry county Circuit court of Judge Leonard E. Telleen.

The jury finally was drawn late yesterday afternoon and Prosecutor O'Connor made his opening statement. Then the suggestion was made that a conference of attorneys be held.

Defense attorneys at the conference were Joseph A. Padway of Milwaukee, general attorney for the American Federation of Labor; T. S. Lewis of Benton, Ill., attorney for the union to which the defendants belonged, and James Andrews of Kewanee, recently appointed head of the Illinois old age pension board.

Chip in to Pay Fines.

After Prosecutor O'Connor had conferred for a time with the attorneys and the defendants in the law library he left and the nineteen drew lots. Following the drawing the ten losers appeared before Judge Telleen and were fined. The state's attorney nol prossed the charges against the other nine men.

It was said all of the nineteen men contributed to a fund from which the fines of the ten losers were paid.

Asked about this strange system of meting out justice, State's Attorney O'Connor denied he had taken part in the drawing or had official knowledge of it.

"After selecting the jury," he said, "we came to an agreement that it would be just as well to nol pros the charges against the defendants who appeared less guilty.

"It seemed that the ends of justice would be served in that manner. I had nothing whatever to do with determining which of the men were to plead guilty."

Judge Telleen also denied all knowledge of the drawing. "The first I heard about it was when I read of it in a local newspaper," he said.

"All I know about it is that ten of the defendants pleaded guilty and that the state's attorney recommended the charges against the other nine be nol prossed.

"I understood the defense attorneys had made the suggestion that if ten pleaded guilty the charges against the others would be dropped. It was made, I understood, at a conference of all the parties concerned in the law library. The state's attorney was present some of the time."

Asked how State's Attorney O'Connor could "serve the ends of justice" by himself deciding which of the defendants were less guilty, Judge Telleen said:

"He knew what evidence he had on which to prosecute, and I understood that some of the evidence against several of the defendants was too meager to insure conviction."

LIGGETT DEATH TURNS LIGHT ON POLITICAL CRIME

Startled Community Demands Cleanup.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Minneapolis, Minn., Dec. 11.—[Special.]—The murder of Walter W. Liggett is bringing into the limelight earlier signs of devious connections between the underworld and politics. Today citizens, exhibiting some skepticism as to whether the crime may be solved, set up a shout for Minneapolis to clean up conditions and apprehend Liggett's killers.

Merrill Hutchinson, head of the Hennepin county branch of the Minnesota law and order league, put forth a demand for action. He dwelt on the sequence of killings in Minnesota—the slaying of Howard Guilford, editor of the Saturday Press, a critic of politicians and others, in September, 1934, and the assassination of Liggett, Monday. None was arrested in the Guilford killing. It is still unsolved.

Time Come to Act.

"For the second time in recent months," said Mr. Hutchinson, "a critic of public officials and racketeers has been silenced by ruthless killers. Certainly the time has come when the public can rightly ask if this is to be condoned and passed off as lightly by the enforcement authorities as was the killing of Howard Guilford. We question whether any of the local authorities can produce evidence to prove that any real effort was ever made to locate the Guilford murderer.

"Whatever may be the difference of opinion concerning the conduct of individuals, or political belief, surely we have not reached the stage where these matters are to be settled by bullets."

Liggett's onslaughts in his weekly journal were in two directions—against lords and lesser ones in the underworld and against public officials.

Linked Two Together.

In his writings he linked rackets and politics, charging that the racketeers depended upon protection by the politicians, and in savage language he charged both existed through connivance of government.

Liggett, who came from an old Minneapolis family—his father was on the faculty of the agricultural college for years—had been an adherent of Gov. Floyd Olson. He later left the governor's camp and became a critic. He had been waging a campaign for the impeachment of the governor and in the last issue of his paper just before his murder, he had published an open letter to the legislature making charges against the governor and asking that the executive either be impeached or Liggett be indicted for libel. Among the charges were some that slot machanies, gambling, liquor and complacence of appointees were tolerated by the governor and others.

No "Lid" for Years.

Minneapolis is known as a wide open town. For many years it has not known the lid. In some administrations it has been more open than others. Its geographical position used to make it one of the largest floating labor markets in the country, men from the wheat fields, the mines, the railroads, and the lumber camps making it their habitat between jobs.

The presence of large numbers of unattached men, years ago, gave portions of the city the aspects of a frontier town. The floaters nowadays, many of them, are in the bread line, but the open town still remains. Gambling, cheap liquor, dives, low priced night clubs, and honky-tonks run full tilt. Just now they are a little less open than in the former administration. It is much like other towns with large numbers of unmarried working men.

When prohibition was on the books and the gang war era was on full swing, some of the racketeers, bootleggers, moonshiners, and gunmen made this region a sort of sanctuary. With the lakes and woods affording hideouts, gangsters from Chicago and other points used to head into upper Wisconsin and Minnesota. A year or so ago J. Edgar Hoover, head of the G-men, declared that Minneapolis was "a breeding place of crime."

Labor Racketeers Flock In.

Labor racketeers, too, came in from outside. In the strike last year men from Cleveland, St. Louis, Toledo, and New York aided in fomenting the labor disturbances that led to much violence.

Since repeal the old northwest liquor ring has become a syndicate which deals in supposedly legal liquor. With cutting and flavoring and labeling going on as in the old days, some of the beverages are under suspicion.

The cultivated palate detects a Minnehaha flavor to Scotch which is said to be genuine, while some of the so-called aged whiskies seem a little enfeebled by Minnetonka waters, so outside the legalized liquor trade, the racketeering still seems to be profitable. Syndicates as elsewhere, too, according to police experts, try to chisel into night clubs and force them to purchase and dispense their wares, and the old muscling is not a dead art in these regions.

"Kid Cann," or Isadore Blumenfeld, whom Mrs. Liggett identified today as slayer of her husband and who is said by the police to have a "damned good alibi," was a member of the old northwest liquor ring.

Racketeers in Politics.

In political campaigns the racketeers, as in some other towns, took a hand in the activities, in some instances with campaign fund contributions. As elsewhere, they sought to "get on the right horse." Impartial observers here say that nearly all factions among the predominant political groups have had support, either in campaign funds or in votes and vote influence, from various of the racketeers.

The murdered Liggett dwelt upon this underworld phase in the accusations he made in his open letter against Gov. Olson.

"It is common knowledge," read one of his charges, "among the underworld that the liquor trafic has been carefully organized by personal appointees and political supporters of Gov. Olson so as to return a huge and illicit profit to certain protected interests.

"Tens of thousands of cases of contraband booze are smuggled into Minnesota with the connivance of the authorities; other legitimate brands are brought here and afterward diluted by a huge cutting factory which operates in North Minneapolis.

"Virtual control of the retail liquor trafic in Minneapolis has been turned over to a group known as 'the syndicate.' The chief member of the syndicate is Isadore Blumenfeld, alias Kid Cann, alias Harry Bloom, a former pimp and pickpocket, a bootlegger all during the prohibition period. He is a lifelong criminal and would have been put behind the bars long ago had he not been protected by Floyd Olson when he was county attorney of Hennepin county and now by his former deputy and successor, Ed J. Goff.

Calls Corruption Horrifying.

"It is common report in the underworld that the syndicate operates in defiance of the law because it pays bribes and splits its profits with certain men in influential posts.

"Investigation will reveal a cesspool of underworld corruption—with the connivance of elective officials—both city and state—which will astound and horrify the decent people of Minnesota.

"All of this closely revolves around the personal appointees of Floyd B. Olson and he cannot absolve himself of responsibility on the plea of ignorance."

In the background of the situation caused by the murder of two crusading weekly paper editors in fifteen months is the effort of politicians to destroy freedom of the press in Minnesota by a law passed in 1925. This law empowered the ruling authorities to suppress without trial by jury papers which published matter of "malicious, scandalous, or defamatory" nature.

The law would permit a county attorney to go into a court and make assertions against the paper and the judge alone would decide whether the paper should be suppressed.

Invoking Opens Fight.

When Gov. Olson was Hennepin county attorney this measure was invoked in 1927 against J. M. Near, publisher of the Saturday Press. This paper had charged gangland with running wild in Minneapolis and with laxity on the part of the police and mayor. An injunction to stop its publication was issued, and the state Supreme court held the law valid.

This attack upon freedom of the press led to a great court battle. The American Newspaper Publishers association gave $5,000 toward carrying Near's case to the United States Supreme court. Counsel for Near was engaged by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, individually. In 1931 the highest court in the land held the gag law of Minnesota unconstitutional because it destroyed freedom of the press as guaranteed by the basic law.

Then came the murder of Guilford, who had been associated with Near.

Liggett, who began his activities in Minneapolis about a year ago after operating as a publisher in other cities, was acquitted four weeks ago in a case which he charged was a "frame up." He had been indicted for a statutory offense. A short time before his trial and acquittal, Liggett was slugged, following a meeting with Cann, but swore out no complaint.

Schall Suggests Statues.

Speaking of the challenge to Minneapolis, the St. Paul Dispatch editorially said today: "Not the least part of the disgrace is the cool arrogance of the crime. Howard Guilford exposed the underworld and political corruption of the city and was murdered. Fourteen months later Liggett goes the same way. Not a hand was turned to clean up the conditions of which these men wrote. It was thought enough to dismiss the charges by impugning their motives.

"The police never acted against the racketeers, but Liggett was framed [and acquitted], then slugged, and is now murdered. The whole state will watch with profound interest to see how Minneapolis and Hennepin county meet this challenge."

In Washington Senator Schall [Rep., Minn.], proposed that statues be erected to the late Huey Long and two Minnesota editors who he said were slain "at the battlefront for good government in America."

The editors named were Walter Liggett and Howard Guilford. Both, he said, were "the first martyrs to the cause of American freedom of the press since the civil war."

Contending both were opposed to Gov. Olson of Minnesota, Schall said their lives were "snuffed out by communistic and underworld gunmen."

COL. M'CORMICK HITS ALLIANCE OF POLITICS AND CRIME IN MINN.

Asked by Editor and Publisher for a statement on the Liggett murder, Col. Robert R. McCormick, chairman of the Freedom of the Press committees of the American Newspaper Publishers' association, the American Society of Newspaper Editors, and the Inland Daily Press association, issued the following statement yesterday:

"It is evident that Liggett and Guilford were murdered because of their interference with that terrible alliance of crime and politics; the same alliance which caused the passage of the injunction law and the prosecution of Near. These murders were intended not only to silence the victims but to throw the entire press of the state under a reign of terror.

"It is the duty of the newspapers of America to take every act necessary to restore freedom of the press in Minnesota and unseat the murderous monsters in control of that state. If other means fail they should call upon the United States government to act under the clause of the constitution requiring it to guarantee a republican form of government in each state."

guard today lest her husband's killers make a new attempt to muzzle the paper by slaying her.

During the afternoon Mrs. Liggett, who had been in a state of collapse since the night of the murder, received reporters in her home.

The apartment was shabby, with worn rugs and furniture. Mrs. Liggett sat on a threadbare lounge, half supported by her sister, Caroline, who has come to Minneapolis from New York to aid the family.

She'll Carry on Paper.

"I'm going to try to continue to publish our paper, The Mid-West American," she informed newspaper men.

"We have no angel, and right now I'm penniless. I don't know where I'm going to get paper to put out the next issue, but somehow I expect to get it done.

"This paper of ours has been supported entirely on circulation and on the slight profit we had made out of a neighborhood shopping news publication we formerly published. When Walter was indicted in the frameup sex trial last summer we lost some of the circulation and advertising of our neighborhood paper.

Reader Average High.

"Then, during the trial from Nov. 4 to Nov. 9, and during the last week in October when he was slugged and so severely beaten he was sent to a hospital, the rest of it got away.

"Our paper has a circulation of around 50,000—although our weekly press run was only 5,000 copies. Actually, and we had proved this in tests carried on all over Minnesota, each issue of our paper had an average of ten readers. It was passed along from hand to hand. That's what made it hurt so much.

"I expect to go on until I have made the men who killed Walter Liggett pay, and the racketeers of this town who undoubtedly hired or ordered them to kill him pay, and also see that the politicians who protect the gangsters and racketeers are cleaned out of office."

Receives Reporters in Home.

Before the grand jury today appeared A. B. Gilbert, Republican candidate for governor in the last election and last man to see Liggett alive. Gilbert had told friends Liggett considered the possibility of assassination and carried a .38 caliber pistol.

"Walter told some friends," Gilbert related, "that he thought the same gang that got Howard Guilford might try and get him."

Mrs. Liggett said she had documentary proof that every charge her husband made in his paper against Gov. Olson, Mayor Latimer, and County Attorney Goff was true. She said that she would be willing to bring this proof before the state legislature—as her husband would have wanted her to do—at any time.

Starts Fund for Family.

New York, Dec. 11.—(AP)—Editor and Publisher will announce in its forthcoming issue plans for a fund to aid the widow and children of Walter Liggett, weekly newspaper publisher, who was slain in Minneapolis Monday night, Arthur T. Robb, managing editor, said tonight.

Robb said Editor and Publisher had been requested by a large number of newspaper executives to establish and manage such a fund.

SABATH'S FIRM EXPLAINS ACTS IN 77-B INQUIRY

Defends Its Handling of Bankruptcy Case.

Congressman Adolph J. Sabath, senior member of a Chicago law firm, which was criticized by Federal Judge John P. Barnes last week for its work on a bondholders' reorganization case, announced yesterday that a congressional committee to investigate bondholders' reorganization rackets will resume hearings in the United States courthouse Monday. Mr. Sabath is chairman of the committee.

The congressman's law firm is Sabath, Perlman, Goodman, and Rein, and the case which brought it under fire from the judge [he vacated fees of $6,400 that had been previously awarded the firm] was that of the Northwest Building corporation. One of the properties involved is the Northway hotel, a 99 apartment structure at Milwaukee and Diversey avenues.

The $250 Lease Episode.

Originally, foreclosure proceedings were started in the Circuit court, and while that court had jurisdiction a lease on the Northway hotel was let at a figure of only $250 a month. Later, following a procedure that has become common, the case was transferred to the federal court under the provisions of section 77-B of the amended federal bankruptcy law. This section permits the scaling down of debts with the consent of two-thirds of the creditors.

In order to get the transfer from the state courts Attorney Charles Haffenberg—not connected in any way with the Sabath firm—filed a petition bearing the names of bondholders who had not been consulted; a fact that was brought out in Judge Barnes' investigation of fee splitting and other reorganization irregularities.

Sabath Firm Defends Actions.

The Sabath firm yesterday issued a statement defending its actions in connection with the case.

"The [$250] lease was made Jan. 1, 1932, nearly two years before this firm was retained in the matter or had any connection with it, this statement related.

"The only reasons assigned by Judge Barnes for the order vacating the allowance of fees was that this firm should have pointed out to him the desirability of canceling the lease, and should have ascertained that the petition, filed by another lawyer under section 77-B, was signed without authority of the petitioning bondholders.

No Mention of Appeal.

"There was no reason whatever for us to suspect the authenticity of the petition so filed. As to the continuance of the lease, in the drafting of the plan of reorganization our firm saw to it that provision was made for the delivery of the property, free and clear of all claims, which necessarily involved the cancelation of the lease, and we coöperated to the fullest extent in finally forcing the surrender of the lease."

There was no indication in the statement whether the law firm would take advantage of Judge Barnes' suggestion that it should, if dissatisfied by his action, take an appeal.

The judge indicated that he saw no reason for changing his mind. However, he added, when the point of the inadequacy of the amount of rental was raised [the property has since been leased for $850 a month] Congressman Sabath's firm had lent its aid in the concellation.

Leaton's Version Varies.

Attorney James C. Leaton, who has been acting as a friend of the court during Judge Barnes' investigation, said that the Sabath firm had approved a reorganization plan that would have allowed the Northway property to remain in the hands of the people who had the $250 lease.

Mr. Leaton yesterday turned over to the Chicago Bar association a transcript of the record of the whole of Judge Barnes' investigation, with the jurist's recommendation that the association look into charges of fee-spliting and the instigation of litigation by attorneys without authority.

Attorney Charles A. Williams yesterday turned over to Judge Barnes all of his records in connection with bankruptcy cases he has filed in Federal court under the amended bankduptcy act. This purged the attorney of threatened contempt proceedings. Judge Barnes had indicated last week he would institute such proceedings unless Mr. Williams gave the information demanded.

Attorney Williams is to have a hearing in court on Dec. 19.

TAKES OWN LIFE

MRS. HAZEL BROGI.
[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Faced with federal prosecution for nonpayment of $675 in taxes said to have been levied on illicit liquor she had been selling from her home at 2721 North Ashland avenue, Mrs. Hazel Brogi, 31 years old, mother of two children, shot herself fatally with a .45 automatic pistol in her home last night. Her husband, Jacinto, operator of a tavern at 959 Diversey avenue, heard the shot from another room. He called the Sheffield police. Capt. Thomas Duffy said he was certain it was a case of suicide. Today was to have been Mrs. Brogi's last chance to pay the liquor taxes. A sister, Mrs. Eva Maracini, told the police that Mrs. Brogi had been despondent over inability to pay.

ST. PAUL PAPER URGES FUND TO FIGHT SLAYERS

St. Paul, Minn., Dec. 11.—(AP)—Assassination of Walter Liggett tonight stirred Leo E. Owens, publisher of the St. Paul Pioneer Press-Dispatch, to demand "vindication of justice" through funds contributed by the American press.

Owens, in a telegram to Editor and Publisher, urged establishment of the fund by newspapers to finance defense of freedom of the press. His telegram follows:

"The murder of Walter Liggett is one of the most arrogant challenges to freedom of press in the history of this country. The St. Paul Pioneer Press and Dispatch believe that the challenge cannot be allowed to go unanswered by the press of America and it proposes establishment of a fund by newspapers to be used, not only in vindication of justice in the Liggett case, but to finance defense of freedom of press whenever and wherever it may be similarly challenged in the future.

"Let the newspapers of America serve notice on the underworld that the combined power of the press will be thrown into relentless action against racketeers and corrupt politicians who may attack any editor or publisher for his rightful expression of opinion or exposure of corruption."

2 LABATT KIDNAP SUSPECTS TAKEN IN STREET CHASE

G-Men and Mountie Nab Pair at Ottawa, Ill.

A sergeant of the Canadian mounted police, assisted by United States department of justice agents, yesterday captured two men suspected of a part in the kidnaping of John S. Labatt, millionaire Canadian brewer, in 1934. The suspects were seized after a street chase in Ottawa, Ill.

One of them is Russell Knowles, for whose arrest the Canadian government has offered a reward of $5,000. His companion was identified as Herman Kierdorff.

Prisoners Brought to Chicago.

The two kidnaping suspects were brought to Chicago. Herman Herbst, a Joliet bootlegger, who once served two years in the federal penitentiary at Leavenworth, was arrested with them. He was locked in the La Salle county jail at Ottawa on a charge of carrying concealed weapons after a revolver was found on his person. Herbst was not connected with the kidnaping case, the Canadian sergeant said.

Knowles, it was learned, has been sought for fourteen months. The Canadian sergeant and the department of justice agents, none of whom gave their names to Ottawa officials, arrived in Ottawa Tuesday evening on information that the two suspects were hiding there.

When Knowles, Kierdorff, and Herbst walked out of a hotel yesterday the agents tried to collar them. The three men broke away and fled. They were captured after a short chase.

Labatt was kidnaped on Aug. 14, 1934, on a highway between Sarnia and London, Ont. He was held captive for three days and $150,000 ransom was demanded, but Labatt has always denied that he paid anything for his release.

Knowles was implicated in the affair by Michael McArdell, who was captured in Hammond last July and confessed he was one of the kidnapers. Kierdorff's alleged part was told by J. Edgar Hoover, head of the justice department's bureau of investigation in Washington. Hoover said the kidnaping plans were laid at a Detroit resort, of which Kierdorff was the owner.

PROBATION ON THEFT CHARGE.

Sven Anderson, 29 years old, 911 School street, was placed on probation for one year when he was arraigned before Judge Matthew D. Hartigan in the Felony court yesterday on charges of petty larceny.

ELEVATED TRAINS CRASH IN LOOP; LINES TIED UP

Travel on west side elevated lines was delayed 30 minutes last evening by a collision of trains near the State-Lake station.

The trains involved were a two-car Humboldt Park and a three-car Garfield Park. Both had drawn away from the station after halting to take on passengers. For some reason, not yet adequately explained, the Humboldt Park train came to a sudden stop and its rear car was struck heavily by the first car of the Garfield Park train.

The colliding ends of the two cars were splintered. Passengers on both trains, which were well filled, were severely shaken. Miss Kathleen Wagner, 28 years old, 3533 Le Moyne street, suffered a wrenched knee and was treated by a physician. Mrs. James Kavanagh, 5322 Oakdale avenue, was bruised and received treatment from a physician.

William Luderhose, 2307 North Monticello avenue, was motorman of the first train and Emil Von Kenel, 1412 Marengo avenue, Forest Park, of the second. The accident took place at 6:05 p. m. and the tracks were clear about 7 p. m.

FALL IN HOME CAUSES DEATH.

Stanley Siminski, 40 years old, 8538 Green Bay avenue, a laborer, died in the South Shore hospital yesterday of injuries incurred Sunday when he fell on a stairway in his home.

PRESIDENT BIDS FOR SUPPORT OF HUEY LONG MEN

Praises Educational Work of Late Senator.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 11.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt today made a bid for the votes of the following of the late Senator Huey P. Long by praising the assassinated Louisiana leader as an educator before state directors of education for 36 states.

The President spoke informally to the group in the executive offices. Reporters were invited to hear his remarks but were cautioned against quoting the President by Assistant White House Secretary Stephen Early after Long's name was mentioned in the extemporaneous speech.

Relief Funds Used.

Long was praised after Mr. Roosevelt read figures to show that 43,000 teachers were put to work by relief funds under the emergency education program and that more than 500,000 men and women had been taught to read and write. Teaching the illiterate to read and write, he continued, was one of the reasons for the popularity of the late great senator of Louisiana, in his own state.

The success of Long he stated was one reason for the government's going ahead with an educational program. To date, he added, only the surface has been scratched and the government proposes to go ahead with other efforts on education.

Concerned Over Long Forces.

The lauding of Long came on Mr. Roosevelt's first full day back at the White House from Chicago, where he made an appeal for farm votes and South Bend, Ind., where he made a gesture for the Catholic vote. Party leaders have been concerned over chances for the capture of the Long voters by the New Deal in the 1936 campaign.

Mr. Roosevelt told the educators that every effort is being made to trim down the budget for the campaign year with a concentration on keeping relief expenditures as low as possible. He confessed that he stretched the law in providing for education through relief funds.

He said he had frankly stretched the law in employing teachers on relief rolls and providing for boys and girls to complete their education under the national youth administration. He asserted that he will continue to stretch it.

Has Policy in Mind.

He warned the educators not to expect too much from the administration in the coming year, but he hopes to get somewhere. He indicated that he has a permanent national policy in mind to propose if he should be reëlected.

N. Y. REPUBLICANS FAVOR CHICAGO FOR CONVENTION

New York, Dec. 11.—[Special.]—Chicago was favored as the scene of the Republican national convention at a meeting of the executive committee of the Republican state committee held at the National Republican club today.

The executive committee went on record as asking Charles D. Hilles, national committeeman, and Mrs. Ruth Pratt, national committeewoman, to urge the selection of Chicago on the national committee meeting in Washington next Monday when the site of the convention which will nominate a presidential candidate will be chosen.

The leaders attending the meeting were unanimous in asking that Chicago be voted as the scene for the convention, particularly because they felt they would be more sure of obtaining adequate hotel accommodations there than in any of the other cities mentioned, which have included Cleveland and St. Louis.

Officials Wink at 32 Millions Plundered Annually at Mines

Philadelphia, Pa., Dec. 11.—[Special.]—The interworkings of radical theories and practical politics are seen here in the failure of authorities to halt the growing wide-spread theft of coal from mine properties which are not being operated by their owners. This "independent mining" or "bootlegging," as it is euphemistically called, has reached the point where an estimated four million tons of stolen anthracite worth $32,000,000 is being sold annually in eastern markets.

Although protests have been made by the anthracite industry to Gov. George H. Earle and to Attorney General Charles J. Margiotti, the stolen coal continues to feed the furnaces in Philadelphia, New York, and many other communities within a distance of 300 miles of the mines. In this city the bootleg fuel arrives at the rate of more than 9,000 tons a week.

Practice Traced to Pinchot.

The practice of open theft developed under the administration of Gov Gifford Pinchot. Local authorities in the mountainous region of eastern Pennsylvania have reflected the attitude of their electorates, which are overwhelmingly sympathetic with the bootleggers.

Recently Attorney General Margiotti told the operators to serve the sherifs with formal "requests" to clear the bootleggers from specific tracts of ground. Only if the sherifs then refuse to comply will the state take action, the operators said they were told.

Because of the ingrained notion that they have some sort of "squatters' rights" to the coal, the bootleggers would be apt to resist even the state police, as shown by an encounter a year ago. The bootleggers put up a stubborn battle.

Juries Refuse to Convict.

Those few arrests that have been made resulted in acquittals even where judges instructed juries to return verdicts of guilty.

"The earth belongs to everybody and what's in it is ours for the taking," was the philosophy expressed by one of the "independent miners," who have formed a union of their own.

In general, their contention is that they were thrown out of work when collieries shut down, and that they had to turn to the only thing they knew—coal mining—to fill family larders. However, a survey made by the Anthracite institute indicated that only 35 per cent of the men have had experience as certified miners, while 17 per cent never had been employed previously in any gainful occupation.

Nearly Half on Relief Rolls.

This survey also showed that 41 per cent of the men are receiving federal relief.

About 13,700 persons, including a few women and children, are engaged in mining the coal, and another 1,000 are busy preparing it for sale. An additional 6,000 men spend their time trucking the coal to markets.

The bootleg mines dot the Pennsylvania anthracite field like prairie dog burrows. Because they are crudely shored up, many fatal accidents have occurred. On several occasions regular mine operators have furnished rescue squads to save the lives of poachers on nearby property.

A typical mine inspected recently by the representative of one of the regular operators was 42 feet deep, and timbered near the surface in an effort to prevent cave-ins. Two men there were hoisting coal in a 25 gallon oil drum with an improvised windlass and a half inch manila rope. They told the investigator it had taken four men five weeks to sink the shaft.

Cleaning Process Is Primitive.

The mine run coal, the investigator was told, was brought to the surface and thrown over crude screens where the slack coal is removed and discarded. The remaining product is sold for about $3.50 a ton to "shuttle truck" operators who take it to a preparation plant and resell it at a small margin.

Often Operate at a Loss.

Put in the consumer's bin, the current sale price for stove size bootleg coal is around $10.50. Often the trucker operates at a loss after paying all his expenses.

Louis C. Madeira III., executive secretary of the Anthracite institute, pointed out that the owners of the property would require an army of watchmen, on duty day and night, to police their land.

"The great size of the territory, 500 square miles, and the general topography of Schuylkill, Northumberland, and Columbia counties," he said, "have made it a difficult and costly job for us to merely survey the situation."

YOUTHS ADMIT TEN BURGLARIES.

Joseph Kelley, 22 years old, and William Kose, 21 years old, who were arrested yesterday in their room at 2202 North Clark street by Hudson avenue police, admitted participation in ten burglaries on the north and northwest sides.

NEW DEAL RESTS ON BRIEF IN ITS DEFENSE OF AAA

Wallace Is Preparing for Unfavorable Ruling.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 11.—[Special.]—The New Deal today abruptly rested its Supreme court defense of the agricultural adjustment act and the Bankhead cotton control act. The excuse given was the illness of Solicitor General Stanley S. Reed, who collapsed in court yesterday under the impact of a stinging fire of criticism by the justices.

As the government's chief law officer, Reed had 45 more minutes in which to argue orally in behalf of the constitutionality of the cotton act. He was confined to his bed today and it was announced that the administration would rely upon the printed briefs already submitted without further oral debate.

Tells of Committee.

Meanwhile, Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace revealed that he is prepared for an unfavorable Supreme court ruling on the AAA processing taxes and on the cotton act. In the case of the former, he declared, a group, to which he referred as "a mysterious committee," is working on a substitute farm aid plan which will be presented to congress the moment the high court rules against the taxes.

The secretary of agriculture refused to make public the membership of this committee nor to speculate upon the form the administration's new agricultural plan might take in case the high court declares processing taxes invalid. In any case, he asserted, the department of agriculture will go ahead with benefit payments to farmers in 1936, although the money must be taken from the treasury instead of from processing tax collections.

"Prepared," Wallace Says.

"We're prepared," said Wallace when asked what the administration would do in the event of an unfavorable Supreme court decision. His announcement coupled with the government's decision to discontinue further oral arguments in the court strengthened the general opinion in official circles that the nine justices early next year will hand down opinions severely crippling the New Deal agricultural program on the ground that it violates the constitution.

Reed had drawn the fire of the justices when he evaded argument on the constitutionality of the Bankhead act and sought to interpose technical objections to the suit of Lee Moor, a Texas planter, by intimating that his petition had been filed through collusion with the defendant, the Texas and New Orleans railroad.

BOY IN LOVE TRIANGLE SENTENCED TO DEATH BY CANADIAN COURT

PEMBROKE, Ont., Dec. 11.—(AP)—Baby-faced Allan Cowan, 17, was sentenced today to be hanged on Feb. 27 for the murder of his brother, Albert, in what the crown charged was a plot conceived by Albert's wife. The wife, Mrs. Mary Cowan, now is on trial for the murder.

"I am very, very sorry for what I did," the youth told Justice Kieler MacKay before the sentence was pronounced.

Allan confessed he thrust a rifle through his brother's bedroom window while Albert was asleep in his home at Barry's Bay last July 21 and fired a shot into his head. Letters read during his trial indicated Mrs. Cowan was fond of her brother-in-law and in a confession admitted as evidence Allan said Mary had urged him to "do the job."

DON'T SLEEP ON LEFT SIDE, AFFECTS HEART

Gas Pressure May Cause Discomfort. Right side best

If you toss in bed and can't sleep on right side, try Adlerika. Just ONE does relieves stomach GAS pressing on heart so you sleep soundly all night.

Adlerika acts on BOTH upper and lower bowels and brings out foul matter you would never believe was in your system. This old matter may have poisoned you for months and caused GAS, sour stomach, headache or nervousness.

Dr. H. L. Shoub, New York, reports: "In addition to intestinal cleansing, Adlerika greatly reduces bacteria and colon bacilli."

Mrs. Jos. Filler: "Gas on my stomach was so bad I could not eat or sleep. Even my heart hurt. The first dose of Adlerika brought me relief. Now I eat as I wish, sleep fine, and never felt better."

Give your stomach and bowels a REAL cleansing with Adlerika and see how good you feel. Just ONE dose relieves GAS and chronic constipation. Sold by all druggists and drug departments.

Look! "ahead" to the future

aided by shampoos with Cuticura Soap, will keep the scalp clean and help to prevent dandruff and itching scalp irritations which cause falling hair and baldness.

Ointment 25c and 50c. Soap 25c. Sold at all druggists.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. Your whole system is poisoned and you feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.

Laxatives are only makeshifts. A mere bowel movement doesn't get at the cause. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up". Harmless, gentle, yet amazing in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name. Stubbornly refuse anything else. 25c.

TOWNSEND PLAN WOULD BANKRUPT U. S., IS WARNING

Crusader Urges 2 Parties to Meet Issue.

A warning that the Townsend old age pension plan, if put into effect, would drive the nation into collapse and bankruptcy was sounded yesterday by Seymour Wheeler, Chicago leader of the Crusaders, a nonpartisan patriotic organization. The transaction tax suggested by Townsend followers as a means of defraying the annual 20 billion dollar cost of the plan is "the most vicious kind of sales tax and would make all prices practically prohibitive," Mr. Wheeler said.

The plan, put forth by Dr. F. E. Townsend of California, proposes pensions of $200 a month for every person in the country over the age of 60. The Crusaders have maintained in radio broadcasts that the "fantastic scheme" of raising this money by a transaction tax is an issue that should be met squarely by both major political parties.

Fred G. Clark of Mentor, O., national commander of the Crusaders, will make another radio address at 6:45 tonight over the Mutual Broadcasting system. Mr. Clark's contention is that the Townsend plan "as now advocated will destroy commercial activity in this country more rapidly than anything else."

Calls It "Political Menace."

"The plan is the greatest menace in the present political situation," said Mr. Wheeler. "Cutting across party lines, the Townsendites have confused the clear cut issue between the major parties. The Townsend group is well organized.

"It claims several million members and whether this claim is accurate or not, the fact remains that capable leaders are making the most of that membership and are attempting to use it as a balance of power group in much the same way that the Anti-Saloon league employed when it had almost complete control of congress a decade ago. Incidentally, it is reported that many of the organizers then employed by the Anti-Saloon league are now in the pay of the Townsend group."

Warns of Transaction Tax.

Mr. Wheeler declared that the plan and its consequences will be "almost too disastrous to contemplate" unless people are awakened to the danger. Discussing the proposed transaction tax on an automobile, for instance, Mr. Wheeler pointed out that every piece of material going into the making of the car would be taxed "again and again" before it was incorporated in the finished product.

Declaring the country could not carry the burden the plan would involve, he said:

"The tax income of all federal, state, county, and city governments is estimated at about 15 billion dollars a year. The estimated cost of the Townsend plan is 20 billion dollars a year, making a total tax bill of 35 billion dollars. The national income, which after all is the purchasing power, was approximately 50 billion dollars last year. Thus the cost of government and the Townsend plan combined would have taken 70 per cent of last year's national income."

PRINCIPAL BARES EMBEZZLEMENT; TO PLEAD GUILTY

Charles S. Winslow, 59 years old, principal of the Lake View High school evening school, who was suspended by the board of education on Nov. 27 because he was $9,954 short in his accounts, admitted yesterday to Assistant State's Attorney Leslie Salter that he had taken the money for household expenses. He declared that he is ready to plead guilty to embezzlement charges when he is arraigned this morning before Judge Matthew D. Hartigan in the Felony court.

Winslow, who lives at 4222 North Ashland avenue, has been in the school system for 30 years. He is being held at the Warren avenue station on the embezzlement charge.

As a result of his embezzlement the board of education voted yesterday to require bonds ranging from $1,000 to $20,000 for all principals and treasurers of funds employed in the school system.

For Bad Cough, Mix This Better Remedy, at Home

Needs No Cooking! Big Saving!

You'll be pleasantly surprised when you make up this home mixture and try it for a distressing cough. It's no trouble to mix, and costs but a trifle, yet it can be depended upon to give quick and lasting relief.

Make a syrup by stirring 2 cups of granulated sugar and one cup of water for a few moments until dissolved. No cooking needed. Get 2½ ounces of Pinex from any druggist, put it into a pint bottle, and fill up with your sugar syrup. The pint thus made gives you four times as much cough remedy for your money, yet it is far more effective than ready-made medicine. Keeps perfectly and tastes fine.

This home-mixed remedy has a remarkable three-fold action. It soothes the irritated membranes, loosens the phlegm, and helps clear the air passages. Thus it makes breathing easy, and lets you get restful sleep.

Pinex is a compound of Norway Pine, in concentrated form, famous for its effect in stopping coughs quickly. Money refunded if it does not please you in every way.

Mrs. Robert Lincoln Hoyal.

Mrs. Robert Lincoln Hoyal of Douglas, Ariz., director of the women's division of the Republican national committee, officially opened her offices in the Palmer house yesterday as headquarters for the west and announced the features of the 1936 women's campaign.

Beginning early in January, she said, "schools of politics" will be organized in 38 states. These, headed by prominent women, will concentrate on the first point of the campaign—"giving factual education to our women."

"They will talk," Mrs. Hoyal said, "of the issues of the day, and of the effect of the New Deal policies on women—the effect of the AAA on the high cost of living, of discrimination against professional women—and of broken Democratic promises."

"Teachers" in the schools of politics probably will be named in Chicago, Mrs. Hoyal said, and will work in Democratic and Republican sections alike.

"You'd be surprised," she said, "at the number of letters we've had lately from Democratic women. We find many of them are opposed to the New Deal, and they want information—so we're prepared to give it to them."

Mrs. Hoyal is a past president of the American Legion auxiliary, was a member of the 1932 Republican speakers' committee, and is national committeewoman from Arizona. She will divide her time between her Chicago and Washington offices.

Grayson is Reappointed as Red Cross Chairman

Washington, D. C., Dec. 11.—(AP)—President Roosevelt today reappointed Rear Admiral Cary T. Grayson, retired, as chairman of the American Red Cross. The announcement was made coincident with the organization's annual meeting. Grayson last January succeeded the late John Barton Payne. The Presidential appointments are made for one year.

TAX NEW DEAL! URGES ATTORNEY GENERAL OF OHIO

Speaker Hits Invasion of Private Fields.

BY PARKE BROWN.

John W. Bricker, attorney general of Ohio and probably the state's next Republican nominee for governor, gave the weekly Republican round table at the Hamilton club yesterday noon a change of mental diet.

With great vigor, he presented to his audience the question whether state sovereignty is to be completely wrecked by the New Deal.

"The Republican party," he said, "is called on now to curb the constant increase in the objects of the federal government."

He approached this subject by relating that when the state of Ohio went into the liquor business the courts held that part of the state's business was subject to federal taxation. He said this raised the important question, yet unanswered, whether federal invasion of the private business field within a state is not subject to the regular taxes of that state.

Real Conflict Promised.

"There promises to be real conflict over this question of the rights of the states," he said. "In Ohio we take the position that they shall not be changed except by the will of the sovereign people.

"In the last three years," said Bricker, "the federal government has put into effect forty-three new forms of taxation. They now levy taxes formerly left to the states, among them the gasoline tax and the inheritance tax. And they are considering right now the adoption of a manufacturers' sales tax and even a general property tax.

"Having deprived the states of fields of taxation necessary for the raising of money, they now turn back to the states the task of meeting the relief problem they put on its present basis."

Dawes Introduces Speaker.

In introducing the speaker former Vice President Charles G. Dawes predicted that the 1936 campaign will be the McKinley campaign of 1896 "all over again."

"There is no room for trimmers in the Republican party," said Gen. Dawes. "There is no room for candidates who seek to compromise.

"The candidate will fit the platform, because it will be fought out, principle by principle, just as it was in '96."

NO WARANTS; 24 DISMISSED.

Twenty-four men, arrested Tuesday in police raids on 12 alleged handbooks, were discharged yesterday by Municipal Judge Eugene J. Holland, because the police had failed to obtain search warrants.

CALLS PRESIDENT EMBITTERED FOE OF U. S. BUSINESS

C. M'Cormick Cites His 'True Character.'

Chauncey McCormick, in an address before the Men's club of the People's Liberal church, 65th street and Stewart avenue, last night declared that three years in the White House have "disclosed the true character" of President Roosevelt.

"First of all," he said, "we know him today as a man who is opposed to and fights all things he can never be. Business, particularly successful business, he abhors. He was apparently never able to succeed in it or to understand it.

Cites Enmity to Business.

"Men who were his associates in school and college have later achieved national prominence in business and have become public benefactors in those fields where he failed. He has lived to see them praised and looked up to as the builders of the nation. He has seen them creating great pay rolls for other men to live by while he, presumably, was supported on a dole from his father's estate, carefully guarded by chosen trustees from any follies he might propose.

"Do you wonder he has come to hate it all? Do you wonder he so easily lent a ready ear to such schemes as in Russia wiped out at one fell swoop all private business, all free, independent, private pay rolls?

"No Personal Experience."

"I can find no record of his ever having made good on a private pay roll, no record that he ever risked his all to create a pay roll for others to live by, no account that he ever sat up nights figuring where he would find money to pay the boys down at the works when the noon whistle blew.

"Those hopes, and fears, and plannings that so many business men have gone through to create bigger and better pay rolls have apparently been strangers in his experience."

SEE NEW LINEUP AS BORAH AND CURTIS CONFER

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 11.—[Special.]—Possible realignment of candidates for the Republican nomination next year was seen here today when Senator William E. Borah [Rep., Idaho], widely mentioned as a candidate, conferred with former Vice President Charles Curtis, a supporter of Gov. Alf Landon of Kansas.

Beyond admitting that they discussed politics, neither would discuss the meeting. They evidently canvassed the outlook within the Republican party as well as the possibility of Republican victory over President Roosevelt.

Senator Borah, according to indications, regards himself as a stalking horse in the Republican convention, believing that his rôle will be to prevent the nomination of any candidate put forward by the eastern Old Guard. Gov. Landon's best chances for nomination lie in the possibility that he might be selected as the compromise candidate after Borah and the Old Guard have checkmated each other.

For this reason, Curtis' visit to Borah appeared to have particular significance. Whether he entered a bid for Borah's switching to Landon in the event of a convention deadlock is not known. Curtis and Borah have coöperated in political maneuvers before; Borah made the nominating speech when Curtis was selected as the Republican vice presidential candidate in 1928.

Guests Driven to Street as Decatur Hotel Burns

Decatur, Ill., Dec. 11.—(AP)—Fire which started early today destroyed the Decatur hotel and drove a score of persons to the streets. Loss of the building, a two-story structure, was estimated at $50,000. Fire Capt. John W. Wallace was injured when he fell down an ice sheathed stairway.

MANDEL BROTHERS MEN'S . . . SHOPS

WHAT'S in THE "POST" this week

RICHARD SHERMAN ..... takes you back to 1925, the year Jock and Mary were married. Remember Valencia, speakeasies, easy money and the shingled bob? The boom years. He was successful. She was beautiful. They started on the crest—and followed the wave down. A decade later they looked back and wondered what they had, for they had not understood the words "in sickness and in health, for richer for poorer." But Bill, their friend, tells them in a brief entitled, "To Mary With Love."

MAJOR JOHN W. THOMASON, JR. brings you, in "The Sergeant and the Bandits," another adventure of Sergeant Houston, U. S. Marines. North of Saratsi, beyond the Great Wall of China, lies a land of mountain sheep and brigands. The Sergeant, garrisoned in Peking, went up for some hunting. Sheep were scarce, but he got some shooting anyway. A colorful yarn written by a man who has been out to the country of the Ordos Mongols—and brings back his stories alive.

MILTON MacKAYE ..... investigates our newest and strangest industry. For wrestling, despite drought and depression, is making money. It's all in the organization. All you need is the weight, the grunts, the groans and an iron constitution. Every evening at nine and five nights a week, in Ypsilanti, Newark and Cold Creek Pass, and your town, too. A mixture of vaudeville acrobatics, football and mayhem—it's now big business "On the Hoof."

J. C. FURNAS . . shocked a nation with "—And Sudden Death," his picture of mass murder by automobile. Again, in this article, the author explores the possibility of you and me meeting an untimely end. With a hold-up a minute, it's worth while to know the etiquette of looking into the business end of a thug's gun—and living to tell the neighbors about it. We urge you "To Meet Mr. 10,001."

JAMES WARNER BELLAH . follows Harpurhey, the soldier who went back twenty years later. The story of a man who travelled five thousand miles to make a telephone call.

KATHARINE DAYTON . . . confides again to her diary, "Daze Without End." Santa comes to Washington and loses his reindeer and sleigh.

HORATIO WINSLOW . . . writes the story of an ingenious collegian, a conscientious professor and the wolf at the Lambda fraternity door.

CLARENCE BUDINGTON KELLAND . . describes the fortunes of "Roxana," the small town girl who attacked the big city with ideas, beauty and skillet. Second installment of six.

HOUSE PASSES PENSION PLANS IN HOT SESSION

Horner Assailed for Delay in State Program.

one more stone to the avalanche that is going to sweep Henry Horner to his political grave.

"While I have opposed him here in this house, yet with all charity on the stone that is placed over that political grave under the inscription 'Henry Horner, governor, one term,' I would add the sad but appropriate words, 'Requiescat in pace.'"

Searcy Flays Bill as Dole.

Senator Searcy's attack came when the upper chamber met with a number of its members intent on passing the key pension bill, already adopted by the house and in the passage stage in the senate.

"We are being asked," said Senator Searcy, "to enact not a pension measure but a vague, sliding scale version of a dole under which the maximum possible benefit may be $30 a month.

"By adopting this bill we will become parties to a system—for the first time in any state's history that I know of—whereby we supinely allow an appointive federal bureau to sit in judgment on our actions. If the federal social security board does not approve some clause in this bill after we adopt it, the board can say to us: 'Convene again, you Illinois legislators, at Illinois taxpayers' expense, and do this job to our liking.'

Warns of Dictation.

"Social security as contemplated in this and kindred measures means social slavery. And if Illinois turns over her aged citizens to a federal bureau as pawns, will not the natural trend lead to the future subsidy and direct control of other elements of Illinois life and commerce?

"In passing this, are we asked to place our stamp of approval upon the well known Tugwellian [Rexford Guy Tugwell, under secretary of agriculture] hate of the traditional American scheme of things?

"Are we to sit by supinely and witness the drastic reduction, if not the elimination, of local self-government? Are the aged citizens, the blind, the crippled children, and sufferers from disability in Illinois and elsewhere to become the first sacrifices upon the altar of this new political savagery? The precedent will be calamitous."

"Bowing to Hot Dogs"—Searle.

Characteristic of the shafts aimed by other representatives at the dispensing setup dictated by the New Deal were the following:

Clinton Searle [Rep., Rock Island]—"We're bowing to the happy 'hot dogs,' those little Frankfurters [radical disciples of Felix Frankfurter] who fathered this bill in Washington. We're giving away the home rule and sovereignty of Illinois." Searle also launched into a bitter personal attack on Mayor Kelly and P. A. Nash, Democratic national committeeman for Illinois.

Richard J. Lyons [Rep., Libertyville]—"Can't you see the hand of the professional social worker in this scheme? This bill will create a new landing field for the 7,000 persons on the pay roll of the Illinois Emergency Relief commission. There are three political parties in the United States now—Republicans, Democrats, and the Social Workers' party, which is subsidized by the Democrats."

Scores Loss of Home Rule.

Hugh Green [Rep., Jacksonville]—"The authority in this bill will be used by the party in power for political aggrandizement."

T. Mac Downing [Rep., Macomb]—"This just sets up another IERC. We'll lose the last semblance of home rule by taking away the power and responsibility from the counties and lodging them in the state."

R. R. Randolph [Rep., Harrisburg]—"The bill will become known throughout the state as the Henry Horner old age pauper act."

R. G. Soderstrom [Rep., Streator], president of the Illinois State Federation of Labor—"The key bill read in conjunction with this one reveals that the key bill isn't worth the paper it is printed on. It becomes a cheap, chiseling bill."

Green Explains Voting.

Dennis J. Collins [Rep., De Kalb]—"It takes away self-government from the local people."

Leroy M. Green, Republican minority leader from Rockford, explained indirectly why so many Republicans voted for the bill although opposed to it.

"If the bill doesn't get the necessary 102 votes so it can become effective immediately Gov. Horner will hold the old age pension money in the state treasury and tell the people the Republicans tied his hands."

Bill Passes, 127 to 11.

Despite the arguments against it, however, the bill, revamped to suit the New Dealers, was passed by a vote of 127 to 11. In its present form the bill throws by the wayside the home rule feature of the $30 monthly pension payments agreed upon by both parties earlier in the special session.

By the original agreement the machinery to pay out the old age pension funds was to consist of county welfare commissions of five members, only three of one party, to be named by the county judges. The county judges also would have had the power to remove commissioners and fill vacancies.

This setup was frowned upon in Washington, and when two Illinois officials brought back that word from the federal social security board, the Democrats threw the agreement overboard. As passed today the bill provides for county commissions of three members—only two from one party. The change, displeasing to Republicans, provides that the state welfare department—meaning a control by the governor and the loss of home rule—would name the commissioners from lists of six submitted by the county judges. The state also would share in the removal power.

Boost Pension Appropriation.

Next to be passed was the bill increasing the appropriation for the state's share of the pension from the 5 millions approved in the regular session this year to 9 millions. The vote on the appropriation was 120 to 0. Both bills then were sent to the senate.

In between these two roll calls, the state administration sought the adoption of the dependent children's bill, a part of the social security program, with such little success that the roll call was postponed.

This bill would replace the mothers' pension act and bring under its provision children not now beneficiaries of the mothers' act. The federal government would contribute one-third of the payments.

Democrats Denounce Bill.

The argument against the dependent children's bill was that jurisdiction over the children would be taken from the county courts and invested in the state appointed county welfare commissions. Democrats joined with Republicans to denounce this feature and to vote against its passage.

Speaker John P. Devine explained that the pension would be extended to children living with relatives other than their mothers, and said that by not passing it the state would be throwing away the proposed federal aid for the children. The country courts, he said, would retain some jurisdiction.

"The way the roll call is going," said Elmer J. Schnackenberg [Rep., Chicago], "shows that the old spirit of independence isn't entirely dead."

Senate Changes Plan.

The senate's intention of passing the key pension bill was abandoned within 30 minutes after the chamber convened, during which time agents of Gov. Horner buttonholed various members on the floor.

Before the upper chamber convened Democratic senators held a caucus on what to do about amendments to the key bill, some of which are reported to be objectionable to Gov. Horner. The caucus was reported to have divided 13 to 11 against amending the bill to suit the governor, and it was decided to postpone action until next week.

After the senators left the caucus room a feeling spread among several that an attempt should be made to pass the bill in its present form. They went into session just long enough for Searcy to make his attack, which gave the Horner agents an opportunity to talk earnestly to several senators, and then the meeting was brought to an abrupt close.

Split on Amendments.

"I know the Democrats favor an old age pension bill," said Senator Richey V. Graham [Dem., Cicero], president pro tempore of the senate, "and I know we are divided on the amendments. The amendments need further study and I move to postpone consideration until next week."

The division of opinion among the Democrats is over amendments adopted last week liberalizing the bill. These amendments would permit persons 65 years of age to receive the pension even though they have relatives legally responsible and able to support them, and would keep the state from suing those relatives for any pension paid. Another would increase from $360 to $550 a year the total income, from pension and other sources, to be permitted pensioners.

Both houses are adjourned until next Tuesday.

INSURANCE CODE PLAN IS KILLED IN SENATE BY MEMBERS' SILENCE

Springfield, Ill., Dec. 11.—[Special.]—Killed by silence instead of by votes, the proposed insurance code died in the senate today at the conclusion of the fifth roll call had upon it in that body this year.

Needing 26 votes, the code received only 17. The opposition votes totaled six. Six other senators voted present and most of the remaining sixteen did not vote at all.

Most of the 16 senators not recorded today sat silent in their seats when their names were called.

Majority Leader R. V. Graham [Dem., Cicero] at first voted "no," then changed his vote to "present."

Thus ended Palmer's second determined attempt to rewrite the insurance laws of Illinois.

HOUSE ACTION VIRTUALLY KILLS DRIVER LICENSE

Adjourns for Week Without Vote on Measure.

BY HAL FOUST.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Dec. 11.—[Special.]—The drivers' license bill was virtually killed this afternoon when the house adjourned until next Tuesday without a roll call on the safety proposal.

It still is possible, although improbable, that the measure will be enacted by this special session of the legislature which will end before Christmas and is likely to close next week.

Speaker John P. Devine [Dem., Dixon], as in the regular session last summer, has been the most effective opponent to a drivers' license.

Sponsors Told to Wait.

Last summer he was accused from the floor of blocking the representatives from voting on the issue. No such charge was made this afternoon, but the circumstances were similar.

Last night and again this morning Benjamin S. Adamowski [Dem., Chicago], majority floor leader, reported to the press stand that he had assurances from the speakers that the bill would be called. With Edward P. O'Grady [Dem., Chicago], joint sponsor of the bill, Adamowski today repeatedly asked for a roll call on the drivers' license. They were told by Devine to wait.

Quorum Is Lacking.

At 2:40 o'clock this afternoon, after working through the lunch hour, many members had left for home. The question of a quorum was raised on another motion and the clerk found only 48 of the 153 representatives present. Adjournment was automatic.

"I'm reluctant to admit defeat at this session," said O'Grady. "But it is encouraging to note the growth of sentiment in favor of better regulations of the motor driver. There is every reason to predict passage of a license bill at the 1937 regular session, if not at some special session before then."

It's our family's whiskey, neighbor—and neighbor, it's your price!

HERE'S ME AND TWO OF THE BOYS

Here you got three of the Wilken Family up in the testing room. Harry Jr. is the one holding up the sample. William is watching. That's me in back of them—just making the rounds.

Harry E. Wilken, Sr.

Our own family's recipe!

we watch over it like a mother hen with her chicks!

It strikes me just about everybody's got wind of how I've been making whiskey since way back in '92 when my dad taught me. But I mean it when I say you can't give me all the credit for the mildness and tastiness you're all so keen about in this Family's Whiskey of ours.

I've got three boys—counting in my son-in-law Tom—that I've taught everything I ever picked up in a lifetime of distilling. And even if I'm their own dad—excepting Tom, and he's like one of my own boys—you can take my word for it those boys are right with me putting everything they've got into our own Family's Whiskey—just like their life depended on it. If you just go to figuring how you'd be fussing over it if it was your own Family's Whiskey, you'll get an idea of what we're doing with ours!

Disagreeable and Dangerous

Bad colds may come from a simple cause. You may not sit in draughts, you may keep your feet dry, you may eat plenty of food to build up resistance against colds, but with all this there may be deficiency of vitamins in your diet.

It may account for your readiness to catch cold, for your lowered vitality and the utterly run-down feeling you have. Do not be discouraged. There may be a quick way to restore the lack of vitamins in your system and bring back the sparkle of health in your eyes—and it only costs a few cents a day.

If you have any of the above symptoms you probably lack Vitamins A and D. Vitamin A is the essential element used in building and repairing the outer skin and the inner linings of the body. It builds resistance against colds, with their tendency to cause lung, throat and sinus infections. A deficiency of it retards growth and may cause certain skin and eye diseases. Vitamin D, the sunshine vitamin, builds and repairs body, bone and teeth.

One of the richest sources of Vitamins A and D is cod liver oil and by a new U. S. Patented, scientific process, Vitamins A and D are extracted from cod liver oil, concentrated and sealed in gelatin capsules called I. V. C. Vitamin Pearls. This patented process makes I. V. C. Vitamin Pearls odorless, tasteless and easy to take.

YESTERDAY'S PUZZLE SOLVED

CARE OF 130,000 FAMILIES UP TO STATE ON JAN. 1

U. S. Aid to End; Only 2 Million Available.

Gov. Horner announced last night that despite efforts of the Works Progress administration to reduce the relief load, Illinois will have to support 130,000 families after Jan. 1, with only $2,000,000 a month in state funds available to meet estimated monthly requirements of $5,000,000. The announcement was made after the governor conferred with Chairman John C. Martin, Executive Secretary W. S. Reynolds, and other members of the Illinois Emergency Relief commission at Springfield.

Even with the present speed in transferring relief clients to WPA payrolls, there will still be 65,000 families with employable heads on relief rolls, Gov. Horner said. In addition there will be 65,000 families without employable members saddled on the IERC, until the state old age pension plan reduces this group several months hence.

Spending Last U. S. Cash.

The IERC now is spending its December federal relief allocation, which government officials have repeatedly declared is the last to be given.

Gov. Horner had nothing to say about providing relief for 130,000 families but said he would appeal to federal officials to carry out the intention of WPA and care for the 65,000 employables.

"It is apparent," the governor said, "that WPA has not taken all of the employables off the rolls. I have gone on the assumption that it would. This conference will join me in an appeal that it be done."

While no one in the conference cared to talk about the possibility, it was recalled that two weeks ago during a discussion of the mounting relief load, the statement was made in the state house of representatives that "Illinois will be lucky if it escapes a 4 per cent sales tax." Of the 3 per cent sales tax, raised from two per cent last spring to meet the relief crisis which then existed, only one per cent goes to the IERC, the remainder being used for ordinary state expenses.

Depend on WPA Promises.

The picture of 130,000 relief families dependent upon state funds, as presented to the governor by Martin and Reynolds, was based on the assumption that by Jan. 1 there will be 200,000 persons employed by WPA. This is all that WPA has ever promised to do by Jan. 1.

By adding the expected IERC and WPA loads, it is seen that the resultant burden upon the two relief agencies will be 330,000 families and individuals. How many non-family persons are included in WPA employment figures is not known, but apparently the total load will come close to the IERC record of 322,000 families in March, 1933.

Governor's Estimate Short.

Gov. Horner has heretofore expressed the belief that the state's $2,000,000 a month would handle the relief problem, contending that only 65,000 families need be cared for. However, this conclusion, according to relief observers, failed to take into account the great seasonal increase in the number of families seeking public aid between August, when calculations were made, and the winter months, and certain factors involved in the transfer of relief clients from the IERC to the WPA.

The IERC also faces now the problem of giving supplemental aid to families who cannot subsist on the WPA wages paid in the lower brackets, $44 downstate and $55 in Cook county. To give this aid would add $600,000 a month to the IERC's requirements. Chairman Martin said it had been contemplated to dispense two jobs to families which could not subsist on one WPA salary, but in that case fewer relief families could be given jobs.

State Plans Cash Relief.

Another development in Springfield on the relief situation yesterday was the ruling of Attorney General Otto Kerner that cash relief may be paid from state relief funds. Cash superceded merchandise orders for most items in Cook county recently and now it is expected that the new system will be used throughout the state.

Only federal funds have been distributed thus far to indigent families, because in October the attorney general ruled "it is not legally possible either under the constitution or the statutes of this state to pay relief in cash, replacing relief in kind."

After conferring with Reynolds yesterday, Kerner said the practice could be legalized if clients submit budgets of their needs in advance. These would be submitted for approval to the state auditor's office in the form of vouchers.

The Illinois Works Progress administration, limited to the expenditure of $62,000,000 federal funds, yesterday received from Washington 177 more approved projects, for which no money is available. Already work is being done on about 1,600 projects which would require about $150,000,000 if all were carried to completion.

CALDWELL WILL ACT TO LEVEL PAY BOOSTS OF COUNTY EMPLOYES

County Commissioner H. Wallace Caldwell said last night that he will introduce a resolution at the county board finance committee meeting today to reduce the salaries of all county employés who received specially favored raises during 1934 and 1935. The resolution will ask that the pay boosts not exceed 7½ per cent, the uniform salary increase provided in the 1936 budget to restore half the 15 per cent pay cut that was made for economy reasons in 1933.

Caldwell reiterated statements last night that the tentative 1936 corporate [operating] budget, totaling $20,742,949, could be reduced to nearly $1,000,000 if county jobs were reclassified and the salaries lowered. He charged that numerous pay increases crept into the 1934 and 1935 budgets, some as high as 76 per cent in excess of the basic 1933 salaries. These boosts were granted purely on the basis of political influence, he said, and threw the salaries of less favored employés out of line.

HUSBAND ASKS COURT TO PROVE HE'S A FATHER

Hopes Boy, 7, Is His Son; Alimony Ordered.

BY KAY HALL.

George Hansen, middle aged electrical engineer employed by the city, appeared before Judge Rudolph Desort in the Superior court yesterday and declared that he merely wanted to be convinced that he is the father of a 7 year old boy whom he saw for the first time a week ago.

Mrs. Esther Hansen, 35 years old, of Maywood, who lived with Hansen only a month after marrying him in 1927, is suing for divorce, alimony, and support money for the child, Cliff Hansen. Her husband filed a cross bill for divorce in which he demanded proof of his paternity. Mrs. Hansen admitted yesterday that he had not been told of the child's birth until September, 1933.

Plan Scientific Tests.

On the assumption that Hansen is the father, Judge Desort entered a temporary order that the engineer pay $10 a week support money starting today. Attorney Morris A. Haft, representing him, said he has ordered scientific data from American Medical association records and when the case comes up again next Wednesday he hopes to propose new paternity tests. Blood tests given by Dr. Orlando F. Scott and Dr. William D. McNally failed to determine the question.

Mrs. Hansen, a tall woman with wide, sorrowful eyes, cast them disdainfully upon her husband, a heavy set man with horn rimmed spectacles and stolid features.

Attorney Haft produced a letter and she identified it as the one she left behind when she packed a grip and left after their brief honeymoon in July, 1927. It read in part:

"My ideals have been shattered. I am the master of my fate—I am the captain of my soul. I will be a slave to no man."

Used Her Maiden Name.

Mrs. Hansen testified that she used her maiden name when she went to a hospital for the baby's birth.

"Why did you do that?" asked Judge Desort.

"Because he [Hansen] was so utterly impossible," the wife sighed. "He told me he only married me to spite his former wife and that he had called her up before he married me and she wouldn't take him back."

When she met Hansen on the street in 1933 he told her he had had "seven cars since he got rid of me," she testified.

"I treated her the best I could, but she acted kind of queer," said Hansen of their brief married life. "I couldn't understand her."

Wants to "Find Out."

"Is there any doubt in your mind that the child is your own?" asked the court.

"That's just what I want to find out," Hansen said. "If it is mine, I want the kid. I'm crazy about him."

"Get acquainted with the boy in the next two weeks," said Judge Desort. "Later the court may let you have him on week-ends." Mrs. Hansen protested at this point that the boy was not well.

Mrs. Hansen said she earns $85 a month by office work and that Hansen earns around $200 a month. He lives at 1920 North Central Park avenue.

Named for Naval Academy Over 2 Weeks After Death

Orlando, Fla., Dec. 11.—(AP)—Chauncey A. Boyer was notified today that his son had been appointed to the United States Naval academy and was to take an entrance examination Jan. 7. The boy, John C. Boyer, 17, died Nov. 25.

MYSTERY STILL VEILS LIFE OF SLAIN DANCER

Inquest Verdict Delayed for Investigation.

Mystery surrounding the life and death of Miss Lillian Mann, 32 years old, who was a housekeeper by day and a fan dancer in taverns by night, remained unsolved yesterday.

An inquest into the fatal shooting of Miss Mann and William B. Weir, 40 years old, 2052 Grove street, Blue Island, on Tuesday night, was continued to Dec. 20 to give the police time to make a further investigation.

Found Dead in Auto.

Miss Mann and Weir were found dead together in her automobile at the rear of the George Weber home at 2414 Union street, Blue Island, where she worked. A note indicated she had planned to kill Weir, her married suitor, and then shoot herself.

Weir's widow, Cecile, was questioned briefly at an inquest session in the undertaking rooms at 12730 South Western avenue, but she declared that she knew nothing of her husband's philandering. Neither Frank Sargent, an uncle of Miss Mann, nor Robert Neiderer, a friend of her family, could provide information concerning her activities since she left her home in Havana, Ill., nearly twelve years ago.

Employer Not a Witness.

Weber, Miss Mann's employer, did not attend the inquest, but he will be called when the hearing is resumed in the town hall at Blue Island. Weber told the police that Miss Mann had always appeared respectable and that he knew nothing of her tavern activities.

Miss Mann's farewell note directed that her automobile be given to E. M. Radford, 3308½ Maypole avenue, an electrician. Radford, found at his home, was instructed to appear at the next inquest session. He told the police that he had known Miss Mann slightly, having met her through her former suitor, Joe Ryan, another electrician. Radford said he believed she had left the car to him because he once befriended Ryan, who, he said, is now serving a Wisconsin prison term for robbery. Radford did not indicate whether he would take the car.

WPA VAUDEVILLE UNIT GETS GOING; CROWD LIKES IT

The second WPA vaudeville unit put on its first show last night in Pulaski park fieldhouse at Blackhawk and Noble streets.

The jokes often sounded familiar, but they brought roars from the crowd. As Carter Wood, official, explained proudly, "Why we've got gags in here that were pullin' 'em in as far back as 1896."

"Wholesome nonsense with a sprinkling of philosophy" was the phrase which Fred Hagan, master of ceremonies, chose to bestow upon the program. To prove this statement, a tall, gray-haired trooper in an Uncle Sam hat immediately told the joke about "my sister lost her job; she fell into a meat chopping machine, and that's how she got canned."

A specialty number which was "The Southern Chatterbox from the Land of Georgia," a pink-faced acrobat with an impediment of speech, who told naughty stories of the '90s while standing on his forehead, "Little" Eddie Brown, who sang "Mother O' Mine" while dressed as a colored porter, and "The Mirror," a satire in the old Roman style.

METAL TUBES
Built Like a Fine Watch —Sealed in Steel

Things made of steel can be accurate within a ten-thousandth of an inch. The higher the precision with which a tube is made, the greater its efficiency; the more uniform the tubes are, the better the radio set can be made. Metal Tubes, designed by the famed General Electric Laboratories, are made by RCA and other tube manufacturers licensed under RCA patents. Metal Tube Radios are quieter, more sensitive, better toned, superior in every way.

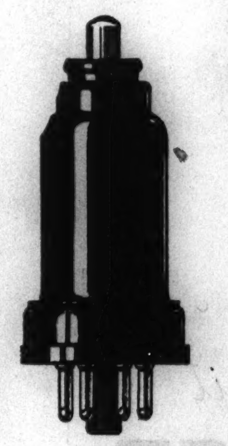
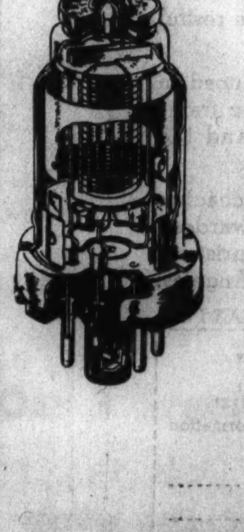
SEE WHAT'S INSIDE

All-Metal design makes Metal Tubes small and sturdy, and suppresses vibrations. Perfect shielding results in stability of performance, and the shorter leads make possible more effective short-wave reception. Thus Metal Tubes take their place at the head of the great list of radio improvements, each one the sensation of its day: (1) Crystal Detector; (2) Triode Detector; (3) Untuned Radio Frequency Amplification; (4) Armstrong Regenerative Receiver; (5) Loud Speakers; (6) Tuned Radio Frequency Amplification; (7) Cone Speakers; (8) Alternating Current Tubes; (9) Dynamic Speakers; (10) Power Amplifier Tubes; (11) Superheterodyne Circuit; (12) Screen Grid Tubes; (13) Pentode Tubes; (14) Metal Tubes.





For some years most of the broadcasting stations of 1 kilowatt power or more have been using powerful transmitting tubes of metal construction. The great 50,000 watt transmitting stations of the National Broadcasting Company and other broadcasting systems use metal anode transmitting tubes.

Now, Metal Tubes enter the home for the first time. 1935 is the year when radio tube history notes a great, new, extraordinary improvement —Metal Tubes! The laboratories of the vast majority of radio manufacturers immediately recognized them as the greatest radio tube advance in 28 years!

In radio you are either up-to-date, or behind the times. There is no middle course. Progress never stops!

Be up-to-date— get a radio with Metal Tubes

Now is the time to replace your present radio with one built to use Metal Tubes. Take advantage of the sensational improvements that these new tubes make possible. Never were radios so good, so thrilling, so positively uncanny in their magical reception, as are new Metal Tube Radios. No radio is as good as it can be unless it has Metal Tubes. Ask your radio dealer for a demonstration and then—

DRAKE DEAL LIKE THE NEW DEAL, 'INVESTORS' TOLD

Promoters' Letters Read in Mail Fraud Trial.

BY VIRGINIA GARDNER.

The Drake estate deal, as it was called by its promoters and many of its investors, was compared to the New Deal in a letter read yesterday to the jury in Federal Judge Philip L. Sullivan's court where 41 defendants are on trial for mail fraud because of the Drake myth. The government contends that the defendants got a total of $1,350,000 from 70,000 investors in the estate swindle.

Assistant United States Attorney Austin Hall read the "deal" letter to the jury. It was written by John Hensel of Auburn, Ia., now a defendant, to George W. Bang of Lincoln, Neb. The letter was a reply to one from Bang, also read to the jury, in which Bang wanted to know when the Drake investors would get their money. Hensel's letter contained this statement:

"If you can figure out just where and when Roosevelt is going to get money to finance the NRA you will know when we can except our checks, as we feel the two deals are very closely connected. This may not make very good sense to you, but nevertheless it is the whole story."

Sit Tight, Is His Advice.

Hensel then advised Bang to "sit tight" and keep his receipts and he would find all would be well.

Another letter read by Prosecutor Hall was addressed to Bang and signed Delmer C. Short of 19 Bellevue place, Chicago. It offered an explanation of why Oscar M. Hartzell, the principal estate promoter, had been arrested.

"I will say that our deal is going fine," the letter said. "This last stunt of taking him [Hartzell] away is all in the play and one of the last acts, the beginning of the end, and all for our protection. We have been advised all along that the outside world would think this a fraud, and this is the only way this could be accomplished.

Some Reasons For Secrecy.

"If the papers came out and said this was OK and that it paid we would be run to death by agents wanting to sell us everything, even grafters, and some of the heavy donors possibly would have trouble with kidnapers. This way no one will ever know that we got money unless we tell it ourselves."

As to Hartzell, the letter continued, he "is not where the papers say he is although he left here in the company of officers, but he knows and we know the reason. So no one is worried, in fact, they are glad, for the thing we have been waiting for has begun to happen."

This purported explanation of what occurred to Hartzell is more than vague in the light of the facts. He was tried on a mail fraud charge in federal court at Sioux City, Ia., convicted and sentenced to prison. He was brought here from Leavenworth for the present trial, in which he is also the chief defendant.

Quit Worrying, Keep Smiling.

A letter to Bang from Guy Doty of Lake City, Ia., another defendant, told him that he couldn't go anywhere "in a big way" unless he were in the Drake "deal," and concluded: "I want to say, quit your worrying and just keep smiling."

Mr. Hall also read to the jury Short's reply to a letter written by J. A. Rytter of Waterford, Wis. Rytter had said that he would like to come to Chicago to see the men at the "deal's" headquarters, but that he had 500 baby chicks and couldn't. Short replied that he hoped the deal would be finished "before your chickens are big enough to fry."

ROTARIANS GET GOOD FELLOW INSTRUCTIONS

Byron O. Jones, chairman of the Chicago Rotary Club Sunshine committee, instructs members of the club concerning their giving 25 baskets of food, toys, and candy to Good Fellow families at Christmas time. Each man was given slips of paper on which were typed details about the families who would receive the gifts. Left to right: Frank Bennett, Rotary community song leader; Fred H. (Dad) Tweed, Fred R. Jennings, Harry McEvoy, Eugene Laurant, R. E. Vernor, president; Dr. G. M. Cushing, past president; William H. Browne, and Mr. Jones. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

GOOD FELLOWS EVENT PLANNED BY DANCE PUPILS

Rotary Group to Aid in Spreading Cheer.

BY PHIL MAXWELL.

A Christmas entertainment entitled "Keeping in Step With Good Fellows" will be given Dec. 22 from 2 to 4 p. m., by pupils of Miss Mayblossom Macdonald in the Ideal Dancing studios at 3907 West Madison street, to raise money for TRIBUNE Good Fellow baskets. It is hoped that 500 persons will attend and that enough money will be raised to purchase 25 baskets of food, toys and candy.

At the Tuesday noon meeting of the Chicago Rotary club in the Hotel Sherman, Byron O. Jones, who for 25 years has been chairman of this organization's sunshine committee, discussed plans for taking baskets to 25 families, the names to be taken from THE TRIBUNE Good Fellow Bureau.

A Chance to Spread Cheer.

Among those who met with Mr. Jones were William H. Browne, Dr. G. M. Cushing, past president; Frank Bennett, community song director of the club; Fred H. [Dad] Tweed, Fred R. Jennings, Harry McEvoy, Eugene Laurant, and R. E. Vernor, president.

Information concerning the families was distributed to the various members.

THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE Good Fellow Bureau, at 1 South Dearborn street, has the names of thousands of unfortunate families who will have a sad time unless you become a Good Fellow.

There's No Hocus Pocus.

It will be great sport to see a dining room table laden with good things to eat—where a few minutes before there wasn't even a table cloth. The only difference is that there isn't any "Hocus Pocus" about being a Good Fellow magician. It's the "realest" thing you could ever hope to see.

Just pick up your telephone, call Superior 0100 and enroll now in the Good Fellow work. Or, if you wish to see how the wheels go round in our Good Fellow Bureau visit it in THE TRIBUNE's Public Service office at 1 South Dearborn street.

FIRE IN POLICE BUILDING.

Fire that started in a sawdust bin in the basement of the police building at 1121 South State street, caused damage estimated at $30 early yesterday.

Wife Sues for Separation from a County Engineer

Mrs. Gertrude E. Brown, 33 years old, 10335 Elizabeth street, Westchester, filed suit for separate maintenance in the Superior court yesterday against James D. Brown, 35 years old, assistant to the chief construction engineer of the county forest preserve. The bill, drawn by the law firm of Socrates, David, and Cohen, alleged that Brown has been associating with another woman. Mrs. Brown asks the custody of her son, Richard, 6 years old.

Two U. of C. Cavaliers Joust with Pillows on Horseback

Two University of Chicago freshmen engaged in a pillow battle on horseback yesterday in the main quadrangle on the campus at 58th street. One of the combatants, Robert Anderson, fought as a knight for the university co-eds, while Wilbur Jerger was the champion for off-campus girls, as he is taking a Northwestern university co-ed to a freshman party tomorrow night. Before a large crowd of students Jerger lost the skirmish when he fell off his horse.

MOSCOW'S HIS DESTINATION.

Mr. Wallace's ideas for the future of American agriculture are contained in the report of his department to the President. For the execution of his plans the AAA is only an experimental beginning. Mr. Wallace is equal to considerable planning on his own, but the figure behind him must never be forgotten. That is Mr. Tugwell, who has a habit of disappearing along with the other intelligentsia of the New Deal whenever real politics gets to the boiling point. Whenever it is necessary for Mr. Farley to be Number One boy the intellectuals step inside and close the door.

It is to be remembered that Mr. Tugwell's planned society is the true McCoy and it is the most comprehensive. When Mr. Wallace in his report says that a planned agriculture requires a planned industrial structure Mr. Tugwell is talking. Tugwell is more an industrialist than an agriculturist and more concerned with the management of capital in industries than he is with its management in farming. His plans are for the complete activities of the nation. The defunct NRA was a start along his line, and now Wallace says that no part of the planned economy can hope for real success unless it is a part of a whole.

Thus Mr. Wallace not only would have the farmer advised as to how much wheat, cotton, or hogs he could raise and be paid to take the advice, but he would have the manufacturer told how many shoes, coats, chairs, house timbers, etc., could be used in any given period in the nation's economy. Whatever concessions Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Farley may be making to political opinion at the opening of a campaign, Mr. Wallace and Mr. Tugwell are not retreating. The New Dealers who make concessions to public opinion when they think they are too far out in front of it are back in full stride when they think the necessity for compromise has passed. Mr. Wallace and Mr. Tugwell are trustworthy witnesses testifying to the real and continuing purposes of the Roosevelt administration. It would be unwise to overlook any of their statements.

Mr. Wallace describes his scheme of quota farming as purely voluntary. It would pay the farmer to give his allegiance but would not force him. The payments would be so attractive it would not be profitable, in Mr. Wallace's opinion, for the farmer to resist. It is not explained how the planners will know that any particular year is to be one of great fertility or one of drouths and floods. The importance of the elements would seem to be well proved in recent experience, but Mr. Wallace is apparently confident that he can determine not only what should be produced but what can be.

If subscription to a planned régime is necessary in both agriculture and industry, in all the activities of the country, it should then be apparent that a plan essential to the nation's welfare could not be allowed to fail merely because compliance could not be obtained by advice and subsidy. If the salvation of the whole people depended upon the obedience of each and every one, any failure to agree would mean that compulsion must be used.

There is no halfway station on the road to Moscow. If nothing but Mr. Tugwell's plan will work, then nothing but Stalin's methods will work it. When hard pressed by failure both Mr. Wallace and Mr. Tugwell would probably say so. It must be remembered that while the political New Dealers are talking politics the real brain cells are still planning plans.

WHY PICK ON CROWDER?

An amusing controversy is running in the London Economist between that venerable publication and United States Gen. Amos Crowder, equally venerable wartime chief of ordnance, as to whether Crowder was justified in making any American Springfield rifles when there was enough factory space available to supply the entire American army with English Enfields.

The dispute, which embraces the relative value of the American and English rifles and of English and American ammunition, is vain today, since all men know that bolt action rifles were obsolete in 1917, even in 1914.

If Gen. Crowder is to be criticized it should not be because he adopted one or another form of bolt action rifle but because he had not equipped the American infantry with machine guns, and that when war necessity forced the hurried adoption of automatic weapons he resorted to the absurd Browning automatic rifle and the more absurd Chauchot, which made noises like machine guns but could not be aimed, instead of the excellent Lewis gun of American invention and English manufacture.

But why pick on Crowder? Military pundits infatuated with the doctrin of bayonet attack were averse to weapons that would render such offensives impossible. None of the brass-hatted and be-starred disciples of Napoleon and Von Moltke were willing to understand the power of the machine guns with which the Germans mowed down the French infantry at Longwy, nor of the French 75's which brought the German armies to a standstill at the Marne after they had swept away the British expeditionary force, which was not equipped with either weapon, at Mons and Le Cateau.

Machine guns and cannon were multiplied in the years that followed, but the commanders never learned that infantry cumbered rather than armed with single shot weapons could not stand up before them. Year after year uncomplaining heroes were sent to hopeless massacre until revolution, first in Russia, then in Germany, put an end to the slaughter.

Why pick on Crowder?

EMPIRE SCALP COLLECTING.

Much of the world's progress has been due to the migrations of people qualified to develop land moving into regions suitable to their uses. In these movements well equipped people have forced themselves upon backward people. The stronger have taken what belonged to the weaker. Sometimes the primitives disappear, other times they are benefited. The process seldom works without conflict. There is fair and unfair play. The end is a desirable one.

The successful instances in modern history do not begin with slap bang conquests. The fitness of the advancing people to use the land is proved in individual private enterprise. The new settlers move in. As their numbers multiply and their desires and demands increase they may come in conflict with the aborigines. Much is done by agreement and treaty, but there may be a war. Such was the pattern of the settlement and civilization of America.

Current imperialism does not run this way. There is no proof that settlers from a superior civilization want the land, are fitted to be on it or could use it. The proof generally is that they do not want it. They do not move in after conquest. The British government wants Egypt and the Sudan. A Londoner does not want his cotton field along the Nile. He couldn't work it. He prefers the dole. You can't blame him. If the Japanese could apply the old rule to California they'd be glad to do so. They can live, work and prosper in California. If it had been three thousand miles closer to them and if they had seen the Indians first they would now have the Indians' land. They don't want to go to Manchuria and they couldn't wedge themselves in North China.

Italians do not want to go to Ethiopia. Some of the land might yield them a comfortable living, but much of it would be hideous to them. They'd be happy on North Carolina grape or apple land, but most of them would shudder at most of Ethiopia. "Expanding populations" is the hokum of modern Cæsars. The modern Roman wants to be comfortable in Rome and left to himself he'll do no rugged pioneering on dreary and inhospitable soil.

Modern colonies are scalps. The big chief hangs them up for his visitors to count. Of course, if the conquistador hits oil it's another story, but what he's mostly doing is pawing over the dump heap and the garbage can.

LITERATURE IN THE PLANNED ECONOMY.

From "Farm Chats About Electrification," by "Polly Power," Rural Electrification Administration, R. E. 4587 No. 4 we cull the following:

"The bare maples make a lacy arch above the lane that leads to the old Jones place, near Olney, Md.

"Jolly Mrs. Josiah Waters Jones greets her guests at the ancient doorway of the farmhouse in the true, hospitable Maryland manner. She takes justifiable pride in showing them about the place. The farm is a happy blend of modern comfort and the early southern charm of nearly a hundred years ago."

Jolly Mrs. Jones seems to have escaped "the rule of tooth and claw that threw farmers into bankruptcy or turned them virtually into serfs," etc. We suppose the happy blend of modern comfort on the old Jones place has arrived since Mr. Wallace removed the tooth and claw, but we must note by the way that under the new burocracy the dry details of government are to blossom as never before. Poets and writers of romance should take the hint and consult their congressmen. Realists and cynics need not apply. They will have to go on paying for their own typewriters and postage and eke out their livings as best they can in competition with the official output. Thus a new yardstick arrives to measure private enterprise and belabor it into surrender to the planned literature. The prospects of rugged individualism in letters as elsewhere seem dismal, for what thrifty reader will buy a book when he is already paying for gems of literature composed in innumerable federal bureaus and scattered throughout the land from the lavish hand of Mr. Farley?

TOWNSEND THINKING.

[Grand Rapids (Mich.) Press.]

So much heated argument centers about the Townsend pension plan that it is well to review dispassionately the widespread ramifications of the scheme and permit the resulting evidence to speak for itself.

The plan is predicated upon an intention to provide every person in the United States past 60 years of age a pension of $200 monthly. This would necessitate an annual pension fund of twenty billions, and to raise this amount the Townsend plan proposes a 2 per cent tax upon every business transaction.

In 1929, the year chosen by Dr. Townsend for his estimates, business transactions in the United States totaled $1,208,000,000,000.

At the time business transactions topped the trillion mark, earned income in the United States was $50,000,000,000, or about one-twenty-fifth of the total transactions. But it is from this earned income, rather than the transactions total, that the Townsend pension must be created. Why? Because it is the earned income alone, through its devious spending routes, that goes to make up the transactions total. For illustration, a farmer sells a bushel of wheat for a dollar to the miller, who sells it for $2 to the baker, who sells it for $3 to the ultimate consumer.

But let us see how the transaction tax would affect the price of foodstuffs and necessities. For the example above we used wheat, listing only a few of the transactions, but let us take the commodity through its full route: The farmer buys the seed and plants and harvests the crop, which he sells to the elevator, which sells to the miller, who sells to the wholesaler, who sells to the baker, who sells to the merchant, who sells to the consumer—a 2 or 3 per cent tax being levied on each transaction. Is not the resultant rise in the price of the loaf of bread obvious? And is not the whole tax paid by the final consumer out of his earned income?

Hew to the Line, let the quips fall where they may. Reg. U.S. Pat. Office

In Honor of Horace

He was quite tattered, was the man who stopped me in the street yesterday, and I felt that he was going to make the usual request for a thin dime with which to purchase of cup of Javvie and Mokie. But instead he said, "Jejenus raro stomachus vulgaria temnit." I made no answer and the tattered man said: "I see you do not quite understand me; I was quoting from the immortal Horace, 'A hungry stomach seldom scorns plain food.' You know, we scholars the world over are now celebrating the two thousandth anniversary of the birth of Horace, and I thought it highly fitting to call your attention to one of his most splendid utterances."

"Meaning," said I, "that you could do with a little plain food, such as a hot dog on rye bread?"

"Horace," said the tattered man, "did not speak of hot dog on rye bread, as hot dog was probably not discovered in his time. However, he would no doubt be in favor of it as representative of plain food. Your happy reference to hot dog and rye bread, however, beams forth as Horace would say 'Inter Ignes Luna minores?' You recognize that as having been written by Horace, do you not?"

"No," I said, "I thought it was by Whittier or James Whitcomb Riley."

"No," said the tattered man, "that is from Horace, and I would remind you that it means 'As shines the moon among the lesser stars.' For so shines your happy reference to hot dog and rye bread. Fifteen cents, if I may be so bold, would permit me to indulge in this to me most royal feast in honor of the great Latin poet."

"I will give you twenty-five cents if you will repeat in Latin the quotations from Horace," I said, and the tattered man did so and I put them down in my notebook.

"And now," said the tattered man, "I must hasten to the Lucullian feast in honor of the great poet," and, taking my quarter, started on a run for a saloon.

"Here, here!" I shouted after him, "you said you wanted that money for hot dog, not hootch."

"Ah!" said the tattered man, "I would remind you of another famous saying of our great Horace, 'Even the worthy Homer sometimes nods.'" And then he disappeared swiftly inside the saloon.

Oh, well, anyhow I feel I have done something towards celebrating the two thousandth anniversary of the birth of the late lamented Mr. Horace.

NOT DREAMING.

"I shall wake in a moment," he thought,
"To find my dear love by my side;
And the evil this long night has taught
Me will vanish forever. My bride
Is not gone, with a spiteful word flung
Back upon me to curdle my blood,
Nor have I (my bewildered heart stung
With rage) really gathered up mud
To hurl as she passed through my door.
I am sleeping, stretched out in my bed:
When I wake, I shall find her once more,
Protesting her love: With her head
On my breast, I shall make haste to tell
Of my dream, and caress her smooth hair."
He was proud that he reasoned so well,
When he might have been wild with despair;
But the sun rose up over the roof
And into the quiet house streamed,
And he stood terrified by the proof
That he neither had slept nor had dreamed.

FROM INDIA'S CORAL STRAND.

R. H. L.: This is just a Christmas letter of gratitude. It doesn't require any reply and I'd not like to have it classed as "fan mail." I am not the fan age or type. I am a staid old missionary. That is, I used to be staid. At present I get such a hearty and continuous laugh out of that word of yours, "dampages," that I fear I may be slipping.

Ever since the first issue of the Linebook my copy has reached me in India, where I have lived all these years. We always have each volume bound, because we like to pass them around to British friends and because the selections of poetry are so well worth putting into permanent form. Thank you for it. I only wish you could give one hundred dampages to your country.

The Linebooks' comments on current events; on headlines; on the follies of our feminine world—it is all of it the funniest fun in the world. They have silver-lined many a darned old cloud; they have turned bitterness into fun more than once; they have pepped up more than one dull old missionary dinner by furnishing some clever quotes.

I am so truly grateful that I am risking this letter on a typewriter in sad disrepair. Long may you and your dampages carry on.

Sincerely, L. E. R.

WHY FUSS ABOUT ACIDOSIS?

So much has been written about acidosis that it would take a man with strong eyesight a year to cover the literature on the subject. This on the assumption that he would read industriously at least eight hours each day. Even loud speakers are not immune to the acidosis complex. The term is so euphonious—such a tongue tickler—that the lay public has adopted it. If the craze continues we will substitute for the usual morning greeting, "How is your acidosis today?"

The body possesses great powers of adjustment. Were this not so the world would have been depopulated centuries ago. Under normal conditions the blood is slightly alkaline and this state is maintained in health at all times. There is a group of substances present in the blood which act as chemical regulators. They are trafic officers, controling the travel of acid and alkaline elements.

Fortunately the body has the power to rid itself rather quickly and easily—via the lungs and kidneys—of both weak acids and weak alkalies. This machinery may continue to function, holding steady the normal chemical balance of the body even with the loss of important salts through vomiting, diarrhea, or excess urination.

We may dismiss with but mild concern the occurrence of acidosis in adults, provided [1] there is no diabetes and [2] that the individual uses an average, basic diet. Children, on the contrary, particularly infants, are more easily upset, but even babies show a surprising power to regulate the acid-alkaline balance. For example, in a ten year period in a large children's hospital only slightly over 1 per cent of the admissions were due to acidosis.

There is one certain way of determining whether or not acidosis is present and that is by finding just how much carbon dioxide is contained in the blood. This is a technical procedure which is not always easy to carry out. As a rule the carbon dioxide in the blood must be at a fairly low level before obvious signs of acidosis will appear. When the deficiency amounts to as much as 30 per cent some remedial measures are demanded.

Once the condition is recognized the remedy is relatively simple. Probably the most effective treatment is the administration of a solution of sodium lactate. We all know about lactic acid. We have learned of it as associated with the souring of milk, and sodium lactate is the sodium salt of this acid. Whenever severe diarrhea, vomiting, or diabetes is observed in young children sodium lactate is administered as a precautionary measure on the ground that no harm will ensue.

A typical case is reported as follows: A six months old baby developed a severe cold with fever, nasal discharge, and cough. On the second day of the illness diarrhea began with ten or fifteen watery green stools. Vomiting was not present until after the child had been given a drastic laxative. When seen by the physician the breathing was rapid, the eyes were sunken deeply, the skin was dry, and the pulse over 200. The feet and hands were cold and gray in color. Because the child was in the hospital where prompt laboratory tests could be made the carbon dioxide in the blood was tested and found to be but half the required amount. The lactate solution was given and three hours later the carbon dioxide level had risen to practically normal. Within another hour or two breathing was quiet, the child had lost the dried, emaciated appearance, and was out of danger. The diarrhea gradually diminished under appropriate feeding and recovery was uneventful. It is well-nigh certain that had it not been for the use of the lactate solution recovery would not have occurred.

In this case what brought on the symptoms of acidosis? The answer is the loss of important salts and fluids through the profuse diarrhea and vomiting.

Acidosis rarely develops in normal adults, and the tons of alkalis that people take unnecessarily have in some cases wrought considerable damage by throwing the body reactions too strongly to the alkaline side.

RED NOSE.

J. F. writes: What is the cause of a red nose and what can one do for it?

One of the chief causes of acne rosacea [red nose] is disturbed digestion. Hot foods and drinks also act directly by producing flushing of the face. Radical cure is often impossible, but much can be done to improve the condition. Digestive disorders should be properly treated and special attention given to the regulation of the bowels. Highly seasoned foods and drinks should be especially avoided. Alcoholic beverages should not be used.

A RULE FOR MOTORISTS.

Chicago, Dec. 9.—In this morning's TRIBUNE is an account of seven deaths over the week-end "because of the heavy fog." How long are we to accept as valid excuses for auto accidents such things as heavy fog, slippery streets, poor visibility, and the like? No ship captain could plead any of these conditions as an excuse for his ship being in a collision.

The rule of the sea says: "In fog or poor visibility the motion of the ship shall be reduced to a speed that will enable it to be stopped within the distance over which clear vision may be had." If this is a sensible rule for vessels at sea it would seem sensible also for automobiles on the highways where the chance of collision is greater because of numbers and the limited width of right of way. E. J. CONNOR.

A CHINESE DEFAULT.

Chicago, Dec. 8.—Throughout this nation appears great anxiety about China being gobbled up by Japan and also the immense harm done them financially because of our recent silver policy. Before showing pity and offering alms, may we be reminded that the republic of China got a loan of 5½ million dollars in 1919 due in 1921 through a Chicago bank and failed to pay the last six month interest coupon in 1921, and since then has not paid one cent of interest or principal to her American creditors. A country so forsaken of honor merits no sympathy while Japan gives her a dose of her own medicine. If Japan takes for keeps from China, surely it is what China has done to her victims in the United States.

FAIRPLAY.

THE NEWS REVIEW.

Gary, Ind., Dec. 6.—I have enjoyed your newspaper for many years, and particularly your Sunday edition. I have noted with great pleasure in recent months that you have adopted the policy of publishing in your Sunday paper a résumé of the week's news. To me this is one of the finest features of the paper, as it enables me to keep abreast of the times by absorbing this condensed information during the quiet hours of a Sunday afternoon. I, for one, hope you will continue this section.

ALEXANDER C. PENDLETON.

SUBSTITUTIONS IN FOOTBALL.

Fort Wayne, Ind., Dec. 8.—Now that the football season is over how about making some effort to place this game on a real basis of sportsmanship?

I suggest that the rules be revised to permit no substitution of players except at the beginning of the second half or to replace an injured player, and in no case permit a player who has been withdrawn from the game to reënter. L. LEWIS.

COLONIAL MINDS.

Racine, Wis., Dec. 6.—I read with amusement the recent letter of Henry Drenkow entitled "Colonial Minds." It shows the wide and deep seated prejudice that many people have against the British government.

But does Mr. Drenkow ever stop to think that if what he says is true our secretary of state, Cordell Hull, and his predecessors are a very foolish and gullible lot of individuals? Surely the United States government has sufficient intelligence to take care of its own interests and doesn't need to fear British propaganda or any other kind of propaganda. There is not a single historical authority in the world who would take the slightest stock in the Drenkow letter.

We have other bogies that we fear: One is the international Jews; another is the Catholic church. Sensible people realize that all the bogies are created out of prejudice and ignorance. Let our government go on doing its duty in foreign relations as well as in domestic, and we need not fear. R. G. HARVEY.

WISHFUL THOUGHTS.

Albion, Mich., Dec. 7.—I have just listened to Floyd R. Moody III., congressional district manager of Michigan Townsend clubs, expound the Townsend plan and my mind went back to my childhood days when my grandmother taught me the old saying:

If wishes were horses
The footman might ride.

This does not exactly fit the situation, so I would restate this wise saying to apply not only to the Townsend plan but to most New Deal reform measures:

If taxes were income
We all could be rich.

CARL A. ROSS.

STREET NAMES.

Chicago, Dec. 7.—I am sending you just a line to express approval of your editorial indorsing the change in certain street names to bring about a more consistent system. This editorial is very well written and I hope the members of the city council will recognize that they should, in matters of this kind, act for the entire city and not strictly according to the immediate views of their constituents. Even their constituents will be well satisfied in the long run with the results of this change.

B. F. AFFLECK.

THE PROPER APPROACH.

Chicago, Dec. 3.—It may be that business men have approached the President in the wrong attitude. If a committee from the business interests of the country would go to Mr. Roosevelt with something like the following they might get somewhere:

"All highest and most gracious sovereign, we are so tired and worn out! We most humbly and with a contrite heart beseech thee to grant us a real rest instead of just a breathing spell."

You can never tell. If he is feeling good at the time he might grant the request. READER.

LET'S HAVE AN HONESTY WEEK.

Chicago, Dec. 5.—Would it be asking too much of Franklin De Fault Roosevelt to tell "his friends" on just what date they can count on his really telling the gospel truth about balanced budgets, breathing spells and what have you up your sleeve? F. H. C.

WORSHIP DAY.

Chicago, Dec. 7.—The anniversary of the first divine service of record at Chicago falls this year on Sunday, Dec. 15. Father Marquette, who conducted this service, writing in his journal states that on the Feast of the Conception, Dec. 8, he was too weak to celebrate divine service, but that in the octave of the feast, Dec. 15, 1674, he was able to hold services in his little chapel hut on the present site of Damen avenue and the south branch of the river. It has been suggested that this year and whenever this anniversary falls on a Sunday it be observed by all, regardless of creed, as "Worship day." The fact that several years must intervene might even emphasize the spiritual value of this first divine service. Father Marquette arrived at the present site of Tribune Square on Dec. 4, 1674, and from Dec. 14 until the following spring he resided at Portage mound, now Damen avenue and about 28th street at the river.

FRIEND OF THE PEOPLE

Letters to this department must be signed with names and addresses of writers.

PERSONAL SERVICES.

Lake Villa, Ill., Dec. 6.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—A friend who has taken care of an old gentleman very near 90 years of age for the past three months, administering to his every need, even financially, is turned out in the cold and would like to know what recourse he has. Deceased left estate of which nephew is administrator and sole beneficiary. He refuses to compensate gentleman for time spent as well as money, claiming it is not his father. J. V. B.

Right of recovery would depend upon the understanding on which the services were rendered. If, as seems probable, your friend was taking his chances on being able to persuade the old person to make a will in your friend's favor and did not succeed in his plan, then it would not seem unreasonable that there should be no recovery. If, at the time the services were rendered, it was understood that they were to be paid for, then clearly your friend would have a claim against the estate.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

MARRIAGE AND DIVORCE.

West Union, Ia., Dec. 6.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. To what department of state must one write to find out if a man has been granted a divorce by his wife who left him six or seven years ago? 2. Do Illinois and Minnesota have a law similar to Wisconsin, necessitating any time between taking out a marriage license and the marriage itself? 3. Can a justice of the peace marry a couple who have not procured a license—that is, can he provide the license as well as perform the ceremony? E. A. B.

1. Write to the clerks of the courts of divorce jurisdiction where he has resided.
2. No, Illinois has not, but Minnesota has a five day period between the issuance of the certificate and the ceremony; but, because of the marriage evasions law, we advise against going to a foreign state to evade such requirement.
3. Not in Illinois.

FROM ACROSS THE SEA

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON.—With two million more women than men in England, marriage laws have had to undergo considerable changes in recent years, but even now it is difficult to persuade a clergyman to perform a ceremony involving legal kinships.

The first marriage laws were based on the canons as set forth in the Church of England prayer book. Since then there have been only two acts amending the civil laws, one in 1907 and one in 1931, aimed to enlarge the area of marriage relationship.

"Blood kinship" as set forth in the book of common prayer is determined by the "Table of Degrees of Affinity," based on Mosaic law as set out in Leviticus. Those who argue for extension of the affinity table point out that Moses discouraged marriages within the tribe of Israelites to prevent inbreeding, encouraging unions with persons of surrounding tribes.

Marriages involving "blood kinship" are still rigidly forbidden by English civil law. Before 1907 civil law would not permit a man, though a widower, to marry his mother-in-law, his wife's sister, or his brother's widow.

The "Deceased Wife's Sister Bill," which was first read in the house of commons in 1850, finally was passed in 1907, permitting a widower to marry his wife's sister; or in case his brother had died, the brother's widow. The ban on marrying a mother-in-law was maintained.

Further legislation in 1931 lifted the marriage ban only for the more involved relationships such as a widower marrying his wife's aunt or niece, his widowed aunt, or the widow of a nephew.

Though legalizing civilly some relationships, both these acts uphold the right of any clergyman to refuse to perform a marriage which is not in accordance with the original ecclesiastical limitations. Clergymen usually are deterred by fear of criticism by the more "fundamental" members of their congregations, or by a frank disapproval of performing a marriage where there was a slight degree of legal kinship.

Divorced persons still find themselves restricted greatly when it comes to marrying any one connected in any way with either their own family or that of their ex-husband or ex-wife. The acts of 1907 and 1931 maintained the bans against a divorced person whose ex-spouse is still living. This sometimes is regarded as a great hardship where a divorce is granted on grounds of insanity. This creates an anomaly where the divorced person is incarcerated as a criminal lunatic. The law regards that person as "legally dead," but church regards the surviving party as still married.

The English population has a normal ratio of 103 women to 100 men, but this ratio was upset by the world war's toll and by the so far unexplained biological fact that male births exceed female births following national stress. Soon after the armistice many radical ideas were proposed to extend the marriage basis, but none succeeded.

SECRETS OF BOB AND JOE NEAR SURFACE IN SUIT

Crowe Quizzed on Cash He Got from Firm.

Robert E. Crowe, former judge, state's attorney, and leader of his own Republican faction, was cross-examined for more than two hours yesterday before Master in Chancery Samuel B. Epstein by Attorney Burrell Cramer, representing Joseph B. Savage, Crowe's former partner and friend. Crowe is suing Savage for an accounting of the funds of the law firm of

ROBT. E. CROWE.

Crowe, Gorman & Savage, now dissolved.

Secrets of the law firm, which was rated as one of the few with a "political in," seemed destined yesterday to be brought to light as the former partners "wash their linen" before the master, who at the end of the hearing, will make recommendations to Judge John R. Caverly as to the course he will pursue in deciding the suit. Crowe is to be cross-examined further when the hearing is resumed at 2 o'clock this afternoon in the hearing room of Master Epstein on the 44th floor of the 1 North La Salle building.

Many Political Aspects.

The firm's political connections reached into many places by virtue of Crowe's leadership in an element of the Republican party. Savage's membership on the school board, and the late George E. Gorman's position as a master in chancery and attorney for the south park board.

The only fee so far made public in the hearing was one for $42,000 collected in connection with the work of the law firm in the Garfield Park bank case. Details of the manner in which this fee was earned were not placed in the court record, but apparently it was in connection with the work done by the law firm as attorney for receivers.

At the end of the small hearing room and just adjacent to Crowe sat Attorneys Louis Geiman and Assistant Attorney General George Lavin. They were former prosecutors under Crowe and apparently are still loyal to their political leader.

The Line of Combat.

Savage sat at the far end of the table, around which the legal combatants gathered. He was beside his attorney. Attorney William F. McLaughlin, also a former prosecutor under Crowe, sat near Savage and constantly consulted with him and his attorney. Crowe at all times kept his eyes on his cross-examiner and his former partner.

"Savage said he was very anxious to avoid any break with me," said Crowe in describing the final scene in the old offices of the law firm prior to its dissolution after the death of Gorman. "He said he had a very high regard for me and would do anything to avoid a breach. I told him as far as I was concerned my mind was definitly made up. I told him I was going to stay and he was going to get out."

First Year Not So Good.

Attorney Cramer devoted much time to showing that Crowe did not have any knowledge of the firm's finances. Crowe admitted this to be true, but said he was the business "go-getter" and let the detailed work to Savage. The first year, 1929, the law firm did not do so well, the evidence showed. Crowe drew out $3,800 and his two partners $9,500 each.

The second year, the testimony showed, the partners took out about $26,000 each.

In 1931 the income of the law firm continued on the upward trend, the testimony showed. Crowe took out $44,304 as his share and Gorman and Savage were credited with $41,000 each.

Firm Under U. S. Eye.

It was indicated by the attorney that the firm income tax was checked up regularly by the tax fraud hunters. Of this, Crowe said he had no knowledge.

The income tax investigations were taken up with a view apparently on Savage's part to show that the government kept watch on the firm's income and expenditures, and that it was therefore impossible for any members of the firm to short change each other as is charged in the suit.

"I did pretty well for a fellow who spent only 30 days out of six years in the office," commented Crowe as the hearing ended. It is Savage's contention that Crowe spent little or no time in the firm office.

ROBBED OF $1,000 COAT.

Rudolph Sabatini, a messenger employed by the Millstone Fur company, 162 North State street, reported last night to the Fillmore street police that two armed men had robbed him of a mink coat valued at $1,000 after he had alighted from a Van Buren street car at Kildare avenue while he was on his way to deliver it to Mrs. Anna Berman, 4330 West Van Buren street.

SLIGHT HOPE IS HELD FOR RECOVERY OF SON OF GEORGE W. OLVANY

Saranac Lake, N. Y., Dec. 11.—[Special.]—George W. Olvany Jr., son of the former Tammany chieftain, remained in a critical condition tonight at the General hospital here and little hope was held for his recovery.

The 23 year old youth was found early yesterday morning in a lonely section of lower Saranac lake by a newspaper reporter with whom he had been on a "farewell party." He had two bullet wounds in his head, both said to have been self-inflicted.

SEIZED BY POLICE DURING HOLDUP IN APARTMENT

Raymond Becker, 20 years old, 1404 East Marquette road, was interrupted by two policemen early today as he was holding up two women and four men in the flat of Stanley Peredna, 12000 Emerald avenue. After he had fired once and had been in turn shot at by the policemen, Michael Hogan and Norman Draper, Becker surrendered and confessed to several other stickups.

Peredna conducts a tavern, which is beneath the flat in which his family resides. Becker walked into the place with his pistol drawn. As he herded three customers and Peredna upstairs the proprietor's two sons, John and Michael, who are bartenders, fled out a side door. Becker fired at them and after they escaped he continued with his plan to rob those who remained. A radio call sent the policemen to the scene shortly after John Peredna called the Kensington police and Becker was trapped.

PUPILS BURN TOY GUNS; HUNDREDS JOIN CEREMONY

The second annual "burning of the guns" was held yesterday at Ryerson elementary school, 641 Lawndale avenue. Several hundred children from public schools on the west side gathered there for a sacrificial pyre of toy weapons.

Sling shots, rubber guns, air rifles, and even a miniature machine gun were tossed into the bonfire under the management of Mrs. Rose Durso Desimone, past president of the Ryerson P.-T. A. and "founder" of the anti-gun crusade.

Municipal Judge J. M. Braude of the Boys' court and Lieut. Harry Costello of the crime prevention commission spoke briefly, praising the movement, and Mrs. W. F. Krahl, state humane chairman for the Illinois Congress of Parents and Teachers, reported that 14,000 Chicago school children now have "taken the pledge" [to foreswear toy guns].

Office Manager Is Found Dead of Motor Fumes

Roy Sharp, 48 years old, 2300 Arthur avenue, was found dead early today in a garage at 6434 North Irving avenue. The door of the garage was closed and the engine of Sharp's car was running. Death was due to carbon monoxide poisoning. Sharp was an office manager for the Kraft-Phenix Cheese company.

Purse Snatcher Captured After Assaulting Woman

Walter Kelpsas, 21 years old, 4412 South Francisco avenue, was arrested yesterday by Policemen Robert Serling, and John Sheldon, a few minutes after he had struck Mrs. H. Hoffman, 42 years old, 4404 South Spaulding avenue, knocked her down, and snatched her purse, at Spaulding and Archer avenues.

LOCK UP BAKER; SEIZE $30.

Two gunmen entered a bakery at 506 West 59th street yesterday, locked Gerhardt Graumnitz, the manager, in a rear room and took $30 from the cash register.

JAPANESE RESIST QUERIES ON SIZE OF NAVY DESIRED

Parity Demands Remain Stumbling Block.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Dec. 11.—Japan's demands for naval parity with England and the United States for the third day monopolized the five power naval conference. British delegates, it is understood, again sought to smoke out Admiral Osami Nagano on what Japan actually meant by a "common upper limit" and whether they wish to increase or reduce present naval tonnages.

If the British sought to induce the Japanese to make a straight demand for parity, all they would reply was that they were still awaiting replies to questions which had been submitted to Tokio. The question of parity remains the stumbling block to progress in the conference.

Use Greater Detail.

United States delegates seemed impressed that Japanese were trying to implement their parity demands with more detail than they have hitherto been willing to put out. British sources reported Admiral Nagano said the tonnage of the Japanese fleet at present should be taken as a maximum for all other navies, but later withdrew the suggestion.

France and Italy next will take the front and center with their naval claims. François Pietri, French minister of marine, is coming to London to present the French program.

Britain Orders 7 Destroyers.

The British government announced in the house of commons tonight that the admiralty is ordering an extra flotilla of seven destroyers which will be paid for outside of the current budget estimates. A flotilla leader and eight destroyers are now building under the 1935 naval program. This will give Britain 177 ships of that type, but with only 88 built since the war.

TEACHER SIGNS OATH TO CLEAR WAY FOR FIGHT

Boston, Mass., Dec. 11.—(AP)—Storm center of the Massachusetts teachers' oath "rebellion," Kirtley F. Mather, Harvard university geology professor, reversed his position tonight and signed an unconditional oath—to pave the way for a fight on "this un-American legislation."

Tonight Mather said he had signed an unconditional oath so as to "clear the way for the defense of those teachers who had qualified their oaths on religious grounds."

WARANTS CHARGE TAVERN BEATING; SECOND IN WEEK

Warants were obtained yesterday in the Municipal court by Frank A. Bartow, 43 years old, 451 Wrightwood avenue, charging Joseph Sauer, Otto Gessat, and an unnamed waiter with assault and battery. Sauer and Gessat are proprietors of the Black Forest tavern, 2638 North Clark street. Bartow is a publicity man with a film company distributing agency here.

Bartow told Sheffield avenue police that the three men followed him from the tavern yesterday and attacked him in his garage at 623 Dole avenue. Bartow denied Sauer's charge that he and a friend smashed a window in the tavern. Bartow said that in the scuffle he lost a $150 diamond wrist watch.

Last Sunday night Elwyn C. Babcock, 40 years old, a Washington attorney who is president of the American Federation of Government Employés, charged he was beaten while drinking in the tavern.

GANG "SUGAR KING" SLAIN; GIRL TIED UP

Paterson, N. J., Dec. 11.—(AP)—Sammy Mandel, 40, known to police and the underworld as the "sugar king," was found slain tonight on the sidewalk in front of the apartment house where a girl acquaintance lived.

Neighbors told Acting Captain James Smith they heard two shots and a girl screaming. As they rushed to the scene they said they saw two men run away, enter a car, and vanish. Capt. Smith said he believed the cord was used to bind Mandel's girl acquaintance, who, police said, is known as Anna Caillie, alias Kelly, 30.

Mandel was taken in a passing automobile to Barnert hospital, where he was pronounced dead. He had bullet wounds in the back of the head.

Miss Caillie was taken to police headquarters for questioning. She was semi-hysterical and unable to answer coherently.

Police theorized that the slayers invaded the woman's room, where they also found Mandel, bound her, and took Mandel outside, where they shot him.

SLAYER WEDS; DEATH PENALTY SENTENCE DUE

New York, Dec. 11.—[Special.]—John Collins, convicted murderer who will be sentenced to death next week, was married today to his sweetheart, Helen Downey, surrounded by attorneys, reporters and photographers.

The girl, whose name on the records appears as Anna, wept continually and, as Municipal Court Justice William H. Robinson pronounced them man and wife, Collins burst into tears and nearly collapsed.

They posed in various attitudes of embracing and kissing, turning their tear-stained faces to the lenses leveled at them from the battery of cameras.

The bride's sister, May, acted as bridesmaid, but a hitch occurred when it was decided that it would be unethical for Deputy Sherif Joseph F. Littig to appear as best man. To cover this contingency, a reporter, Phillip Clifford, was drafted.

Collins was convicted of the murder of Charles Theuner, a civic worker, in a Queens tavern, June 22.

DIES AFTER SWALLOWING POISON.

Mrs. Josephine Stech, 74 years old, 2414 Turner avenue, died in St. Anthony's hospital yesterday after swallowing poison in her home earlier in the day.

COMPLETE THE "HAIR CYCLE" AND HAIR LOSS STOPS

says Charles Nessler, pioneer in modern hair research... inventor of Permanent Waving, author of the books "Story of Hair", "Our Vanishing Hair" and many scientific papers.

No. You can't stop hair from falling out with Charles Nessler's Pro-Ker Treatment. Nor with anything else, for that matter. Nature intends that hair should fall out; and should be constantly replaced with a growth of new, live, lustrous hair.

The trouble is following unscientific advice, we go at the proposition backwards. We fail to help nature replace fallen hair. In fact, we often hinder the natural replacement of hair.

Pro-Ker. Charles Nessler's latest achievement, helps the scalp perform its natural function—to replace falling hair with new, live, healthy hair. Excess oiliness, dandruff, itching scalp are secondary symptoms relieved by the healthful application of Pro-Ker.

Start today to use Pro-Ker. Quick, pleasant and easy to apply. On sale at all drug counters. 8 oz. and 16 oz. sizes.

FARM MEETING SIDESTEPS ON CANADIAN PACT

Urges That Government Cut Down Costs.

A resolution indorsing reciprocal trade treaties was adopted yesterday at the closing session of the American Farm Bureau federation's 17th annual meeting in the Hotel Sherman. The delegates "straddled the fence," however, as the resolution did not mention specifically the recent trade agreement between Canada and the United States, which lowered the duty on many farm products coming in over the northern border.

Another of the 17 resolutions adopted at the meeting concerned "federal fiscal policies." Indicating their uneasiness over the mounting federal deficit, the farmers recommended that the fiscal policies of the government be modified, and that "its revenues shall be increased, and that its expenditures shall be decreased, to the end that within the next few years a balance shall be attained."

Federation Supports AAA.

The federation also approved a resolution pledging itself to defend the Agricultural Adjustment administration act. The meeting offered no serious criticism of the act, but asked that its administration be simplified.

In discussing their resolution on reciprocal trade treaties the delegates agreed that admitting more goods into the country made it possible for them to sell more of their farm products abroad. They insisted that this purpose be adhered to in framing of the treaties and that there be no reduction in present agricultural tarifs on any farm products that would have the effect of reducing domestic price levels below parity on such products.

A. J. Olson, president of the Minnesota farm bureau, termed the resolution "pussyfooting." Minnesota dairy farmers have not been friendly toward the Canadian trade treaty and have warned that the lowering of tarifs on dairy products, seed potatoes and pulpwood might have an adverse effect on farmers in this country.

Dairymen Vs. Cattlemen.

A friendly battle was staged between dairymen on one side and beef cattle raisers and cotton planters on the other when an additional tax on oleomargarin was proposed. After a two hour debate a resolution was adopted asking for an additional tax of at least 10 cents a pound on oleomargarin manufactured in the United States and made in whole or in part from imported products.

Another resolution asked for an excise tax on tropical starches, eggs and egg products and black strap molasses when imported for distillation purposes, to force sellers of imported products to charge a price equal to that received by producers in this country.

The delegates were encouraged in their adherence to the AAA by speeches of President Roosevelt on Monday and Secretary of Agriculture Wallace on Tuesday in which it was indicated that additional legislative steps would be taken to maintain some sort of an AAA program although the present AAA may be knocked out by the United States Supreme court.

Vote for Processing Tax.

The convention asked that AAA contracts between the government and the farmers be worked out on a farm unit basis instead of on individual farm commodities by classes. They also asked that processing taxes be continued.

It was indicated that the federation members were pleased that the President, the secretary of agriculture, and congress accepted their recommendations in amending the original AAA act. On farm mortgage loans made by the federal government the convention requested that the 3½ per cent interest rate be continued for at least two more years.

The delegates, representing a paid up membership of 300,000 farmers in 37 states, reëlected Edward A. O'Neal of Alabama as president of the federation for a term of two years. O'Neal spoke in favor of the AAA on the same program with President Roosevelt on Monday. Charles E. Hearst was reëlected vice president and all 15 members of the board of directors were reappointed.

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farm

By Frank Ridgway

Unusual Calves.

TEN little blue gray calves romping around with their mothers in a lot at the Tribune Experimental farm near Plano and Yorkville are expected to attract much attention among cattle breeders and feeders during the next few months. The last of the ten calves was born a few days ago in the herd of coal black pure bred Aberdeen-Angus hefers brought to the farm a year ago in November for use in a breed test suggested by Milton E. Jones, a Shorthorn cattle breeder of Williamsville, Ill.

Breeders have been waiting eagerly for a year to see the offspring of the ten hefers mated with Silver Victor R, a pure bred snow white Shorthorn bull. Each hefer produced a calf and all are living. There are six bulls and four hefers, all with black and white coats.

The calves, none more than three months old, are still nursing; most of them, especially the younger ones, will be kept on their mother's milk, supplemented with grain and hay, for several months.

Some of the best Shorthorn and Angus blood is to be found in the sire and dams of these calves. The bull has some of the famous Maxwalton Shorthorn blood in his veins; he was sired by Maxwalton Amateur and was bred by S. T. Whalin & Son of Rose Hill, Ill. Silver Victor R is a descendant of the most noted line of sires in the United States, according to cattle breed authorities. Whitehall Sultan and Avondale, both famous Shorthorn bulls, are among his forefathers.

The Angus dams of the blue gray calves were bought from B. E. Seeley of the Springdale Stock farm at Mount Pleasant, Ia. They, too, are from some of the most noted families of their breed. They were registered when they were calves. The hefers all were sired by Benedict of Woodcote 4th, No. 410829, and Eno Elba, No. 403593. The dams of the Seeley hefers are of the Blackcap, Erica, and Blackbird cattle families, all familiar names to students of cattle pedigrees.

The calves are the first to be produced by the Angus hefers which were a year old last May. While the calves are small, as was to be expected from young hefers, they are all quite sturdy and are expected to make fine beef animals. The older calves already are eating grain and hay.

The calves will be carefully fed and developed, if possible, into high grade baby beeves. Many of the Aberdeen-Angus animals that won prizes in the International Live Stock exposition are relatives of the Tribune farm hefers.

The idea of producing blue gray beef animals was borrowed from Scotland. In that old Shorthorn cattle country many of the best producers raise blue gray animals for their feed lots. Their plan of breeding is the same as that followed at the Yorkville farm where two distinct beef breeds are crossed.

The idea of crossing distinctly different breeds is now being tried out among American hog breeders. The mating of beef cattle to get blue gray animals is not a common practice in this country.

The blue gray beef animal test at the Tribune farm is so unusual that it is attracting attention among farmers throughout the nation.

RACKETS BLAME IN NEW YORK CITY LAID TO BUSINESS

New York, Dec. 11.—[Special.]—New York's business men, because of either greed or cowardice, are to blame for most of the city's many rackets, Thomas E. Dewey, special racket prosecutor, declared before 300 of the city's business leaders gathered at a charity luncheon here today.

Many business men have hired the underworld, Mr. Dewey said, and others have submitted to extortion rather than resist when the underworld moved in on them.

Instead of taking advantage of his investigation to end this gangster domination, the prosecutor said, those who are contributing to the 200 million dollar yearly racket levy have lied, evaded and concealed their payments to racketeers.

Mr. Dewey spoke at a report luncheon of the united hospitals campaign committee at the Hotel Biltmore.

Loan Shark Racket Cited.

He introduced his charges by saying he was appalled at the idea that it takes all the efforts of business to raise $2,000,000 for the hospital fund "when a comparatively small racket like the loan shark racket can take in $10,000,000 a year."

There are, he continued, at least twenty other rackets in the city whose annual take is as great or greater.

"In many cases," he said "business interests are allied with underworld elements either for trade advantages or because racketeers have chiseled in on industry and business has sub-

Charges Lies, Evasion.

"Not one business man out of a hundred who has paid tribute has told the truth to my assistants," Dewey said. "They continue to lie and evade, although we know they have paid from one to ten to fifty thousand dollars in shakedowns.

"And there are those business men in one industry, 250 of whom have been examined by my staf, who have acted the same way.

"There are books of one which show the payment of $2,000, charged to 'labor trouble,' and when we questioned him he said he had spent the money for strike breakers and taxis and so forth, but he cannot account for $500 with all his fancy story.

"The solution is a long, hard job of digging quietly, persistently. It took three years of work by the United States government to get Capone—of course, on income tax—but only on income tax because the rackets are cleverly designed."

"Start before I'm ready, eh? . . . not this time!"

Harold Lloyd, appearing soon locally in Paramount's "The Milky Way," is apparently taking no chances. Our guess is that someone has put Standard's New double-quick starting gasoline in the truck and there's no holding her.

WE AGREE with you—the episode pictured here is exaggerated. At the same time, in all sincerity, we want to call your attention to the unusually fast-starting qualities of the new gasoline Standard Oil Company is offering this winter.

We say it has Double-Quick Live Power—and that's not an exaggeration. It definitely is the fastest-acting gasoline Standard Oil ever produced. Fast acting, not only in starting a cold engine, but also in warming it up to full, smooth, drive-away power. It has fully 35% greater warm-up speed at zero temperatures.

With this gasoline in your car, you can expect real summer-time performance this winter, every time you're ready to start up your engine—not a flash-in-the-pan and then a period of jerky warm-up, but full steam ahead. Get some of this new Standard Red Crown now . . . and SEE WHAT HAPPENS next time you step on the starter.

OFFICE OF
JOHN O'CONNOR

208
SOUTH STATE STREET

November 12, 1935

Mr. D. F. McMahon,
Retail Advertising Manager,
Chicago Tribune,
Chicago, Illinois.

Dear Mr. McMahon:

We presume you have noticed that our Tribune advertising of 14,552 lines in September and 15,333 in October constitutes a new high record in linage for O-G shoes. This was 59% of all the newspaper linage we ran in September and 63% of all we used in October.

Although the Tribune has been our first medium for many years, we have been concentrating in the Tribune this year to a greater extent than ever before.

The reason is obvious to anyone who has noticed the action in our stores. The right merchandise, the right service, the right prices and the right newspaper are a combination that has been establishing some new records for us, too -- in both men's and women's O-G shoes.

Very truly yours,

O'CONNOR & GOLDBERG

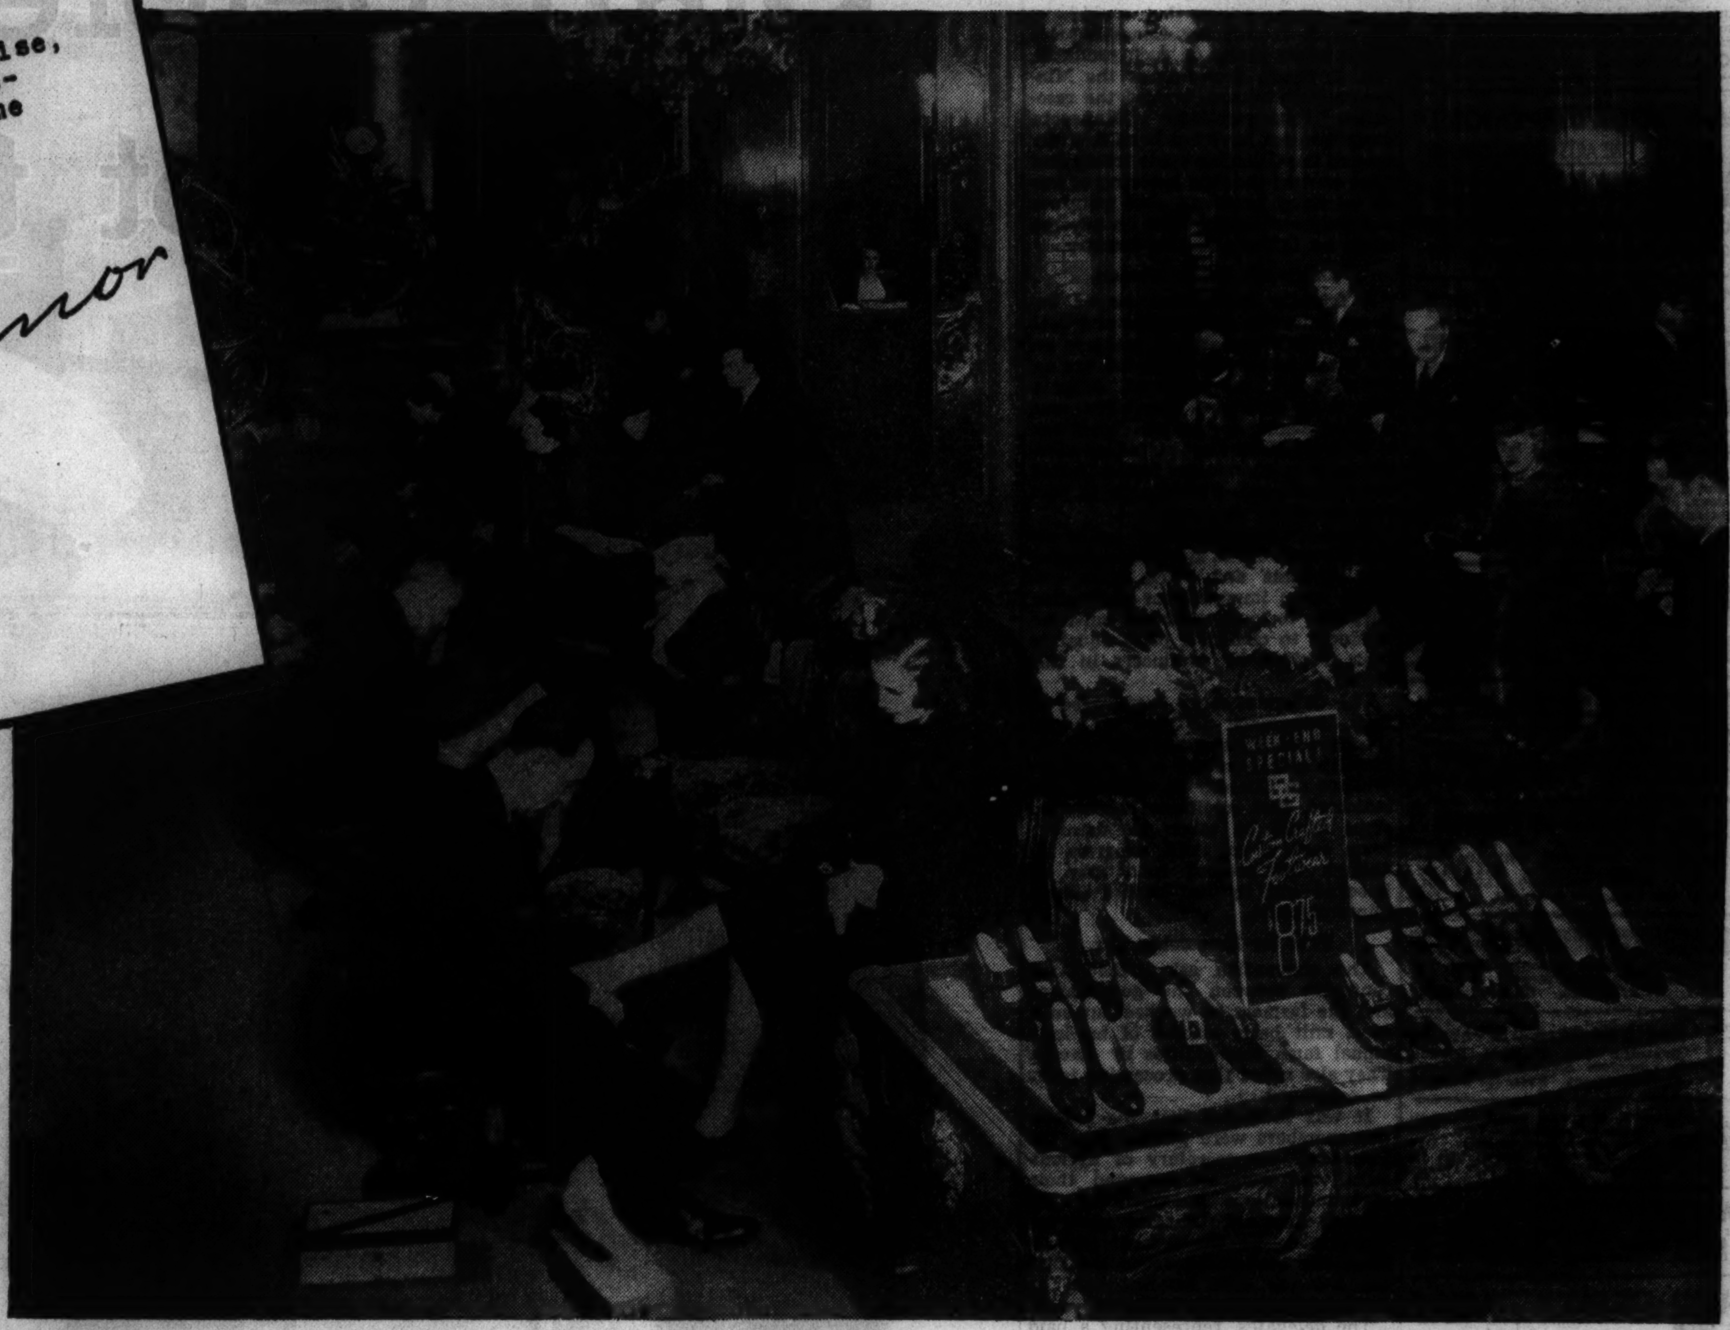
"WE HAVE BEEN CONCENTRATING IN THE TRIBUNE THIS YEAR TO A GREATER EXTENT THAN EVER."



A partial view of the interior of the Madison Street shop of O'Connor & Goldberg

"The reason is obvious to any one who has noticed the action in our stores..."

• During the month of September, O'Connor & Goldberg placed 14,552 lines of advertising in the Chicago Tribune — a new high record for September advertising volume placed by this firm in any Chicago newspaper. In October they followed through with 15,333 lines in the Tribune— a record breaker for October!

Thirty-two years ago two young men started in business in Chicago.

In a single store at 6 S. Clark street, John O'Connor and Julius Goldberg set out to get their share of the shoe business in a city of 1,800,000 population.

As Chicago grew, O'Connor & Goldberg grew. While the city was increasing its population, constantly offering new customers, O'Connor & Goldberg added outlet to outlet.

Today, with fourteen stores supplied with footwear designed and produced in their own modern factories, Messrs. O'Connor and Goldberg are the heads of one of the largest quality shoe retailing and manufacturing organizations in America.

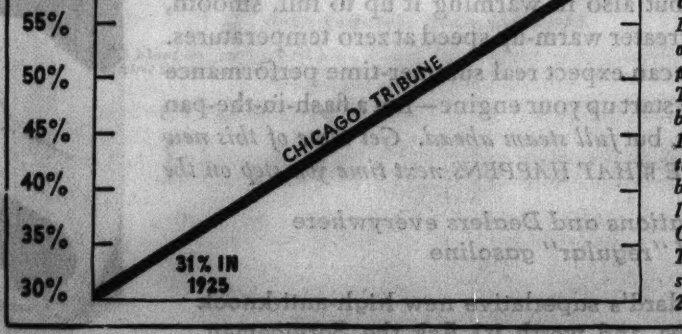
Any one interested in selling to the people of Chicago will find in the history of O'Connor & Goldberg the three fundamentals which are essential to success in this market.

They knew what this market wanted.

They knew how to supply it at the right price.

They concentrated their advertising in the medium whose growing circulation constantly made available the buying power in an expanding market.

Since 1919, O'Connor & Goldberg, to get the volume of sales their business requires, have placed more linage in the Chicago Tribune than in any other Chicago newspaper. How their business has expanded—how the Tribune has kept pace with their requirements in an expanding market—may be gauged from the fact that the volume of advertising which O'Connor & Goldberg



In September and October of 1925 O'Connor & Goldberg placed 31% of their total Chicago newspaper linage in the Tribune. In September and October of 1935 they placed 62% of their total newspaper linage in the Tribune. In September and October of 1925 the Tribune led the second newspaper by 282 lines, or 1%. In September and October of 1935 the Tribune led the second newspaper by 22,830 lines, or 324%.

placed in the Tribune during each of the months of September and October, 1935, exceeded the 13,521 lines of Tribune advertising used during the entire year of 1910.

November, maintaining the pace, saw last November's big figures topple.

Last year O'Connor & Goldberg placed 97,478 lines of advertising in the Tribune—or 49% of their advertising linage in Chicago newspapers.

This year during the first eleven months the Tribune has received 109,186 lines—or more than all other Chicago newspapers combined.

With pay rolls and employment running at the best levels since 1930, Chicago is witnessing the biggest buying activity in years.

CHINA INCREASES GUARDS TO QUELL STUDENT STRIKE

Armed Squads Posted at Peiping Colleges.

BY JOHN POWELL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TIENTSIN, Dec. 11.—Peiping students today carried out their threat of a general strike in protest against Japanese penetration in North China, and only a few attended classes, but the Chinese police and military completely suppressed street demonstrations and other public protests.

Ten to fifty armed guards surrounded all colleges while the campus of Northeastern university, which was removed to Peiping from Mukden following the Japanese occupation of the Manchurian provinces in 1931, was surrounded by 300 police.

Seven additional students there were arrested and police refused to release about thirty who were arrested Monday. Tsinghua and Yen Ching universities, which have American connections and which have campuses outside Peiping's walls, were so closely guarded that neither student nor faculty members could leave without passes. Peiping national university, under military pressure, posted notice that any student agitating or striking would be summarily dismissed.

Threatens Army Action.

Maj. Gen. Hayao Tada, commander of Japanese troops in North China, declared that if students continue their agitation and create a situation endangering Japanese lives and property, the Japanese army will be compelled to take steps.

Tada asserted student agitation against Japan was largely caused "by misleading passages" in Chinese textbooks. He cited, as an example, that the texts referred to the Japanese seizure of Corea and Formosa in the Chinese-Japanese war [1894-'95], but did not refer to English, French, and Russian seizures of the Chinese territories in past years.

Tada also alleged communist influence is strong among students, propagated by secret communist bases at Tientsin and Shanghai.

Hankow Students Parade.

HANKOW, China, Dec. 12 [Thursday].—(AP)—Several thousand students paraded through the streets of this central China city today, shouting slogans in opposition to the North China autonomy movement.

Recall Exiled Premier.

NICE, France, Dec. 11.—(AP)—Former Chinese Premier Hu Han-min, one time generalissimo of the Canton armies, who has been living in exile, was summoned tonight by a cable from the Kuomintang [Chinese Nationalist party] to proceed immediately to Nanking. Gen. Hu said he would return as soon as he could engage ship passage.

Mongols Visit Moscow.

MOSCOW, Dec. 11.—(AP)—A delegation of officials from the Mongolian Peoples republic arrived in Moscow on an unannounced mission today. The delegation was headed by the prime minister and minister of war.

Negotiations between Mongolia and Manchukuo for establishment of a mixed commission to settle border disputes recently broke down after the Manchukuans, according to soviet contentions, had threatened an invasion of Mongolia.

Manchukuans Advance.

SHANGHAI, Dec. 11. — (AP) — A Reuters [British] News agency dispatch from Peiping today said Manchukuan troops, which yesterday occupied Kuyuan, in southeastern Chahar province, had also entered nearby Paochang.

Maj. Gen. Kenji Doihara, special agent for the Japanese military in North China, was reported to have offered to mediate for evacuation if the Chinese authorities agreed to station Mongol police in the territory which previously had been occupied by Chinese police.

Gill Speeds Tax Distribution; Hoard Is Cut to 20 Year Low

BY JOSEPH ATOR.

The report of County Treasurer Joseph L. Gill for the month of November, issued yesterday, showed that the office's total of unincumbered and undistributed tax funds had been reduced to $5,652,596. So far as available records show, this is a twenty year low for tax funds held undistributed by the treasurer.

The record was achieved despite the fact that November was the busiest collection season of the year. The penalty date on personal property taxes and the first instalment of real estate taxes for 1934 fell on Nov. 4, and during the month the treasurer's office disbursed to taxing bodies a total of 49,532,173 in tax collections.

The rapid distribution was made possible by the installation in the office of a mechanical bookkeeping department for distributing current tax collections. Under the new system, money paid on current tax bills is allocated to the various governments which levy the taxes within 24 hours after the bill is paid.

Means a Saving on Interest.

In handling tax collections, the treasurer's office has two functions. In its collection department it deals with the individual taxpayer, keeping a record of his taxes and receipting his bill when he pays it. In the distribution department collections are broken down and allocated to the 400-odd taxing districts in Cook county.

Inability of the treasurer to determine quickly and efficiently, after he collected the money, to what governments it belonged, was principally responsible in the past for the accumulation in the office of tens of millions of dollars of undistributed taxes. Pending distribution of that money, local governments were paying hundreds of thousands of dollars in additional interest on tax warants which the collections were earmarked to redeem.

By way of comparison, County Treasurer Robert M. Sweitzer had $37,961,319 in undistributed taxes and special assessments on hand on Jan. 31, 1935. That was the last big collection period, immediately following the deadline on 1933 personal property and the first instalment of 1933 real estate taxes. A month later, on Feb. 28, Treasurer Sweitzer still had $33,138,849 undistributed.

Other Funds on Hand.

In addition to the unencumbered tax fund, Treasurer Gill also had on hand $470,565 in undistributed special assessments and forfeitures on Nov. 30, and $4,469,857 in tax reserves. The latter, however, will never go to the local governments. They consist of money which will go to taxpayers as refunds on cases already adjudicated by the courts, $3,860,392 on 1931, 1932 and 1933 rate cases, and $609,465 on the so called "15 per cent" cut in assessments on residences and small flat buildings.

Tax collections for 1933 and prior years are still distributed under the old manual bookkeeping system, which takes more time than the new machine method. The undistributed and unencumbered tax funds on hand on Nov. 30 were divided as follows

1932 taxes	935,535
1933 taxes	1,555,485
1934 taxes	1,959,025
Total	$5,652,596

The undistributed 1934 taxes, Treasurer Gill said, are almost entirely railroad payments. The railroads made part of their payments under protest, and will file rate objections in the County court. Before their payments can be distributed, new tax bills must be made out, noting the proportion protested. That work will be finished in another ten days, Mr. Gill said.

BANDIT BLINDED BY GUN WOUND SENT TO PRISON

Matthew Rizzo, 22 years old, who was blinded by a shotgun charge when he and a companion attempted to hold up a liquor store at 5901 Irving Park boulevard on Oct. 9, pleaded guilty to a charge of robbery with a gun before Judge Cornelius J. Harrington in the Criminal court yesterday and was sentenced to the penitentiary for one year to life.

Rizzo, a former inmate of the Pontiac reformatory, was wounded by Nicholas Schmidt, owner of the liquor store, after Charles Slutte, a clerk, had killed Joseph Messina, 23 years old, who aided Rizzo in the robbery. Rizzo was carried away by a companion, who later tossed him from a car at St. Mary's hospital, 1120 North Leavitt street.

Assistant State's Attorney John Boyle urged leniency for Rizzo, explaining he had "paid the penalty." Judge Harrington agreed, but suggested the young robber could learn a craft for the blind in prison.

FOUR MURDERERS AT LARGE

Roaming the streets and highways of America in 22,000,000 cars are four desperate killers known as "Speed-Demon," "Over-Confidence," "Carelessness," and "Indifference."

These four murderers killed 35,769 and injured over 900,000 persons in auto accidents between January 1 and October 14, 1935.

That they will pile up a record of 40,000 killed and 1,000,000 injured for the full year is feared by safety experts. Every motorist is warned to be on guard against these killers. Don't let them get into your car.

They get into a car uninvited and hypnotize an otherwise careful driver. They urge, "Step on the gas." They whisper, "You can beat the light." They say, "Take a chance." They laugh at brake tests and tire chains. Then they kill another innocent victim.

BRITISH PEERS TO WEAR COCKED HATS AT TRIAL

Weigh Accident Case of Lord De Clifford.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Dec. 11.—Scarlet and ermine robed peers of England, in cocked hats, will decide tomorrow morning in the house of lords whether Lord De Clifford is guilty of manslaughter in causing the death of a racing driver, George Hopkins, in an automobile collision last August.

They probably will at the same time confer on De Clifford the distinction of being the last man in England to be tried under this ancient baronial privilege, for it seems that both the government members and many peers have decided that the archaic ritual must be abolished.

The trial will have its sartorial aspect as well as its forensic, for a heated controversy arose this week as to whether the peers should or should not wear cocked hats. They will wear them. Large wicker baskets filled with scarlet cloth bags carrying the robes and hats the peers will wear were sent to the house of lords today. Preparations and the holding of the trial will cost $20,000. The cost will have to be borne by Surrey county where the offense was committed.

Many Dodge Sitting.

It is expected about 100 peers will sit in on the trial. Many who did not want to attend officially and decide Lord De Clifford's guilt will be on hand in the gallery.

A spectacular scene will be presented at 11 o'clock when Lord De Clifford presents himself before the bar of the royal gallery with its elaborately carved ceiling, stained glass windows, tapestries and portraits, and its generally glamorous Gothic setting. Six judges of the king's bench division will attend the trial to see that all goes off correctly, but they will not actually participate.

The trial may last for two days. At the end of the hearing each peer will be asked: "How say you?" and he will reply "Guilty" or "Not guilty."

First Time in 34 Years.

This "trial by peers" is being held for the first time in thirty-four years. This method is based on the Magna Charta statement that a man must be judged by his peers, or equals. It is one of the remaining feudal rights held by the titled classes that those accused of a felony should be tried by members of their own class or order.

As the law stands, a peer accused of treason or felony is tried by the house of lords if parliament is sitting, otherwise by the court of the lord high steward. The privilege, which cannot be waived, belongs to all hereditary peers whether members of the house of lords or not.

Due to the infrequency of wearing robes and cocked hats many peers did not have them at their disposal. An enterprising firm of tailors circularized the upper house, offering to rent out these articles at cheap rates.

THOMAS CONLEY, RETIRED POLICE SERGEANT, DIES

Thomas J. Conley, 71 years old, 7736 Oglesby avenue, a retired police sergeant, died in Mercy hospital yesterday from a heart ailment. Sergt. Conley, who retired in 1923, had served thirty-three years on the force.

He was a desk sergeant at the old South Clark street station for twelve years before he retired. He first joined the police department of the village of Hyde Park and became a city policeman when the village was annexed to Chicago.

He is survived by his widow, Catherine, two sons, Edmund T. and Thomas, and a daughter, Mrs. John Conroy. Funeral services will be held Saturday morning from the home to Our Lady of Peace church, 79th street and Jeffery avenue. Burial will be in Mount Olivet cemetery.

ENGINEER DROPS DEAD AS FLYER NEARS STATION

Watseka, Ill., Dec. 11.—(AP)—Just as the Chicago bound C. & E. I. crack passenger train, the Dixie Flyer, roared into Watseka for its regular stop early today Engineer George V. Herren, 59, fell dead in the cab.

William Wusterholz, fireman, applied the brakes. Physicians said a heart attack killed Herren, who lived in Danville, Ill., and had worked on the line's Chicago division since 1903.

Wusterholz reported to Chicago offices of the railroad that Herren pulled the whistle at the usual spot and then remarked "that fire seems awful hot." Before Wusterholz could step across the cab the veteran engineer slumped from the seat box.

TEACHER, DOWN TO 154 POUNDS, APPEALS BAN IN FIGHT FOR HER JOB

Albany, N. Y., Dec. 11.—[Special.]—Miss Rose Freistater, weighing 154 pounds and looking trim in a black dress, appeared this afternoon before Dr. Frank P. Graves, state commissioner of education, on an appeal from the refusal of the New York City board of examiners to grant her a teaching license on the ground that she was overweight.

Her attorney, Harry Mabel, said her weight had been 180 pounds and that she had been ordered by the board to reduce to 150 pounds before she could get a license. She was given a certain time to meet the requirement and then requested an extension of time, but was refused.

Mabel insisted that the board of examiners overstepped its authority in fixing the physical qualifications of applicants for teachers' licenses. He asserted that her overweight was caused by overeating and not by any glandular condition.

"There is no person who can tell the proper weight of a person," said Mabel. "There is no basis for the weights prescribed by insurance companies. Proper weight cannot be determined, and all medical authorities are agreed that overweight is caused only by overeating."

MEDICAL CENTER SUED BY THREE OUSTED MEMBERS

Suit for an accounting of the funds of the Civic Medical Center of Chicago, 220 South State street, was filed in the Circuit court yesterday by Drs. A. A. Brauer, 122 North Lotus avenue, and John Riley, 7548 Ellwood avenue, physicians, and Dr. Harry Orth Stone, 4442 West End avenue, a dentist.

According to the bill the center was in the nature of a partnership arrangement and they were asked to make small investments. They were promised salaries ranging from $210 to $300 a month, the bill states. On Nov. 1, they allege, they were notified of their ouster. The bill asks that a receiver be appointed pending the accounting, which is to determine what sums of money they are to receive as fees.

The center was organized as a low cost medical and dental service last May by Drs. Charles R. Wiley, Ernest B. Zeisler, and Meyer J. Steinberg. In a suit filed last month by the United Medical Service, 23 East Jackson boulevard, the center was charged with "unfair competition."

MARY L. KELLAM, RAIL BUILDER'S DAUGHTER, DIES

Mrs. Mary Lillie Kellam, 80 years old, daughter of the late Cyrus K. Holliday, builder of the Santa Fe railroad and its first president, died Tuesday in Bronxville, N. Y., friends here were informed yesterday. Mrs. Kellam, who lived with her daughter, Mrs. George Burpee, in Bronxville, had visited in Chicago frequently, staying at the home of another daughter, who is the wife of Dr. Frank Smithies, 44 Banks street.

Mrs. Kellam was born in Topeka, Kas., in 1855. Topeka was then a frontier city and her father was one of the five founders. Mrs. Kellam was educated at the Old Bethany school in Topeka and later spent many years abroad, studying art, music, and literature. In addition to her two daughters, Mrs. Kellam is survived by a son, Kurtz W. Kellam, of San Antonio, Tex.

Mrs. Kellam's body will arrive in Topeka today and funeral services will be held there tomorrow. Burial will be in the family vault at Topeka.

The retirement of 20 Chicago public school teachers in January and one in December, in accordance with the new 65 year compulsory retirement age law, was authorized yesterday by the board of education. Included in the list are fourteen teachers who have taught in the Chicago system more than 40 years. They are Eva L. Dalton, Hawthorne school; Johanna Fitzgerald, Mark Sheridan school; Katherine H. Hanafin, McPherson school; Ella C. Hoskins, Von Steuben school; Ida K. O. Jones, Mason school; Josephine Mack, McKinley High school; Alice L. Merrill, Beale school; Rose Anne Murphy, Tuley High school; Grace E. Patterson, Peirce school; Emma Peterson, Hammond school; Edith Spears, Avondale school; Lillian W. Thompson, Englewood High school; Edna M. Wilson, Lane Technical High school, and Anna Mary Davis, Ogden school.

Charles Fellowes of Itasca Is Buried; Retired Banker

Funeral services for Charles Fellowes, 69 years old, a retired investment banker, who died on Monday, were held yesterday in the chapel at the Forest Home cemetery. Burial was in the cemetery. Mr. Fellowes lived on Bloomingdale road in Itasca. Surviving are his widow, Alice, and a son, Russell.

OFFICIAL TO ACT ON REFRIGERATOR POISONING DEATH

Cites Safety Violation; Inquest Delayed.

The death Tuesday night of Gerald Reynick, 34 years old, 5428 Kimbark avenue, from the effects of poisonous refrigerator gas which escaped in an apartment at 4844½ Drexel boulevard on Saturday night was "unnecessary," Harry A. Kohl, city boiler inspector, declared yesterday. Kohl indicated that he would proceed against the receivers of the building, known as the Tudor Manor, for failure to comply with the city refrigerating ordinance.

The refrigerating plant of the building, which contains fifty apartments, is of an old type which uses a poisonous gas for a refrigerant. The plant was inspected last June and a safety certificate was refused because of faulty pipe fittings and the failure to use an odorous gas in combination with the poisonous gas so the presence of the latter may be detected.

Kohl said that the refrigerating plant was again inspected a month ago and it was found the odorous gas was being used, but a certificate was again refused because the piping had not been repaired. He said that apparently a large quantity of the poisonous gas had been placed in the plant recently without a proportionate amount of the odored compound.

Reynick, an inspector for the Zenith Radio corporation, was overcome while visiting in the apartment of Miss Effie Barnholdt. He died in the Chicago Memorial hospital. Miss Barnholdt is expected to recover.

An inquest into Reynick's death was continued until Jan. 10 by Deputy Coroner Chris J. McGarigle yesterday pending the recovery of Miss Barnholdt.

MRS. SUSAN ANNE ARTINGSTALL, 88, DIES; A PIONEER

Funeral services for Mrs. Susan Anne Artingstall, 88 years old, widow of Samuel A. Artingstall, who was city engineer under Mayor Carter H. Harrison Sr., will be held tomorrow morning from the residence at 262 North Hamlin avenue to St. Mel church, 22 North Kildare avenue. Services also will be held at Graceland cemetery at 11 a. m.

Mrs. Artingstall died Tuesday of pneumonia. She was born in Rochester, N. Y., and came to Chicago in 1869. She and her husband lived on Belden avenue at the time of the Chicago fire. Mr. Artingstall was a consulting engineer for the Columbian exposition of 1893 and was the first president of the Western Society of Engineers.

Mrs. Artingstall is survived by eight children, Margaret, Gertrude, William, Samuel G., and John J. Artingstall, and Mrs. Lilian A. Archer and Mrs. John Hanson, all of Chicago, and Mrs. William J. Miskella of Oak Park.

LAUNCH 2 NEW U. S. DESTROYER UNITS IN EAST

New York, Dec. 11.—[Special.]—The new United States destroyer Cummings slipped down the ways today at the yard of the United Dry Docks, Inc. The 1,500 ton craft is the second of four similar vessels being built for the navy by this company.

The new fighting craft bears the name of Lieutenant Commander Andrew Boyd Cummings of civil war fame. His niece, Mrs. William Wirt Mills of West Brighton, christened the craft with the traditional smashing of a bottle of champagne on the bow.

Moffett Launched at Quincy.

Quincy, Mass., Dec. 11.—(AP)—The U. S. S. Moffett, a destroyer leader and newest of the navy's fighting ships, was launched today at the Fore River yards of the Bethlehem Shipbuilding corporation.

Miss Beverly Moffett of Washington, daughter of the later Rear Admiral William A. Moffett, for whom the ship was named, sponsored the launching. Rear Admiral Moffett died when the dirigible Akron crashed in April, 1933.

The craft is 372 feet long with a displacement of 1,850 tons.

ARTIST DIVORCED BY THE DAUGHTER OF DR. BRINKLEY

Circuit Judge Philip J. Finnegan granted an uncontested divorce yesterday to Mrs. Wanda Brinkley Groth, 26 years old, 3617 Wilton avenue, from John Groth, art director of Esquire magazine. Mrs. Groth testified that her husband used his "artistic temperament" as an excuse for acts of cruelty. Groth, now in New York, maintains a studio here at 116 East Pearson street. The court was told that an agreement had been made on alimony. Mrs. Groth, who was allowed to resume her maiden name, is the daughter of Dr. John Brinkley of Kansas, known as the goat gland specialist.

HUNT HIJACKERS WHO TORTURED KIDNAPED DRIVER

Chicago and Kane county police were searching yesterday for three men who hijacked a truck containing $5,000 in merchandise, then held and tortured the driver, Leslie Law, 32 years old, of Detroit, from Monday night until yesterday. Law, who is employed by the Express Freight lines, operating trucks between Detroit and Milwaukee, said that the men drove up beside him on Harlem avenue near route 66 and that two of them forced him into their car. The third man drove away with the truck. Law was blindfolded and the three men kept him in a house, the location of which he did not know, he said. After torturing him by burning his head and feet, the men threw Law out of their automobile yesterday five miles west of Aurora. He was found by a farmer.

Chicago Folk to Milwaukee Debut Party

Miss Suzanne Manierre to Be Introduced.

BY JUDITH CASS.

UNDOUBTEDLY some members of the Manierre clan and their friends in Chicago will be going to Milwaukee on Sunday, Dec. 29, for the debut tea of their kinswoman, Miss Suzanne Manierre, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Manierre III. of that city.

The debutante, whose family closely is connected with Chicago's history, is one of the favored debutantes of the Wisconsin city who will make their bows Dec. 26 at the annual charity ball of the Service club of Milwaukee. The Service club party is to Milwaukee what the Bachelors' Cotillion is to Baltimore.

Miss Manierre's great-grandfather was Judge George Manierre, who came to Chicago in 1832 and whose home stood at the southwest corner of Jackson boulevard and Michigan avenue. Her grandfather was the late William Reid Manierre of Dearborn parkway, and her aunt and uncle are Mrs. Julie Manierre Mann of Lake Forest and C. Edson Manierre of Chicago.

The debutante's mother, the former Katherine Newbury, a cousin of Harry Gordon Selfridge, was introduced to Chicago society in his Lake Shore drive residence in 1902. Samuel Newbury Manierre, the debutante's brother, recently gave a series of lectures on the fine arts at the Chicago Art institute. He is doing graduate work at Harvard this winter, but will be at home for his sister's debut. Miss Manierre is a graduate of Miss Wheeler's at Providence, R. I., and now is studying occupational therapy at the Milwaukee-Downer college.

Mrs. Linn Recalls Luncheon Invitations.

Mrs. Howard Linn has recalled invitations to a luncheon she had planned for today owing to the funeral services this morning for her cousin, McCormick Jewett. The party was to be given at the Casino for Mrs. Linn's childhood friend, Mrs. James Deering, who is here from New York with a collection of the Nancy Lincoln Guild's quilted articles that will be displayed at Mrs. Leonard Ettelson's, 1400 Dearborn parkway, today and tomorrow. The Princess Obolensky, who has many friends in Chicago, is president of the guild.

Mrs. Deering was Violet Pierce of St. Louis and she and Mrs. Linn, then Lucy McCormick Blair, played together when they were children at Prides Crossing on Massachusetts' north shore, where their families spent the summers.

Mrs. Linn is giving an informal supper party, a high tea she is calling it, this Sunday at Pointed Roofs, the Linns' charming home in Lake Bluff, for the Curtis Munsons, who are coming from their home in Alberta to spend Christmas with Mrs. Munson's mother, Mrs. D. Mark Cummings.

The next Sunday, Dec. 22, Mrs. Linn will be a supper hostess again for that night she is entertaining for two debutantes of the season, Miss Jean Ryerson and Miss Alice Orr.

This party will be at Pointed Roofs also, and after supper Mr. and Mrs. Linn and their young guests will motor to town to occupy five boxes at the hocky game in the Stadium.

Two Luncheons in Lake Forest.

Most of the debutantes and their beaux who will be the Linns' guests that night will have luncheon that day in Lake Forest as the guests of Mr. and Mrs. William McCormick Blair, Mrs. Linn's brother and sister-in-law, or of Mrs. Jay Morse Ely, who will be entertaining for Miss Pauline Palmer, Miss Barbara Hutchins, and Miss Joan Smith. The Blairs' party will be for Miss Joan Ryerson and her cousin, Miss Nancy Ryerson.

Miss Orr, always called Dé-dé by her family and friends, is in her first year at Bryn Mawr, having finished at the Shipley school last June. She will make her formal bow to society at a dinner-dance her brother and his wife, the Montgomery Orrs, will give on Dec. 30 at the Casino. Miss Orr is the younger daughter of Mrs. Arthur Orr of St. Charles. The "Monty" Orrs are living in St. Charles this winter also.

Mrs. Linn is delaying reserving a sailing for England, where she is going to hunt after the first of the year, until she hears when her sister-in-law, Miss Mabel Linn, will be ready to accompany her. Miss Linn, who recently returned to California after two years in Denver, is planning to make England her home henceforth.

Joseph T. Ryersons Give Dinner Tonight.

About forty young people will assemble at the Joseph T. Ryersons' handsome Astor street residence tonight for a dinner party Mr. and Mrs. Ryerson are giving for one of their debutante nieces, Miss Nancy Ryerson, daughter of the junior Edward L. Ryersons. After dinner the party will move on to the Stadium to watch the hocky game.

Miss Joan Ryerson, daughter of Mrs. Donald M. Ryerson, is arriving on Dec. 19 to spend the holidays with her mother at the Drake Towers. Miss Ryerson is studying writing in Cambridge, Mass., this winter.

Leonards to Give Annual Reception.

For the first time Miss Deborah Leonard's name is included on the cards sent out by "The Leonards" for their annual New Year's day reception at Wildacre in Winnetka.

Contests Won by Helen Bell and Mrs. Getz

BY ELEANOR PAGE.

About 400 persons made merry at the annual Emerson house ball at the Stevens hotel last night in a benefit to provide funds for the children cared for by Emerson Settlement house on West Grand avenue.

Despite the fact that it was a mid-week night, the party continued until a late hour, culminating in the selection of the streamline girl and the streamline matron of 1936. The judges, Mrs. George W. Dulany Jr. and Walter Frazier, awarded the former title to Miss Helen Bell and the latter to Mrs. James R. Getz.

Miss Bell, president of the Chicago Junior league, wore a blue taffeta gown made bouffant style with drop shoulders and a blue ribbon in her hair. Mrs. Getz, the former Betsy Needham, wore a silver brocade gown and two pale orchids. Miss Bell's prize was a cigaret case belt buckle. Mrs. Getz was presented with a beauty box.

The party was late starting. One of the first to arrive was Miss Lydia Swift, whose arm still is in a sling. She deserved a word of praise for her efficient work as chairman of the party. Escorted by her fiancé, Paul Rowan, to whom she will be married Saturday, she looked exceedingly lovely in a white crepe gown with an ermine collar and two white orchids. And she did not look a whit tired in spite of prenuptial festivities and wedding preparations which have demanded attention as well as her chairmanship duties. Miss Swift and Mr. Rowan dined before the party in the apartment of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alden B. Swift, with several young guests.

Mrs. Louis C. Sudler, one of the most loyal members of the Emerson House board, was another early arrival.

Miss Madelon Search, a debutante of the season who was among a score of young and pretty girls who sold cigarets, arrived with Robert Wolff. She wore an unusual gown made in two pieces; a skirt of Nile green crêpe, and a blouse of fuchsia taffeta. Miss Elisabeth Dewes, another flower girl, and a large group of debutantes and young men came on from a dinner Mrs. William Waller and Mrs. William Dixon gave for her.

A few of those in this party were the debutante Miss Dewes' older sister, Miss Dorothy Dewes, in a stunning Grecian gown of white; Miss Alice May Dickinson in grey taffeta, and Mr. and Mrs. William M. Collins Jr., she in a gown of tangerine crêpe with a Hindoo hood which she sometimes wore over her head, and sometimes draped gracefully down the back.

Others present included Miss Nancy Ryerson wearing a gown of crimson taffeta with leg-o-mutton sleeves, who danced with Bigelow Boysen; Miss Mary Alice Bacon, a tall slim girl who was surrounded with beaux anxious to buy cigarettes she was selling; Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Chatillon, who came on from a dinner at which Miss Nancy Doering was hostess, and before which the Chatillons had been host and hostess at cocktails. Stewart Boal was Miss Doering's escort.

THE story is current around Rockford, Ill., that a teacher with a record of long years of service in the grade schools was driving her car in Rockford when the trafic cop raised his arm in a vain attempt to halt her progress. By means of repeated blasts on his whistle he finally halted her a half block from the scene of her misdemeanor.

School Teacher—Cappy—Apologia—Lucky.

"Don't you know," he inquired, politely but severely, "what it means when I raise my hand?"

"I ought to," she answered, "I've taught school long enough."

THE small son of the Hall Adamses was always spoken of as "Corky," after the comic strip child, until his father, who is head of a wine bottle capping industry, realized that would never do. "Corky"—with its reminder of a competitive business—has been dropped, and the child now answers to "Cappy."

YOU'VE heard bus and street car passengers comment that they were lucky to get a seat. Well, a Chicago mother who waited in a crowded department store for a down going elevator decided to take the escalator down instead. As they got on the little boy piped up:

"Mom, we sure were lucky to get a step, weren't we?"

Lawton to Play at Woman's Symphony

BY EDWARD BARRY.

A concert interesting for several reasons will be played by the Woman's Symphony orchestra in the Studebaker theater next Sunday afternoon.

For one thing, Ralph Lawton is soloist. He is the American pianist who was engaged to play in the opening orchestral concert of the 1933 Salzburg festival, the first native born pianist to be so honored. Many have given Salzburg recitals of one kind or another, but to appear on the official Festival program is quite another matter.

Another point of interest is Mr. Lawton's choice of works for this Sunday. The Debussy Fantasie for piano and orchestra will have its first Chicago performance. His other vehicle will be the rarely heard Ravel concerto.

Ebba Sundstrom, conductor of the orchestra, has built a program of French music around the names of two great impressionists. The brilliant Saint-Saëns overture to "The Yellow Princess" will be followed by a Franck symphonic poem, "Les Eolides." After the intermission she has some excerpts from Delibes' "Coppelia" scheduled.

This concert will be the second of the tenth anniversary season of the Woman's Symphony orchestra.

The Chicago Symphony orchestra announces the following changes in its schedule:

Efrem Zimbalist, who was to take Myra Hess' place on Dec. 26 and 27, will be himself replaced on those dates by John Weicher, assistant concert meister of the orchestra.

Igor Strawinsky has canceled his American tour, and will not conduct the orchestra this coming January. Samuel Dushkin, the violinist who was to have performed the Strawinsky concerto, has been removed from the list of soloists.

Eric DeLamarter, associate conductor, will take the Jan. 30 and 31 concerts. The winner of the Strawinsky piano concerto contest will play. Application may still be made by pianists of the Chicago district for a place in this contest.

The Gag Man Is Lone Wolf of Film Lots

Eliminating Comedy One of His Jobs.

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., Dec. 11.—[Special.]—The more one sees of gag men the more one realizes there is nothing funny about being funny. Gag men are a paradoxical lot—serious, yet carefree, studious and at the same time accomplished wisecrackers. Even their job of removing unwanted comedy from a serious scene is paradoxical.

Comedians are proverbially sour faced fellows off the screen. But gag men when not working are almost invariably a happy-go-lucky crew with a faculty for telling jokes well and with a ready fund of the latest gags. They are unhappy only when compelled to listen to another's jokes.

On the sets gag men wander around with forlorn expressions; most of the time sunk in deep thought. They are snatching gags from their memories and then discarding them.

Each major studio has fifty to sixty writers under contract and of this number four to a dozen are bound to be gag men. Incidentally, almost all of the gag men are men. With the exception of Dorothy Parker and Doris Malloy, Hollywood has no gag women.

Gag men work with the more serious-minded members of the craft who are known as dramatic writers. In writing scripts, the gag man serves a double purpose. He puts comedy into the picture and he removes it.

Most dramatic writers don't realize it when they approach the comedy border line. They become so engrossed in a scene that they can't see the funny side of it. This often results in a serious scene becoming laughable and it is the gag man's job to recognize this danger and circumvent it. Every moviegoer has laughed at poorly handled dramatic scenes and they happen oftenest when a gag man is absent.

For putting comedy into the picture gag men usually rely on memory, although a few adopt the card index files so widely used by the gag men of radio. Ralph Spence and Grant Garrett own two of Hollywood's best equipped files of jokes, but most of their fellow humorists just naturally have comedy minds.

The gag man remains with the picture right through its shooting. He stays on the sets and thinks up bits of comedy suggested by "props" and other things that couldn't have been figured out in advance.

Bobby Vernon, one of Paramount's ace gag men, who was a comedy star in silent films for some fourteen years, is adept at spontaneous comedy. The famous gag used by W. C. Fields in "Mississippi" when he tilted his cigar to miss the spokes on the river boat's steering wheel, was one of Vernon's.

Currently, Vernon is working with Director Alexander Hall on the new Jan Kiepura-Gladys Swarthout musical, "Give Us This Night." An essentially serious vehicle, Vernon has Kiepura and Benny Baker climbing all over a room while the romantic tenor reherses the opera scenes he is to do later in the picture.

Like many other gag men, Vernon has ambitions to be a director. Many gag men have attained that goal, notably Norman Taurog and Norman MacLeod, who are among the best contract directors. Jack Cunningham, who was W. C. Field's chief gag man for a long time, is now in a supervisor's berth at Paramount. Dave Butler, currently handling Shirley Temple and Guy Kibbee in "Captain January" at Twentieth Century-Fox, is a one-time gag man.

Most of the gag men are writers and never were anything else. Vernon and Glenn Tryon, a topnotcher at R-K-O, are ex-actors. Bob Benchley is a man who is a gag man, wrtier, and actor all in one. Even Chic Sale is known in Hollywood for his instinctive "gagging" and the late Will Rogers was the greatest gag man of all.

Gag men are not a gregarious lot. Sometimes they work in pairs—such as Harry Clark and Doris Malloy, who worked in Harold Lloyd's "The Milky Way." Most of the time, though, they are lone wolves and they seldom get together as a group. In fact, one of Hollywood's saddest sights is when gag men get together and begin telling jokes. Only the one telling the joke enjoys it.

Through the Looking Glass

A gift suggestion for the dainty beauty: A square, gold topped compact with the powder compartment in gold mesh.

We never knew how much restraint we had until recently. Here's the story: One of the most exquisite of vanities came our way a month or so ago, but we couldn't breathe a word about it until it was in the shops. We didn't either, but now it's in we're going to urge you to pop down instantly and take a lingering look at it. It's very much the tops—and as a Christmas gift we don't see how in the world it could fail to make the gal's heart flutter.

It's a compact unlike all other compacts but not, thank heaven, the least bit gadgety. We have never fancied compacts that looked like something else or were all fitted up with tricks so that they did everything but tinkle with music. This one is different in design, but it looks and is one of the handsomest powder cases any woman ever carried.

It's square, this compact, with a flat gold top that is chastely elegant with its alternating stripes of glittering and dull metal. The body of the compact itself, though, is gold mesh—not one of those ghastly mesh pouches that were the rage with lavallieres, but a dainty, shallow four cornered little bag, not more than an inch deep, or thereabouts.

The mirror is set inside the square top; the loose powder [and there's room for plenty in the deceivingly small bag] is beneath a chiffon sifter, and to make the whole thing properly frivolous as well as elegant there is a fluffy, roly-poly marabou puff.

If you've been looking for something dainty for a dainty lady consider this vanity. You'll like it yourself—and we can positively guarantee that she will. ELEANOR NANGLE.

Women Voters Announce Slogan Contest Winners

Washington, D. C., Dec. 11.—[Special.]—Mrs. Thomas Reed Powell of Cambridge, Mass., wife of a professor in the Harvard law school, is the first prize winner in the nation-wide contest of the National League of Women Voters for a slogan for the organization's qualified government personnel campaign. Mrs. Powell's slogan is "Find the Man for the Job, Not the Job for the Man." Honorable mention is given Mrs. Marion Quick Wiegman of Maywood, Ill., who submitted "Public Servants, Not Party Servants."

A Bed Jacket Is Ideal Gift for Book Owls

Offers Protection Against Mystery Chills.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Everything has been done for the nocturnal comfort of the rapidly increasing multitude of "readers in bed." Shivering followers of the hazards of detecting via the pages of the latest mystery thriller will not shake because they are insufficiently wrapped in woolies. Far from it. The newest things in bed jackets will keep the most imaginative scary cat as calm and equable as the villain himself.

You can read till the pale light of early dawn with the heat reduced to the lowest wave and still turn out the light and snuggle down to sleep as warm as when you opened the book. Flannel or wool or knitted jackets, tailored as smoothly as a man's smoking jacket, with pockets for a comforting supply of lozenges or nuts to nibble on, and with sleeves long and snugly fitted at the wrist, come in pastels and good dark colors.

Decorative affairs to suit the most dress parade weakness you may want to indulge are feathery confections of tub velvet to match your pet tub velvet nightgown. These come in luscious pastels with marabou or the newest of ostrich feather band trim streaking down the front and also flattering your wishes in cuffs at the end of long comfortable sleeves. Padded and quilted creations come in luxuriously lovely velvets, soft silks and dull crêpes in some of the most mouth watering colors you ever lost your heart to, honey ivory, soft yellow, turquoise blue, and bright flattering tones of red, Madonna blue and green.

The height of comfort as well as luxury are the white fur lined numbers ready for an arctic expeditionary force is you could wangle an invitation. These furry affairs would be perfect selections for the intrepid female explorers who take their adventure and travel thrills vicariously as they excitedly turn the pages of the latest travel yarns.

Buy bed jackets for these stay at home gadabouts on your Christmas list or for some hapless soul marooned in a hospital over the holidays. These jackets give a tremendous "pickup" to both the patient and the susceptible spectators.

Henry Clay Frick Art Treasures to Be Open to Public on Monday

New York, Dec. 11.—(AP)—A final select group of invited guests today viewed the art treasures of the late Henry Clay Frick, whose 5th avenue mansion will be opened next Monday for the public, to which he bequeathed it sixteen years ago.

The paintings, sculpture, and Limoges enamels are shown in rooms left furnished in as near their original manner as public exhibition will permit.

The gift of the art collections and mansion and an endowment of several million dollars were made in his will in 1919, but Mrs. Frick was allowed to continue to use the home until her death in 1931.

The Briar Pipe

By Stuart Palmer

SYNOPSIS.

Violet Feverel is killed, apparently by having been thrown from her horse, Siwash. She was taking an early morning's ride in New York's Central park. Miss Hildegarde Withers, teacher and student of criminology, happens on the scene of the tragedy, where she meets her friend, Inspector Piper. They suspect murder. After the body is removed Miss Withers finds a briar pipe on the spot where the dead girl had lain. Mrs. Maude Thwaite and her husband, Rufus, are owners of the stable where Siwash is kept, and Latigo Wells manager. Maude Thwaite desired to own Siwash. At Violet Feverel's apartment Miss Withers and Piper overtake Violet's young half-sister, Barbara Foley, about to elope with Eddie Fry, Violet's boy friend and a race track gambler. Barbara tells them that Violet was divorced from Don Gregg and had had him put in Allmony jail. Thomas, who with his wife, Mattie, are old retainers of Don's father, Pat Gregg, comes in search of Violet. Old Mr. Gregg thinks he is going to die. Thomas hints at foul play. Miss Withers and Piper accompany Thomas to the Gregg country home. Pat Gregg has had a near stroke. Back in town Miss Withers and Piper call at the alimony jail, but Don Gregg had been released on a fake writ before his wife's death. Then they call at the morgue. The medical examiner's autopsy reveals Violet Feverel was killed by a bebe bullet which hit her throat. Miss Withers finds Don Gregg in Violet Feverel's apartment. He is taken to headquarters, but is released. Miss Withers confiscates his pipe. An expert tells her Gregg's pipe was owned by an amateur smoker. The "murder" pipe's owner had false teeth. Barbara takes Siwash out on the bridle path. He runs away with her and she is thrown off. Latigo Wells finds that the cinchband of the saddle had been cut. Miss Withers consults Eddie Fry about a racing bet.

INSTALMENT XXVIII.
UNPLACED BETS.

"What? You mean Gregg didn't phone him?"

"He phoned him all right," said Eddie. "Old man Gregg called Kyte a couple of weeks ago, and sort of finegled around trying to find out the best odds he could get for a big wad of dough on the nose of a nag called Wallaby that's running next Saturday at Beaulah. Only he didn't place the bet, with Kyte or anybody else, because if he had the odds on that horse would have dropped, and as it is they're getting longer every day. A dollar bet on him will bring you thirty if he wins."

Miss Withers nodded brightly. "And if he doesn't win?"

"You'll get nothing, of course," the young man told her wearily. "Except the sleigh ride."

"That," said Miss Hildegarde Withers, "is the trouble with betting on the races."

They rode on for a few moments in silence, Eddie Fry bent glumly over the wheel of his little roadster. His foot was flat against the floor boards as they sped out of the park and southward. . . .

"No hurry," Miss Withers finally ventured to remark.

"There sure is," Eddie retorted. "I don't mind dropping you off, but then I'm going to get down to see Babs and have a good talk with her. That kid has got a lot of screwy ideas in her head."

"I wouldn't go to see her right away," the school teacher suggested

A dollar bet on him will bring you 30 if he wins.

gently. "Let her cool off a little. Besides, I think it's likely that she'll have a caller at her home."

"Huh?"

"I'm not a gambling man," Miss Withers said, "but it seems a sure thing to me that Latigo Wells will take her home after they leave the horses at the stable. Just to make sure she's all right, of course."

"Latigo Wells!" said Eddie, managing to make the name sound like profanity. "His hair is full of hayseeds."

"Hayseeds?" The word reminded Miss Withers of something. She saw a drug store on the corner of Amsterdam avenue and hastily ordered Eddie to pull up to the curb.

"I won't be a moment," she promised. She rushed inside and sought a telephone booth. Luckily she had change in her purse, and without more than the usual delay she heard the clicking of receivers on a party line in upstate New York.

The Beaulah operator rang four short rings, again and again. Finally a woman's cheery voice chirped "Hello!" and the operator enunciated a crisp "Here's your party!"

"Hello, hello," cried Miss Withers. "Is this the Gregg home—is that you, Mrs. Thomas?"

It was nobody else. "This is very important," said the school teacher. "When did your husband leave for New York?"

"What? You mean Abe?" Mrs. Thomas gave a muffled laugh. "Why Abe didn't leave for no place; he's right here!"

So he was, for he took the telephone. "When did you get back from the city?" Miss Withers kept on hopefully.

"Me? Say, I haven't been anywhere. Not since I drove back with you folks yesterday." The gloomy little man seemed oddly annoyed by the suggestion.

"By the way," Miss Withers tried a new tack, "how is the sick man?"

"Mr. Gregg is lots better," Abe Thomas announced.

"So much better that he left the house this morning?" prompted Miss Withers. She waited breathlessly.

"Say, what's—I beg your pardon. Mr. Gregg is up and around, but the nurse won't let him out of the house."

"Could you call him to the phone, then?"

She learned that Mr. Gregg could not descend the stairs to the telephone, in spite of his miraculous recovery. Her shot in the dark had scored a clean miss. "Then will you please ask Mr. Don Gregg to come to the telephone?" she said.

This time Thomas hesitated for a moment. "Mr. Don Gregg," he said distinctly, "is not here."

"Where is he, then?"

Thomas didn't know. He insisted that he had seen neither hide nor hair of his young master these many moons. "His father is mighty anxious to see him, too," Thomas added.

"Thank you so much," Miss Withers told him. She put down the receiver and said, "for nothing!"

When she came out of the drug store she found that Eddie Fry and his little roadster were unaccountably missing.

She came upon the inspector at his desk, brooding over a meager assortment of clews. There was the tobacco pipe with the discolored silver band, a slightly flattened pellet of lead which had cut a girl's throat, and a garden hoe with a horseshoe oddly fitted to its blade. These were all.

"Having fun, Oscar?" she greeted him.

He shook his head. "No prints on any of this stuff, of course. Water kills 'em; so does mud. Hildegarde, we haven't got anything yet."

"Can't we look over our list of persons involved and figure out who might fit the description of the man who smoked that pipe I found under the body?"

"It could fit that Abe Thomas," Piper told her. "At least, he's the right age. You know, I don't like that gloomy little guy. He's hiding something—and remember, he said he drove into town in the morning and we know he left the farm before sunset. There's a break he made."

Miss Withers nodded absently. "Thomas is lying, certainly. But so are a lot of others in this case. No, we can't solve it by spotting lies . . ."

"Only I can't figure out how Thomas had a motive to kill the Feverel dame," Piper continued soberly. "Maybe it was loyalty to the family, only I can't quite swallow that. Old man Gregg had a motive, and so did the boy, who was in allmony jail. Only the old man could hardly kill her and have an attack of whatever it was all at the same time. And the boy—we've checked his alibi. He really was in the Turkish bath that night—him and a friend of his—a little guy who fits the description of the phony deputy sheriff. They had their rubdowns about two in the morning and the rubber wrapped them up each in a sheet and put them to bed in adjoining cots. They were still there in the morning . . ."

"And they couldn't have got up and gone out, together or separately—and then returned?"

"The people at the baths said not," Piper admitted. "But they admitted business was pretty slack that night—so they weren't on their toes."

"It sounds like a genuine alibi," Miss Withers admitted. "They could easily have faked a better one than that. I always suspect a watertight alibi, Oscar. All the same . . ."

GASOLINE ALLEY—STEP ON IT, WALT

Let Children Help You Plan Holiday Fun

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

Instead of telling you how I feel I'm going to let some one else express her views on a subject that is of real importance at this time of the year.

"Dear Mrs. Bevans: It seems to me that mothers of families spend such hectic weeks during this time before Christmas, and are so worn out when the day finally arrives, that they are too tired really to enter into the spirit of the day, or to make it as enjoyable to their families as they would if things could be planned differently—the non-essential tasks be eliminated.

"If children of school age were allowed to participate more in the preparations for the day, if they perhaps could spend a little of the time previous to Christmas in making simple but practical gifts and wrapping them themselves—in helping to make the table decorations and Christmas tree trimmings, and possibly planning a program of entertainment for the whole family for Christmas afternoon, wouldn't the day be more meaningful to them and wouldn't the whole family be happier and the true Christmas spirit surely prevail."

There is, I believe, a growing feeling that Christmas should be more than a gift giving time, especially in families where there are children. While there are still many people who ignore all the "implications" of Christmas, there are many who realize that a fine structure of fun, work, thoughtfulness, unselfishness can be built up around and before the day itself, with running through it a strain of religious or spiritual feeling, especially appealing to a child and easily understood by him.

[Copyright: 1935: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

We have a gift leaflet which can be obtained by sending to us a stamped, self-addressed envelope. If you want the double sized gift leaflet, send double postage. And we have a short list of books for young people on the religious aspect of Christmas. This also requires a stamped, self addressed envelope.

Management of Hands Is Major Contribution to Loveliness

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

A certain woman political campaigner was telling me recently of a lesson she learned about managing her hands. One day an old stage person approached her after her platform speech and said: "It was a good speech, madame, but it lost much force in its delivery. If you don't mind an oldtimer setting you right, please let yourself do the talking, not your hands. You distract interest from your message by that continuous motion of yours, jutting a hand forward when you talk!"

Then, in a publicity blurb on Katharine Hepburn's clever hands, I find a paragraph and a line worth recording. "It's an old rule of the stage," one reads, "that an audience it attracted instantly by movement of a restless chorus girl, or an extra player can draw attention from the star to herself by fidgeting in the background, for which misdemeanor she is promptly dismissed. The rule works with an individual. Your face is the star, your hands the chorus!" Maybe a little far fetched, but serves nevertheless to put over the idea that if you're trying to sell yourself pictorially, don't distract with nervous hand gestures.

Katharine Hepburn does use her hands beautifully in a picture. The truth is that one is not conscious of them. Rather, she does not force a consciousness of them. They're just part of the plot, not another plot. Nothing is lovelier, thinks the interesting Hepburn, than useful hands moving deftly to perform a definite task, whether it is washing dishes or arranging flowers. And nothing is more annoying than hands fluttering aimlessly and accomplishing nothing. A gesture used to bring out a conversational point is effective. A little finger curled affectedly around a teacup is silly.

We bring hands up again, because they recently have become so important in the scheme pictorial. Because right now, if you don't cream and wrap them up carefully at night, they're not going to decorate the bridge or dinner table. Better take that advice to use the hand lotion daily this winter, if you never did it before, for hands get the onceover good and properly these red nailed times.

Chicago Folk to Milwaukee Debut Party

Miss Suzanne Manierre to Be Introduced.

where John Robert Leonard and his two unmarried daughters, Harriet and Deborah, live.

Miss Deborah will be at home from the University of Michigan for the holidays and although her family is not calling the reception a "coming out" party for her, that is what it really amounts to. She arrives from Ann Arbor a week from tomorrow and her oldest sister, Mrs. Hibbard Casselberry, is coming a day or two after Christmas from her home in Winter Park to be here for the New Year's day reception.

Daniel Leonard and his wife, the former Sarah Morey, and their baby are spending the winter with the senior Mr. Leonard in Winnetka, having found their cottage in Lake Forest not warm enough this winter for a young man of little Daniel's tender age. He was born last July and his Grandfather Leonard is looking forward to trimming the infant's first Christmas tree with pride and pleasure.

Mrs. Eleanor Patterson in City on Way East.

Mrs. Eleanor Patterson was in Chicago yesterday on her way from Kansas to Washington, D. C., but she was here only a few hours while the private car on which she was traveling was being switched from the Santa Fe to the Pennsylvania tracks, so she had time only for a quick "cleaning up" at the Woman's Athletic club.

Mr. and Mrs. John C. Pitcher are issuing invitations to a small dinner they will give at the Casino for their nephew, Arthur A. Burrows, before the Junior Assembly on New Year's eve. Young Mr. Burrows and his brother, George S. Burrows, have arrived at home from the Hill school to spend the Christmas holidays with their mother, Mrs. Swigart Burrows, at the Drake hotel.

Reservations have had to be turned down by the score at the Woman's Athletic club for the buffet supper and exhibition matches that will celebrate the opening of the new squash racquets court tonight. As it is, the players will have to give two "shows" so that all the guests can be accommodated.

Among those who will have guests are the junior Daniel Peterkins, who will entertain the William B. Freers and the Franklin Clements—Mrs. Freer and Mrs. Clement will play in one of the matches—Mr. and Mrs. Alexander H. Revell Jr., the Nicolas Starosselskys, Mr. and Mrs. John R. Mauff, Mr. and Mrs. Marshall G. Sampsall, Mr. and Mrs. William Watkins, the Frank M. Gordons, the Raymond Ashcrafts, the Stanley Zarings, and Mr. and Mrs. Ferre Watkins.

Holiday Parties for Marion Johnson.

When Miss Marion Johnson, debutante daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Fernando Johnson, returns from Sarah Lawrence college to spend the Christmas holidays here she will have Miss Ruth Vezin of Litchfield, Conn., a classmate, as her house guest.

Mr. and Mrs. Johnson have issued invitations to a tea they will give on Christmas day to present their daughter, and several other parties also have been planned, among them a cocktail party the bud's three cousins, Miss Emily, Miss Margaret, and John Goehst, will give on Sunday, Dec. 29.

Miss Mary Jane Elfborg will give a tea for Miss Johnson on the 23d; Mrs. Herbert A. Durr and Miss Durr will give a luncheon on the 26th at the Chicago Athletic association, and Miss Anne Ward Willetts will give a luncheon there on the 28th for Miss Johnson.

Mrs. Darrow Fulton will sing a group of French songs this afternoon at the Alliance Francaise's weekly Thursday causerie at which Mrs. John A. Carpenter will act as hostess, assisted by Mrs. Frank B. Mulford, Mrs. John Storrs, Mrs. Richard T. Crane Jr., and Mrs. William Scudder. Mrs. Chauncey McCormick and Mrs. George T. Langhorne will preside at the tea table.

Miss Ida Krehm, one of Rudolph Ganz's pupils, also will contribute to the musical program, playing a movement from one of Saint Saëns' concertos.

Mrs. George A. McKinlock already has gone to Palm Beach for the winter and Mr. McKinlock will join her there soon at their beautiful residence, Casa Alejandro.

Miss Josephine Zeiss on World Tour.

Miss Josephine Zeiss, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl H. Zeiss of Winnetka, is missing all the debutante festivities this winter, but to make up for them she is having the thrill of touring the world. She and her grandmother, Mrs. Charles S. Williamson, sailed from New York recently to be away five or six months.

Miss Dorothy Counselman is coming from the Shipley school at Bryn Mawr to spend the Christmas holidays with her mother, Mrs. Hopewell L. Rogers, and Mr. Rogers, at the Churchill. Mr. and Mrs. Rogers returned to Chicago to live recently after two years in New York.

Mr. and Mrs. Bruce W. Strong have returned from two months in Europe.

Miss Ann Steinbrecher, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Steinbrecher of East Division street, is returning to this country after a year of travel and study abroad. She just has completed the fall term at Oxford.

Mrs. Hobart P. Young has returned from the east, where she spent a few days in Boston with her sons, Hobart Jr., a student at Harvard, and Chandler, who is at Andover. They both will join their mother in Winnetka for the Christmas holidays.

Bouscaren Family Will Have Holiday Reunion.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis H. G. Bouscaren, whose Winnetka home is rather empty just now because several of their children are away, are expecting all of the family at home by Christmas time. Miss Evelyn Bouscaren, who is in Kentucky acting as courier for the Frontier Nursing Service, will be at home by Christmas eve, the same day that her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Pierre Bouscaren [Chloe Watson], are expected to arrive from Europe.

The younger Bouscarens are spending most of their time in England, where the former Miss Watson now is visiting friends while her husband is making a flying trip to France and Ireland.

Miss Bouscaren injured her wrist last week and nearly had to return to Chicago, but Mrs. Bouscaren received word from Mrs. Mary Breckenridge that the patient is recovering and will not leave her duties before her time is up. Another son, Henri Bouscaren, will return from Yale to spend the Christmas holidays with his family.

The Dwight P. Greens of Winnetka are pleased that the Princeton Triangle club is playing in Chicago the night of Dec. 23, for it means that their son, Dwight Jr., who is manager of the programs for the club, will be here at least near Christmas time. Young Mr. Green will go on as far as Milwaukee with the club, but he will spend the remainder of the holidays at home.

ENGAGEMENTS

Henry Duffield of Folkstone, England, has announced the engagement of his daughter, Florence Olive, to Frank Fuller Story Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank F. Story of 900 North Michigan avenue. Miss Duffield, who lives in Grand Haven, Mich., and Mr. Story, who is engaged in business there, spent last week-end with his parents. Mr. Story is a graduate of Andover and Princeton. Their wedding will take place soon, but will be a quiet one because of the illness of the bridegroom's mother.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard G. Howse of 625 Haven street, Evanston, announce the engagement of their daughter, Peggy Howse, to Elbert R. Faust, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul E. Faust of 1425 Davis street, Evanston. Miss Howse attended the Roycemore school in Evanston, Principia in St. Louis, and the Knox school in Cooperstown, N. Y. Mr. Faust is a graduate of the University of Illinois.

WOMAN'S AND MISS' BLOUSE.

A gleaming, lovely piece of satin made the original blouse, and the young and flattering tied neckline reveals the slashed openings at the front. The sleeves may be short or long, and they are easy to handle, as they are cut up to the neckline. For formal wear make the blouse tunic length and use the short sleeves, employing lamé or velvet.

The pattern, No. 2900, comes in sizes 14, 16, and 18 years and 36, 38, and 40 inches bust measure. Size 16 requires 2⅛ yards of 39 inch material, with ¼ yard of 35 inch contrasting material for the tie string for the shorter length blouse.

Boutonniere.

BY NANCY CABOT.

On snowy winter days one's thoughts invariably turn to flowers and sunshine, and even the smallest bouquet brings a warm friendliness. "Boutonnière" is a charming block which may be made by the most amateur quilt maker because the flower is one of the easiest to applique. A delicate color scheme does much to make this block attractive. For example, soft pink and yellow flowers with blue and cherry red centers, surrounded by leaf green, seem to give forth an atmosphere of tranquility.

For a limited period Nancy Cabot offers 10 quilt patterns of her own choice at a price of 10 cents for the group (12 cents by mail). Address Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, or call at one of the Tribune Public Service offices: One South Dearborn street, or Tribune Tower.

BY MARY MEADE.

There really is no need to get even a bit bored with Friday's fish meal! We're afraid many cooks do feel a touch of that boredom, however, for our letter basket always is full of requests for new fish recipes.

Today we'd like to highlight three of those monotony breakers which are especially good. The first is a delicate, carefully baked halibut which owes its creamy richness to the fact that it's baked in milk. The second is a bran' new kind of baked stuffed haddock, containing mashed sweet potatoes and chopped sweet pickles. And the third is a Cinderella transformation, no less! It's finnan haddie à la king, if you please, and quite the best stuff you ever ladled onto a baked potato.

The halibut, to begin with, gets this kind of treatment. Select a 1½ pound halibut steak. Melt two tablespoons of butter in a large, shallow baking dish, lay the fish in the pan, sprinkle with a little salt, and cover with two-thirds cup of water and a like amount of irradiated evaporated milk. Bake in a moderate oven until the fish can be easily separated from the bone by a fork or the tip of a small knife.

The same test for doneness holds good for the stuffed haddock. After that point has been reached, every minute in the oven only means that the fish is losing flavor. Anyway, the haddock goes like this:

Sweet Potato Stuffed Haddock.

4 or 5 pound haddock
2 cups mashed sweet potato
Salt, pepper
2 tablespoons chopped sweet pickles
1 No. 2 can peas

Stuff the cleaned fish with the seasoned sweet potato, to which the chopped pickles have been added. Curl the fish in a greased baking dish and fill the center with the drained peas. Pour the liquor from the peas over all, and bake in a moderate oven for 45 to 60 minutes.

Finnan haddie à la king goes like this:

Finnan Haddie à la King.

1 tablespoon butter
⅓ cup sliced mushrooms
¼ cup chopped green pepper
1 tablespoon flour
¼ teaspoon salt
1 cup thin cream
1½ cups finnan haddie, cut in pieces
2 tablespoons butter
2 egg yolks
2 teaspoons lemon juice
½ teaspoon onion juice
Pepper

Melt the tablespoon of butter, and cook the mushrooms and green pepper in it for three minutes. Blend with the flour and salt, and stir in the cream. When the mixture boils, turn into a double boiler top and add the fish. Let cook slowly over hot water. Blend the remaining ingredients together, stir into the fish and sauce, and cook only until the egg has cooked and begun to thicken. Serve with hot baked potatoes or in toast cases.

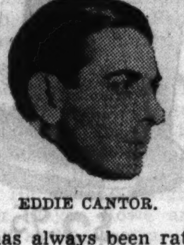
Reader Query Is Puzzle to Physiognomist

Asks Whether a Friend Will Repay Loan.

BY HUGO WESTERBERG.

The correspondent who inquires how he can know whether he will be repaid a loan he made opens up a field for physiognomical investigation that is new to me. It appears that a year ago he willingly helped a friend with some money and has not been paid. He has always been rather easy in matters of this kind and has never pressed his debtors. Now, having read articles of mine, he thinks it would be interesting to him and useful to many others if I could give the facial signs of financial irresponsibility.



EDDIE CANTOR.

The problem could be solved by the collection of data on a scale sufficiently large to permit statistical examination thereof. This is not possible at the present time, but in its place we may do a little reasoning.

The friend needs money for a legitimate purpose, let us assume, and the correspondent gives it to him, usually with two things in his mind: he wants to be of assistance, and he expects his money back. The borrower, as a rule, realizes the kindness and thinks he some day will be able to pay.

The borrower may find that his efforts to make money are still fruitless, and the thought of his debt troubles him. If he is to be able to get on his feet financially he must devote all his time and energy to this purpose, and he proceeds to forget disturbing obligations. A year later he is still barely getting along, and the creditor, not hearing from him, thinks his conduct peculiar. Why does he not pay?

In general, a certain type would be more liable to act in this manner. In this would be the man with a poorly constructed mouth for money making purposes, that is, both short upper and lower lips. For this reason the income from his labor would always be a minimum. His ability to forget would largely depend on the slope of his forehead. People with backward sloping foreheads forget more easily than those whose foreheads come straight up. These two signs, then, would indicate a slow paying party and a poor credit risk.

Eddie Cantor has the strong mouth that guarantees material success. He has the heavy dark eyebrows of a humorist, and fleshiness of the lower part of the nose that lets no superficial airs of dignity deceive him. The pronounced muscles at the corners of his mouth indicate an efficiency in planning and in practical execution of his ideas. His sympathetic, quick understanding of human qualities is shown by his rounded nose tip and his backward sloping forehead.

According to CULBERTSON

[Mr. Culbertson continues his description of a "friendly game" he recently watched. The first hand in this series appeared Tuesday of this week.]

It was obvious that North and South were slightly flushed with their success on the last two hands, while East and West were correspondingly morose.

South was an ardent disciple of the "heckling system."

"Of course, if they're going to hold all the cards," he said complainingly to his partner, "the most we can collect is about fifty points per hand."

Both opponents gave him a murderous glance, and the next hand went into play.

North, dealer.
Neither side vulnerable.

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
Pass	1 N T	2 clubs	Double
Pass	Pass	2 diamonds	Double
Pass	Pass	2 spades	Double
Pass	Pass	Pass

I was sitting behind South and, of course, his object in bidding clubs and diamonds before his real spade suit was quite clear. He knew that West was "laying for him" and hoped that his eagerness for a killing might becloud his judgment. This actually happened; West allowed himself to get into a "doubling stride," and when South apparently rescued himself from the club and diamond doubles, West fell into the trap.

North deserved credit for sizing up the true situation and passing the spade bid rather than returning to either of the other suits South had bid. East was blameless. His original bid was sound, and he had to trust his partner.

To make a bad matter worse, West opened the heart five, "the unbid suit." Eight tricks promptly became a laydown.

"Two spades, doubled, and game!" purred South.

If I may be permitted poetic license, East and West exuded silence in large, thick quantities.

TODAY'S QUESTION.

Question: The bidding was one no trump by West [whose no trump bids always are strong], pass by my partner, three no trump by East, and all passed. My partner opened the six of spades. The dummy went down as follows: ♠ 8 3, ♥ K Q 10 8, ♦ K J 8 4, ♣ A 3 2. My hand was: ♠ A Q 4, ♥ J 9 6 2, ♦ Q 10 3, ♣ 7 5 4. What should I play on the first trick?

Answer: You should play the queen. The reason is that you hold stoppers in both hearts and diamonds and are much more apt to gain the lead later than is your partner, who must hold a weak hand. Your pressing object, therefore, is to force declarer to win an early round of spades so that you will retain the ace and a small card with which to put your partner on lead.

White House Dinner Opens Social Season

New Kitchens Serve Food at Perfect Temperatures.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 11.—(AP)—A cosmopolitan cabinet dinner given by President and Mrs. Roosevelt tonight gayly started the capital's social season.

Chicago's mayor, a San Francisco banker, Amos 'n' Andy, a Southern Methodist bishop, publishers from Des Moines and Los Angeles, a New York communications magnate, and a group of White House reporters were among the eighty-seven guests.

In top hats and tails, the cabinet came—all but the secretary of war and Mrs. Dern, who are en route back to Washington from the Philippines. That department was represented by the assistant secretary and Mrs. Woodring.

The cabinet wives were wearing new and gorgeous gowns. The sixteen Bacchus and Bacchante figurines of the Monroe mirror plateau centerpiece, now 128 years old, were gay with creamy talisman roses. The gold plate was of course gleaming.

And though the guests wouldn't know the difference, the food was being served electrically warmed or cooled, as the case might be, at exactly the right serving temperature, from the new kitchens.

From the White House family circle were pretty, blonde Mrs. Donner Roosevelt of Philadelphia, former wife of the President's son, Elliott, and Frederic A. Delano, the President's uncle.

The generous sampling of the official scene included the controler general and Mrs. McCarl, a name to conjure with in curbing spending.

Amos 'n' Andy were appearing in their true respective rôles of Freeman T. Gosden and Charles C. Correll, accompanied by their wives.

Among notables from other cities there with their wives were: Mayor Kelly of Chicago, Bishop W. A. Candler, Atlanta, Ga.; A. P. Giannini, San Francisco banker; John Cowles, publisher Des Moines Register; Manchester Boddy, Los Angeles publisher; Sosthenes Behn, telephone official; George L. Harrison, governor Federal Reserve bank, and William S. Paley, president Columbia Broadcasting company, all of New York.

DR. MEANWELL DENIES CHARGES OF BADGER PLOT

Issues Statement of 2,000 Words.

Madison, Wis., Dec. 11.—[Special.]—Wisconsin's turbulent athletic situation, in which trouble flared anew last week when John Golemgeske, football captain-elect, revealed he had circulated a petition asking the removal of Coach C. W. Spears, late today had resolved itself into a battle of conflicting statements.

DR. WALTER MEANWELL.

The first was made by Dr. Walter E. Meanwell, athletic director, with whom Golemgeske, in a signed statement, said he had conferred before circulating the petition which reportedly was signed by fifteen members of the football squad.

Tells Offer of Drink.

The Madison Capital-Times tonight published a sworn and notarized affidavit by Golemgeske that Meanwell offered him a drink of whisky while the team was returning from the Northwestern game the night of Nov. 16.

The statement follows:

"On the night of Nov. 16 I was returning with other members of the Wisconsin football squad to Madison after the Wisconsin-Northwestern game at Evanston, Ill. On the train I was approached by Athletic Director Walter Meanwell, who first asked me about the condition of my injured leg. I told him I was getting along pretty well.

"Then Mr. Meanwell told me there was a drink for me in his bag. He said it was rye and pointed to the bag, which was on a seat, and when I opened it I found the whisky in a bottle that resembled a medicine bottle. I had a drink from the bottle and closed the bag."

The statement, signed by John Golemgeske, was subscribed to and sworn to before William J. Conway Jr., Dane county notary public, and dated Dec. 11, 1935.

Denies Unfair Actions.

Meanwell's 2,000 word statement, his first public explanation since direct charges of instigating the petition were thrown at him, emphatically denied any improper or unfair actions on his part and completely disregarded any mention of the alleged friction between himself and Spears.

After reading Meanwell's statement this afternoon, Golemgeske said it was "misleading" in its reference to his complaints about long football scrimmages. Golemgeske admitted having a grievance on this point, but said he didn't mention his complaints until after Meanwell had brought up the subject.

The football captain further charged Meanwell's statement gave a "wholly false impression" when it said he went voluntarily to the athletic director's office. Golemgeske again declared emphatically he went to see Meanwell after he had been advised by George Lanphear, substitute quarter back from Beloit, that the director would like to talk to him.

The third statement was released by Prof. Andrew T. Weaver, chairman of the athletic board, who declared that "on the basis of evidence which has reached me thus far I have no reason to believe there is any foundation for the accusations which have been made against Dr. Meanwell."

Denies Any Tampering.

In part, Meanwell's statement said:

"To my knowledge, no personal or formal accusation exists against me concerning the Golemgeske petition. There have appeared, however, insinuations in press statements that I instigated a request for a change in coaches by tampering with the players. This vicious statement I emphatically deny.

"To the best of my knowledge and belief I have acted properly in this affair, inasmuch as it is my duty as athletic director to receive all confidences, suggestions, protests, and complaints concerning athletics. In the future I shall continue this policy. I comment further that had I conspired, as intimated, even my most critical acquaintances would not attribute to me the stupidity of leaving the field for the best part of a week in the very inception of such a plot."

Meanwell here referred to his five day absence from Madison to deliver two addresses in Ohio and attend the Big Ten directors' meeting in Chicago last week-end.

Skips Spears Angle.

The statement throughout refused to admit the trouble concerned anything between Meanwell and Spears.

"The entire matter is a question as to whether I acted ethically in reference to the petition circulated by Golemgeske," Meanwell explained tonight. He intimated he had no "cross words" with Spears, but it is

In the WAKE of the NEWS

VIA UNCLE SAM.

DEAR WAKE: For many years I have been a close follower of intercollegiate football and have seen all Big Ten teams in action, also Notre Dame. . . . I have joined with the crowd in rating the midwestern brand the best in the land.

It was my privilege to see the great 1935 Princeton team against Yale Nov. 30, and in fairness to eastern football and to that Tiger team I want to say that it is one of the three best teams I have ever seen. The other two were "The Four Horsemen" of Notre Dame, and the great Minnesota 1934 eleven. I consider Princeton this year the best in the country judging by its play against Yale. O. M. Booher, Purdue.

Although Princeton had nine worthy opponents, only Dartmouth and Yale showed any particular class. Navy looked their best in the last half of the Army game and Pennsylvania was badly beaten by Michigan, which in turn received its worst defeat in 40 years from Minnesota. I can't see anything but Minnesota! M. A. A.

Seventy thousand people saw the final game for the prep championship of Chicago. Lindblom after a hard schedule came through for the second consecutive year. It must be acknowledged a well coached team that played sound football. As a Chicagoan, I think it only fair this team should be mentioned as one that would be worthy, and interested in, an invitation to appear in the Cocoanut bowl game at Miami, Fla. Lindblom is champion of Chicago. Chicagoan.

Why do we have to have ties for the Big Ten championships such as this year between Minnesota and Ohio State? To avoid this, why not leave the last game of the season open and pair the teams according to their standing, letting them play off for their respective places? This would pit each conference team against one of the others for the final game. Iowa Alumnus.

The Return.

The peewee calls upon the hill,
Sweet as of old when life was new.
It breaks across the morning still,
Fresh with the scent of meadow rue.
The sunlit mountains are the same,
Unchanged the green of pine or fir.
The brooks flow on where timid game
And wood birds in the grasses stir.

The spring returns, the summer comes,
And autumn crimsons all the wood.
The snows of winter shroud the homes
Where yesterday the larkspur stood.
And then, once more, upon the hill,
That lingering note, peewee, pe-e-wee!
The seasons trace their changeless will;
But youth comes not again to me.

OWEN READY TO APOLOGIZE—IF APOLOGY'S DUE

Still Thinks Pro Charges Hit Many a Mark.

Boston, Mass., Dec. 11.—(AP)—Undaunted by the storm his college football criticisms raised, Prof. George Owen Sr. of Massachusetts Institute of Technology today intimated a "pinching shoe" aroused most of his critics.

The noted naval architect, father of one of Harvard's outstanding athletes, told a group of Cambridge business men yesterday college football was a highly commercialized sport and that he advocated the payment of wages to the players.

He included most of the major colleges in his denouncement and named Notre Dame, Ohio State and Harvard as the "greatest offenders" in the exploitation of football players.

Watch That If.

On receipt of a protest from Notre Dame, Prof. Owen apologized to its president, the Rev. John F. O'Hara, and claimed he had been misquoted.

"I seem to have been badly misquoted," Prof. Owen replied. "If any statement of mine is untrue, I deeply apologize and regret any misunderstanding."

In commenting on this apology Owen said: "You will notice that in my telegram to Father O'Hara I qualified my apology by saying 'if my charges did not apply to Notre Dame I apologize.' Keep your eye on that 'if.'"

He also admitted he may have made a mistake about Harvard for, he confessed, his knowledge of conditions there came from what he learned twelve years ago, when his son was at Harvard.

He Wants no Quarrels.

"Apparently the shoe pinched in a great many places after my address yesterday," Owen said. "That's where the avalanche of criticism is coming from, the place where the shoe is pinching.

"I don't want to get into a lot of quarrels with individual institutions. My interest is in the honesty of football and athletics as a whole.

"What I want to repeat is that I have the highest respect for professional players, and that if colleges want their teams to win and the gate receipts to be big they will have to go out and hire their men like most of them are doing now. But they should do it honestly and in the open."

OHIO STATE PROTESTS.

Columbus, O., Dec. 11.—[Special.]—Protest against the statement of George Owen Sr. of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology that college football was commercialized and that Ohio State and Notre Dame were the worst offenders was made today by L. W. St. John, Ohio State athletic director, in a telegram to Dr. Karl T. Compton, president of the Massachusetts school.

St. John's telegram follows:

"Dr. Karl T. Compton, President Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Cambridge, Mass.:

"Nation-wide publicity has been given to a presumed statement by Prof. George Owen Sr. of your institution, reflecting explicitly upon the ethics and integrity of the faculty control of intercollegiate athletics at the Ohio State university and upon the eligibility and amateur status of young men on our football team.

Asks for Evidence.

"An irresponsible attack upon the honor of Massachusetts Institute of Technology by some Ohio State professor would be deeply and properly resented by the faculty and friends of the Massachusetts institute.

"If Prof. Owen has evidence to warrant his special reference to this university, we ask that he submit this to our athletic board and to Maj. John L. Griffith, Western conference commissioner.

"Lacking such evidence, we beg you to urge his best effort to rectify serious public injury to the reputation of the Ohio State university with whose purposes and many of its personnel you are intimately familiar as a distinguished fellow Ohioan.

"L. W. St. John."

Chicago Owned Detroit Six Invades Hawks' Ice Tonight

Jack Adams and the Chicago owned Detroit Red Wings will make their 1935-'36 bow before Blackhawk followers for the first time tonight at the Stadium. James Norris, prominent Chicago sportsman, who controls the destinies of the Detroit team, has made more changes in the personnel of his team than any other in the National Hockey league.

EBBIE GOODFELLOW.

Two seasons ago Detroit defeated the Toronto Maple Leafs and was awarded the Prince of Wales trophy, emblematic of the league championship. Of that great team only five members remain. They are Herbie Lewis, Ebbie Goodfellow, Laurie Aurie, Johnny Sorrell, and Doug Young. Gone are Wiseman, Wieland, Cude, Pettinger, Buswell, Evans, Graham, Anderson, Patterson, Boyd, Duguid, Gross, and Marker.

Smith Is Goalie Now.

Taking the places of the departed puck chasers, who were either released outright, traded, or sold in the last two seasons, are Normie Smith, goal tender, who played with the team all of last season; Scotty Bowman and Syd Howe, who came to the Red Wings late in 1934-'35 through purchase and exchange of Defense Player Teddy Graham to the St. Louis Eagles.

The cash outlay for the pair was reported to have been $35,000. Howe, with 22 goals and 25 assists for a point total of 47, was the United States section's leading scorer last season. Buck McDonald, who plays defense alongside of Bowman, reached the major league via the trading route, the Detroit team exchanging no less than five of their minor league players with Buffalo of the International league for McDonald. He also came to the Wings toward the close of last season.

Get Barry from Boston.

This season's newcomers are Marty Barry, Hec and Wally Kilrea, Mud Bruneteau and Red Kelly. Barry came from Boston in exchange for Cooney Wieland. The former Boston star will play between Herbie Lewis and Laurie Aurie, two of the smartest forwards in the league. Barry made 21 goals and 21 assists, for a point total of 41 last season.

Hec Kilrea, who led the International division in scoring in 1929-'30, was bought last summer from the Toronto Maple Leafs. He is considered the fastest skater in the league. Hec's brother, Wally, who had seen major league service as a member of the St. Louis Eagles and the Ottawa Senators, but was sent to the Olympics team of the International league last season, came to the Red Wings early last month in exchange for Lorne Duguid.

When the St. Louis Eagles folded up before the season's start, Pep Kelly was awarded to the Detroit team. Mud Bruneteau is a product of the Red Wings farm, the Detroit Olympics. He will play right wing with center player Howe and left wing Sorrell as line mates.

Goodfellow Is Versatile.

Hocky critics call Ebbie Goodfellow the best all around player in the league. Ebbie is equally at home playing a forward position or defense.

Owner Norris has spent more than $60,000 to add punch to the Red Wing machine and Manager Adams sincerely believes that the improved showing of Goalie Smith and the acquisition of the high scoring Howe, warants him in predicting a world's hocky title next spring to add to Detroit's baseball triumph.

The Blackhawks have defeated all of the six invading teams whom they have met in Chicago since the season started. Detroit remains the only team that the Hawks have not vanquished on the Stadium ice. In fact, the Red Wings are the only team the Blackhawks have not scored on this season.

Manager Loughlin's players emerged from the Detroit league opener Nov. 14, without being able to score, but for that matter so did the Wings. The game ended a 0 to 0 tie.

Revolta's 274 Wins Sarasota Golf Tourney

Sarasota, Fla., Dec. 11.—(AP)—Johnny Revolta, the Professional Golfers' association title holder, blazed down the stretch in a champion's finish today to break the Bobby Jones club course record with a 65 and snatch first money in the Sarasota open golf tournament.

JOHNNY REVOLTA.

Five strokes behind Alvin Krueger of Beloit, Wis., the 54 hole leader, Revolta swept past the field in a late finish and finished with 274. Victor Ghezzi of Deal, N. J., came home second with 276.

The victory was worth $500 to Revolta, who started the winter tour at Orlando last week with a tie for first place and then lost top money to Bobby Cruickshank of Richmond, Va., in a playoff.

Faltering on the last two rounds after showing his heels throughout the early stages, Krueger finally carded a 279 and had nothing better than a tie for fifth money.

Paul Runyan, the dependable White Plains, N. Y., stylist, was third with 277, and Jimmy Hines of Garden City, Long Island, tied for fourth, a stroke back of Runyan, with Bill Mehlhorn of Louisville, Ky.

The sensational final round of Revolta was one stroke better than Krueger's performance yesterday, when he hung up the official course record at 66.

Low amateur score was posted by Morton McCarthy of Norfolk, Va. He clipped three strokes from par in the final round with a 68 and had an aggregate of 284.

Tied at 279 with Krueger was Ky Laffoon of Chicago.

Willis Hudlin, pitcher for the Cleveland Indians, was second low amateur, scoring an even 300. Another entry from big league ranks, Paul Waner of the Pittsburgh Pirates, had an 80 on the final round for a 306 total.

Leading scores follow:

LANDIS TO HELP SELECT UMPIRES FOR WORLD SERIES

Moriarty Row Leads to New Baseball Rule.

BY FRENCH LANE.

Baseball Commissioner Landis has yelled for help in the selection of umpires to officiate world's series games. The major league club owners in session yesterday at the Palmer house and Congress hotel heard the cry, then they decided nobody but the commissioner himself should come to the rescue.

The club owners were hurried into league meetings and at each session resolutions were passed to the effect that world series umpires in the future will be selected by the major league advisory board. This board consists of Ford Frick, president of the National league; Will Harridge, head of the American league, and Commissioner Landis.

In the past umpires have been appointed by the presidents of the two major circuits—two from the National league and two from the American.

Presidents Are Happy.

The "cussin'" incident in which Umpire George Moriarty became involved in the last world series between the Cubs and Detroit's Tigers and a similar situation that developed a year earlier when the baseball commissioner plastered a fine on Umpire Bill Klem while the Tigers were engaging the St. Louis Cardinals no doubt caused the commissioner to let out his shout.

Whether or not he expected to be called upon to furnish the help, the club owners did not know. The two major league presidents appeared to be very happy over the prospect of the commissioner joining them as "goats" in the event the umpiring isn't quite up to par in future world series.

The resolutions will go before the joint meetings of the two leagues this morning, and there appears to be little doubt that Commissioner Landis will be assigned to this new chore by unanimous vote.

Rigler Is Retired.

Fans, of course, don't pay to see the umpires and they may not be interested in them. Still the umpires, their salaries and their terms of service kept the National league club owners busy for a good part of the day yesterday.

They retired Umpire Charley Rigler, who has been working for the league for 28 years, from active service and appointed him supervisor of umpires. They decided also that eight of the 12 umpires who are employed by the league must officiate at spring training exhibition games, for which they will be paid by the league.

The club owners further decided that an umpire may be retired at the end of 15 years of service. If the umpire has served 15 years his pension will be $1,500 a year. It will run on up to as high as $2,400 a year to the umpires who serve for 24 years or more.

Dean Tour Brings Action.

The club owners also slapped the recent exhibition tour of the Dean brothers squarely on the cheek. The owners adopted a rule to the effect that in the future National league players will be prohibited from participating in exhibition games dating ten days after the regular league season ends.

The American league owners also decided that their umpires should do spring training with barnstorming American league clubs. They joined right in with the National league on the rule which will permit players to appear in exhibitions only during the first ten days after the regular American league season ends.

Hunt Radio Pirates.

Another rule passed by the American league calls for a fine of from $100 to $250 for any manager who is found guilty of stalling or endeavoring to hurry up a game.

President Harridge also was instructed to turn loose a flock of sleuths who will endeavor to run down the culprits who bootleg radio broadcasts of their games.

MONTE PEARSON.

Trautman Is Elected Head of Association

George Millard [Red] Trautman, former Ohio State football star, will pick up where 74 year old Thomas Hickey left off as American association president.

GEORGE TRAUTMAN.

The husky Ohioan, known in baseball as the "man without an enemy," was elected to the presidency for two years yesterday at the league meeting at the Auditorium hotel after a close battle of votes with Ed Shave, St. Paul newspaper man. Trautman won by a margin of 5 to 3, and the vote later was made unanimous.

Trautman, 45 years old, has been a well known sports figure in Ohio since 1914, when he ended his athletic career at Ohio State after starring in football, baseball, and basketball. For the last three years he has served as president of the Columbus club, a farm of the St. Louis Cardinals.

The name of his successor at Columbus has not been divulged, but the best guesses tonight were that Don Beach, present club secretary, would be chosen.

At the suggestion of clubowners, who insisted the location of the American association headquarters be changed to a league city, Trautman, who takes office on Jan. 1, said they would be moved to Columbus "just as soon as possible after the first of the year."

After his graduation from Ohio State he coached high school football at Fostoria, O. He served in the Ohio State athletic department in 1916 and 1917 and then enlisted in the army, going to Fort Sheridan, where he taught physical culture. Returning to Ohio State after the armistice he became assistant athletic director, serving until the spring of 1929. In 1933 he was named president of the Columbus ball club.

In professional baseball Trautman had but one sad experience. En route to the Harvard summer school of physical education he stopped off at Hartford, Conn., to play a game of ball. After five or seven innings the fans booed him so much he had to run out of the park.

M'CARTHY GIVES SECOND RANKING HURLER IN DEAL

Report Cubs Trying to Obtain Davis.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

The New York Yankee officials, who in days of old celebrated their attendance at winter meetings by donning high silk hats and smugly watching hoi polloi of the league scurry about in coarse bartering of human flesh, yesterday entered the slave marts themselves. Their first unbending in ball player trafic was the trading of their able but soreheaded performer, right handed pitcher Johnny Allen, for another high strung but able pitcher, Monte Pearson, until now a chattel of the Cleveland Indians.

The Yankees, too, showed themselves not adverse to indulging in the form of ballyhoo recently becoming so popular with baseball nabobs. This has become known as the "tease announcement" which gets its inspiration from the "strip tease" of the burlesque stage. The strip tease, if you have neglected your burlesque, is where the lady sings a verse and takes off something the while. The idea, of course, is to make off like the lady is going to sing more verses than she ever does.

J. Vincent Does His Dance.

Following the strip tease notion, our old pal, J. Vincent McCarthy, manager of the Yankees, announced at breakfast time that he would have "an important announcement along about 6 o'clock in the evening." J. Vincent then went into a dance of the seven veils, which is more dignified than the strip tease, though it embodies the same idea.

Allen, with 13 victories and only 6 defeats, was the second regular pitcher in the American league on the percentage basis last year, being topped only by Elden Auker of the world champion Detroit Tigers.

Allen led the league in percentage in his first year with the Yankees, 1932, when he won 17 and lost 4. In 1933 he won 15 and lost 7. He was ill in 1934 but won five as against two losses. Then he bounced back to his old form last year, though playing with a mediocre outfit.

Pearson Weakens in '35.

Allen generally has been considered too quick tempered and outspoken to fit in with the McCarthy demands for calm and friendly behavior on his ball clubs, and it was said that this may have had something to do with the Yankees' decision to let the North Carolinan go to the Indians.

Pearson had a bad year in 1935—he won 8 and lost 13—but his talents are known to be all right. In 1934 he won 18 and lost 13 for the Indians and in 1933 he won 10 and lost 5. The Indians tossed in Pitcher Steve Sundra, a right hander who won 5 and lost 6 with Minneapolis last year and then went to Newark, where he won 5 and lost 1. Sundra is 23 years old, Pearson 26, and Allen 30.

Revive Davis Rumor.

Manager Charley Grimm of the Cubs spent all the daylight hours yesterday at plain visiting, but shortly before dinner time last night Grimm, Owner P. K. Wrigley, and Vice President John O. Seys went into a conference with President Gerald Nugent and Manager Jimmy Wilson of the Phillies. This led to the spreading of rumors that the Cubs again are seeking to purchase Pitcher Curt Davis for cash.

Earlier in the day there had been reports that Grimm had offered Klein and a large sum of money for Davis, but Grimm denied this, saying he would not consider giving cash with Klein for anybody in the league. He said he would dedicate today to efforts to put through the Davis deal and is willing to give certain players—probably Tuck Stainback and Roy Henshaw or Fabian Kowalik—and some cash.

Sox Get Congratulations.

The White Sox spent the day in calmness with Owner Comiskey receiving congratulations for the deal which brought in $75,000 in exchange for his deed to Al Simmons. Manager Jimmy Dykes was being praised as a seer and a dealer par excellence. He took great pleasure in reviewing the 8 column banner headlines in Chicago morning papers of Nov. 22 in which he said that Simmons would be with the Tigers in 1936. After making the announcement through the Chicago morning papers on the next to the last day of the minor league meeting at Dayton, the prediction was thrown down by many dopesters on the word of Cochrane, it was said at the time. Hence the hailing of Dykes as a salesman, psychologist, and clairvoyant.

Manager Rogers Hornsby of the Browns made overtures to Dykes last night to get a deal for Sam West under way, but the Sox pilot wouldn't even make a bid for the Brownie outfielder.

FIGHTERS GATHER FOR TOURNEY IN COLISEUM RING

Heavyweight Elimination Starts Tomorrow.

Heavyweight boxers from the far corners of North America will join the loop shopping crowds today. But their spirit will not be the spirit of Christmas alone. They are coming from as far north as Saskatchewan, as far south as Georgia, as far east as New York, and as far west as Oregon possessed of the fighting spirit too. For they are principals in the opening round of the heavyweight elimination tournament at the Coliseum tomorrow night.

This group of giants, seeking recognition as potential future opponents of Joe Louis, former Chicago Golden Gloves champion, include Eddie Roushkolb, Alliance, O.; Frank Simms, Cleveland; Houston Ash, Kayford, W. Va.; Babe Davis, St. Louis, Mo.; Jim Harwood, Olando, N. Y.; Les Keesweeter, Moosejaw, Sask.; Frank Smith, Atlanta, Ga.; Frank Andorf, Portland, Ore., and Frank Shierloh, Comaquea, Pa.

Roushkolb will meet Billy Treest of Batavia, Ill.; Simms is paired with Art Sykes, Elmira, N. Y., and Ash and Harry Thomas, Eagle Bend, Minn., will be opponents in three matches at eight rounds. Three six round events pair Davis with Harwood, Keesweeter with Smith, and Andorf with Shierloh.

Treest is preparing for his contest at Madison Square loop gymnasium while Sykes and Thomas are training at Trafton's gym. Their opponents and the other contestants will be split up, some going to Madison Square to conclude training and the others moving to Trafton's.

Joe Louis will box Charley Retzlaff of Leonard, N. D., in a scheduled ten round bout at Chicago Stadium Jan. 17. This fact, known by critics for more than a month, became official yesterday, the item being included in a press dispatch from the west side building telling of the capabilities of the Coliseum principals. James C. Mullen and Nate Lewis, joint matchmakers at the Stadium, are directly responsible for the heavyweight elimination tournament, Kid Howard Carr being the nominal promoter.

Their idea behind the tournament is to attempt to uncover an opponent, or opponents, capable of giving Louis strong opposition in future engagements to be offered under the joint auspices of the Stadium and Mike Jacobs, New York promoter, who holds an option on the Brown Bomber's services, an option reported to be good until 1940.

The Coliseum shows are to be held weekly, survivors of the card tomorrow and of subsequent presentations being promised matches on the impending Louis-Retzlaff program.

A professional show will be presented tonight at the Covenant club with Bob Tinsley, west side lightweight, matched to meet Carl Scalise in the six round main event. Four round encounters include those involving Walter Matthys and Davey White, Willie Ross and Willie Ritchie. There will be two other matches, one of which will be between wrestlers. . . . Leo Rodak, South Chicago lightweight, worked out yesterday at Madison Square gymnasium to prepare for a bout at Madison Square Garden Jan. 3. . . . Pete Andrews, one of Chicago's most promising amateur welterweights, will face Rolla Taylor, Jefferson City, Mo., in a five round scrap at Madison Athletic club tomorrow night. . . . Andrews whipped Leo Pilla and Taylor knocked out Owen Woods last week. . . . Eddie O'Connor and Ralph De Mario, rival junior lightweights, will be opponents on the amateur card at Queen of Angels auditorium Monday.

Fritzie Zivic, Pittsburgh welterweight, who knocked out Sammy Chivas in his last previous Chicago appearance, and Billy Celebron of Rockford were signed last night to meet for ten rounds or less at Marigold Gardens Monday. Irish Mickey Walker, recent arrival from Fort Dodge, Ia., 128 pounds, and Stanley Dorgan, Gary heavyweight, will appear in two of five preliminary encounters.

Supplementary matches on the card topped by a ten rounder involving Frank Sagilio and Joey Costa at Cicero stadium Saturday night have been revised by Matchmaker Ed Purvis. The revised supporting lineup:

Toots Bernstein vs. Ernie Kulasik [6], 147 pounds [tentative].
Sailor Born vs. Jack Knight [4], 135.
Lou Vine vs. Art Brewer [4], 130.
Johnny Fitzpatrick vs. Sam Scoglio [4], 126.
Harold Brown vs. Ed Schiller [4], 147.

LOUIS' MANAGER FILES DEMURRER AGAINST SUIT

Julian Black, a manager of Joe Louis, colored heavyweight boxer, yesterday filed a demurrer in Circuit court to the second amended complaint filed by his former business partner, Julius Browdy, seeking part of his one-sixth share in the earnings of Louis.

As in the case of two previous demurrers, which were sustained by Judge John Prystalski, Attorney Irvin C. Mollison, representing Black, contended that the nature of the alleged partnership between Browdy and Black is not set forth in sufficient detail.

The suit filed by Browdy charges that Black took $9,000 belonging to the partnership on July 7, 1934, to pay for the training expenses of Louis under an agreement with John Roxborough, then sole manager of Louis, that he would receive one-half of Roxborough's one-third interest in Louis' income from future matches in return therefor. Since that time, according to the bill, Black has received over $65,000 on his investment, of which Browdy wants an accounting and share.

TERRY AND THE PIRATES—NIGHTMARE ABOUT A DREAM GIRL

HAROLD TEEN—THE COMPETITION IS TOO KEEN

changed nothing more than the necessary formalities since Meanwell became athletic director a little more than a year ago.

The entire matter is due to come before the university board of regents in a special session on Dec. 19. The date was set at a meeting yesterday, after which President Glenn Frank issued a statement to the effect that "all assembled facts will be considered and such investigation as is found necessary thoroughly conducted."

Committee Continues Work.

The faculty athletic board's sub-committee, appointed after hearing Meanwell's side of the controversy and the views of 19 football players Monday afternoon and night, is continuing that body's investigation before reporting back to the board at a special meeting Saturday.

The faculty board then will determine the nature of its recommendation to the regents. Members of the sub-committee are Prof. Andrew T. Weaver, board chairman, Walter Alexander, Milwaukee, one of the two alumni representatives, and President Frank.

Meanwell's statement said Golemgeske appeared voluntarily at his office shortly after noon on Dec. 3 and sought an interview.

Just "Suggests" Basketball.

Relative to charges he had offered Golemgeske a job while he remained in the university, a letter in basketball, and a coaching position when he was graduated in return for circulating the petition, Meanwell said he had merely "suggested" Golemgeske go out for basketball and denied point-blank he had offered Golemgeske a job.

"I advised him to go out for basketball, just as I have advised many other athletes, in my desire to have our graduates more properly prepared for coaching positions, he said.

ROSS CONSIDERS $35,000 BID FOR CANZONERI FIGHT

New York, Dec. 11.—[Special.]—Negotiations for a Barney Ross-Tony Canzoneri bout have reached the stage where the former's managers, Sam Pian and Art Winch, are considering a guarantee of $35,000 offered by Madison Square Garden.

Ross also wants a privilege of forty per cent of the receipts for defending the world welterweight title against the veteran lightweight champion.

Canzoneri, still smarting under two defeats in bouts with Ross, is anxious for the match. "I'll fight Barney for his title, my title, or for no title at all," Tony declared.

Ross will remain idle until after New Year's and, if he accepts the Garden's offer, will be ready to defend the crown late next month or early in February.

JOE FOLEY SEEKS LOUIS-SCHMELING FIGHT IN CHICAGO

Miami, Fla., Dec. 11.—[Special.]—Joe Foley of Chicago today announced he is seeking to bring the Joe Louis-Max Schmeling heavyweight bout to Chicago. Foley said he has started negotiations with Mike Jacobs, who holds a contract on Louis' services.

According to Foley, the bout would be held under the auspices of the Sporting Club of Illinois, the same organization which aided in the promotion of the Louis-King Levinsky fight at Comiskey park last August.

South Side Junior College Beats Morgan Park, 41-32

DePaul Will Send 5 Chicago Boys Against Purdue Saturday

BY WILFRID SMITH.

De Paul university's basketball team, undefeated in 14 consecutive games and winner of 36 in the last 37 contests, plunges into its Chicago Stadium program Saturday night when Purdue meets the Blue Demons. One year ago the Boilermakers licked De Paul at the 132d Regiment armory, on Chicago's west side. That was the only game De Paul lost last year and that scrap before a capacity throng was evenly waged after the Blue Demons recovered their poise. Early panic permitted Purdue to rush to an 8 point lead and De Paul never could quite close the gap.

You can't blame Coach Jim Kelly and his boys for wanting another crack at Purdue. And it appears to be good business to take the Boilermakers into the Stadium, where 17,000 spectators can be accommodated. But De Paul will play what almost amounts to a conference schedule in the next three weeks. It is exactly one-half a conference schedule, for when it's over six Big Ten teams will have faced the Blue Demons.

They Like 'Em Tough.

De Paul already has achieved one conference victory, beating Chicago last Saturday night at the Midway, 45 to 25. Before that De Paul had warmed up with St. Mary's [Minn.] and Hamline, the latter quintet giving the north siders a fine battle before yielding.

Now it's Purdue. Then come Illinois, Wisconsin, Minnesota, and Indiana. In Purdue, Illinois, and Wisconsin, DePaul will meet the three quintets which last year tied for the Big Ten title.

This DePaul team is hailed on the near north side as a wonder five. On the eve of the battle with Purdue, such words of praise best be skipped although we are confident DePaul will make a splendid showing in all its Big Ten games. There are, however, unusual facts about these five boys who compose DePaul's regular team.

Capt. Ray Adams, a forward, is the only senior. The other four are juniors. Adams has helped De Paul win 35 games. His four team mates have played in 19 victories and one defeat.

They Play Any Position.

Most surprising of all, in this day of renewed charges of alleged undue influence in securing prominent athletes, these five De Paul basketball players could all walk to school. True enough, two or three might be a bit leg weary; they live as far away as four or five miles, but they're all Chicago boys and graduates of north side high schools.

You've met Capt. Adams, a graduate of St. Pat's where he was coached by Barney Varnes, former De Paul basketball star. Adams is 6 feet 1 inch tall, weighs about 180 pounds. In his sophomore year he played guard. Now he's a forward, but since modern basketball demands both abilities, Adams can play anywhere on the floor. He stopped Chicago's Bill Haarlow the other night.

Nick Yost, 185 pounds, 6 feet 4 inches of center. Nick graduated from De Paul academy. He lives over by Western avenue and Irving Park avenue. Yost can shoot with either hand and when he's got the range, he's good for a couple of field goals without even looking. A fine jumper [although Purdue's Jim Seward, 6 feet 7 inches may get the ball Saturday night], Yost is the king pin of attack and defense.

Ed Campion, 163 pounds, 6 feet 1 inch, a graduate of St. George High school. Campion is the ball handler of the squad. The lether almost talks for him.

Then There Is Willie.

Bill Wendt, another De Paul academy graduate, pairs at guard with Campion. Ten years ago Wendt would have been a back guard, but he doesn't stay back. He's 180 pounds of muscle, 6 feet 1½ inches.

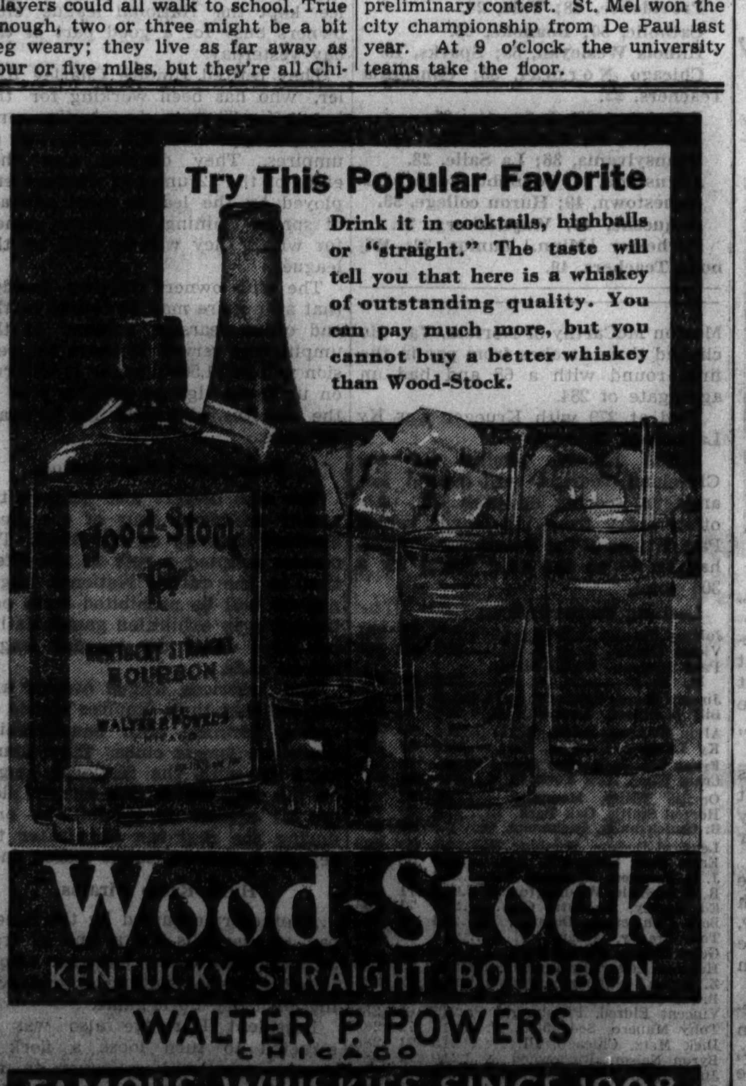
Fred Knez, a six foot, 182 pounder, who played at Lane Tech High school, is the other forward. Fred actually does walk to his university classes from his home on Lincoln avenue.

Space prevents mention of De Paul's other players, but Willie Phillips, another De Paul academy product, can't be overlooked. Willie is the midget of the team, only 5 feet 8 inches.

Basketball results are difficult to predict. Coach Ward Lambert of Purdue, told us last week: "Purdue has the fastest team I have ever seen. I don't know how good it will be, but it will be fast and the boys can shoot."

That's enough recommendation. Lambert has seen quite a few high scoring teams in his years in basketball. And in the seven years Coach Kelly has directed De Paul teams they have won 93 games and lost only 18.

At 8 o'clock Saturday night, De Paul academy will play St. Mel's in the preliminary contest. St. Mel won the city championship from De Paul last year. At 9 o'clock the university teams take the floor.



MICHIGAN MAKES $135,313 PROFIT ON '34 FOOTBALL

Ann Arbor, Mich., Dec. 11.—[Special.]—Football was a decidedly sour sport to Michigan fans in 1934, yet it was the only sport among nine, in which Wolverine teams competed, to pay its bill. The report for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1935, as prepared by Chairman Ralph W. Aigler of the board in control of physical education, was made public today.

Football provided $180,425.89 of the $195,519.86 receipts from sports and special events. Its cost, $45,112.86, was the largest item among expenditures which totaled $105,379.54. Its profit was $135,313.03, which amount covered $45,172.71 of deficits in the other sports and left a profit of $90,140.32 on all sports.

Other items of expense more than offset income from other sources, leaving the board slightly more than $51,000 profit. This amount plus $9,500 of borrowed money enabled the board to pay off $40,000 on bond loans and $21,480.57 for plant additions.

Attendance at the eight football games played in 1935 is estimated at having been 251,700, a loss of 9,001 from the official figures covering the 1934 season.

TROJANS GROSS $213,553.

Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 11.—[Special.]—The University of Southern California has grossed $213,553 in its home games to date, according to figures released today. The University of California at Los Angeles, which also uses the bowl for its home encounters took in $150,000 at the gate during the season.

C. Y. O. Class B Title Holders to Fight Tonight

Three boxers who won Class B championships last week in the finals of the annual C. Y. O. tournament will fight on tonight's program at the C. Y. O. Center gymnasium, 31 East Congress street. Eight bouts are scheduled.

The three champions are Cornelius Young, welterweight; Al Limback, flyweight, and Sammy David, featherweight. Young is matched against Herman Winz, Limback against Bill McCarthy, and David against Alex Maksymiec.

David and Maksymiec met in the C. Y. O. finals last week, with the former gaining a close decision. Tonight another stirring scrap between these two hard hitting featherweights is expected.

Tonight's C. Y. O. card is being sponsored by Judge Gibson Gorman of the Municipal court. The card:

Frank Tingalia vs. Tony De Nardi, 147 pounds.
John Lewandowski vs. Andy Katana, 147 pounds.
Walter Balasa vs. Stanley Tomozak, 126 pounds.
Jim Dolan vs. Mario Christopher, 130 pounds.
Tom Duff vs. Tony Cosentino, 135 pounds.
Herman Winz vs. Cornelius Young, 147 pounds.
Bill McCarthy vs. Al Limback, 112 pounds.
Sam David vs. Alex Maksymiec, 126 pounds.

LOUIS CONFIDENT HE'LL WIN IN SIX ROUNDS OR LESS

Expect 20,000 for Battle with Uzcudun Tomorrow.

New York, Dec. 11.—(AP)—Joe Louis is confident he will stop Paulino Uzcudun in six rounds or less when they meet in Madison Square Garden Friday night.

One of the largest indoor fight crowds in history is assured. It appears a sell out, meaning approximately 20,000 persons will be squeezed into the Garden. A capacity house will bring a gate of around $120,000 or $125,000.

Interest in the fifteen round event is surprising considering that Louis is a top heavy favorite. The Garden has requests for more than 300 press reservations from out of town.

What money is being wagered favors the young Detroit Negro, making his twenty-sixth professional start, to score a decisive victory well under ten rounds, but not to send the 36 year old Spaniard down for the count.

Paulino has fought in this country on numerous occasions and fight followers have a wholesome respect for his sturdy jaw. In sixty-nine ring battles the Woodchopper has never been jolted from his feet.

Louis has won twenty-one of his twenty-five professional victories by knockouts. His managers and trainers see no reason why his fists should not continue the knockout parade against Paulino. You can get even money in the Louis camp there will be at least one knockdown.

Both battlers wound up hard work today at their training camps at Pompton Lakes, N. J., and Orangeburg, N. Y.

"Every time Joe has fought he has met and whipped somebody a little tougher than the man before," said John Roxborough, one of the Bomber's managers. "He was better against Max Baer than he was against Primo Carnera. And he'll be better against Paulino. We'll bet there's at least one knockdown. Joe says he's going to knock him out."

Up at Orangeburg, Paulino, a bit surly, much to the delight of his trainers, was equally confident. The Spaniard never has believed Louis is a super fighter.

"Too many hard hitters have tried here," he said, pointing to his jaw. "Baer, Schmeling, George Godfrey—lots of them."

Immediately after the Friday fight, Louis will go to Havana to get ready for Isidor Gastanaga on Dec. 29. Then he hops to Chicago to meet Charlie Retzlaff on Jan. 31 and after that will take a long rest before starting training for Max Schmeling in June.

RUSSELL GAINS 499 YARDS; BEST IN PRO LEAGUE

Smith of Cardinals Ties for Field Goal Title.

New York, Dec. 11.—[Special.]—Doug Russell, fleet half back of the Chicago Cardinals, won the ground gaining championship of the National Professional Football league, official figures released today revealed.

Russell carried the ball 140 times in twelve games for a total gain of 499 yards, an average of 3.5 yards an attempt. Beattie Feathers of the Bears won the championship last year when he gained 1,004 yards. Feathers' mark is the National league record.

Bill Smith, also of the Cardinals, tied with Armond Niccolai of Pittsburgh for the field goal championship. Each made six successful place kicks. Niccolai made the longest kick, one of forty-seven yards. Forty-three field goals were kicked by eighteen players during the 54 game championship race. Last year the winner was Jack Manders of the Bears, who made ten successful placements.

Danowski Sets Pass Record.

Ed Danowski, former Fordham star now with the New York Giants, set a new record for successful forward passes, completing fifty-seven out of 113 for a total gain of 795 yards and an average of 50 per cent. Tod Goodwin, formerly of West Virginia, who caught twenty-six of Danowski's passes for a gain of 432 yards and four touchdowns, led receivers, catching ten more passes than Joe Carter of Philadelphia did to win the championship last year.

The longest pass completed in league competition this year was the 83 yard scoring play, Arnie Herber to Don Hutson, with which Green Bay defeated the Bears, 7 to 0.

Dutch Clark, Detroit's sensational quarter back, led scorers, getting six touchdowns and 16 extra points for 55 points. This total was 24 points less than that with which Manders won the scoring championship last year. Hutson, former Alabama end who starred for the All-Americans against the Bears in THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE'S annual game last August, led all players in scoring touchdowns, going over seven times. Clark led in extra points with 16, five more than Ken Strong of the Giants.

Ronzani Winds Up Sixth.

Clark, his teammates Ernie Caddel and Ace Gutowsky, and Gene Ronzani of the Bears, who finished sixth, were the only ground gainers among the first ten who were among the leaders last season. Ronzani piled up 356 yards in 79 attempts for an average of 4.5.

The ten leaders in ground gained and scoring follow:

TUNNEY MAKES SHORT STOP ON HIS WAY EAST

Gene Tunney, former world's heavyweight champion, stopped for several hours in Chicago yesterday while on his way from the west coast to New York. The former champion arrived in the morning and stayed at the Blackstone hotel.

Very few persons knew that he was here and only a few recognized him as he boarded the train. Tunney explained that his trip west concerned private business investments and had nothing to do with motion picture contracts.

The former champion, who campaigned for President Roosevelt three years ago, indicated that he was through with politics. When asked if he would assist President Roosevelt's next campaign he replied: "I don't think so; I may be out of the country during the next presidential election."

BEARS TO BOWL IN GOODFELLOW MATCH TONIGHT

Members of the Chicago Bears football team, who think they are bowlers, and the Monarch Beers, champions of the Classic league, who are bowlers, will meet tonight in a benefit match at the Lake View alleys, 3239 North Clark street. Proceeds will be turned over to THE TRIBUNE Good Fellow fund.

George Halas, owner of the Bears, has appointed Kieth Molesworth, the team's best bowler, captain. Molesworth will select five other Bear players, among them Ed Kawal, Luke Johnsos, Jack Manders, and George Musso, to team with him. The Bears will use six men to the Monarchs' five, who are Leo Faetz, Herb Lange, Les Fuller, George Morrison, and Dick Winsberg.

The match will start at 8:15 o'clock.

Manager Clem Loughlin of the Blackhawks presents Goalie Mike Karakas with a cake in preparation of the celebration of Michael's 24th birthday today. The bakery masterpiece came from Loughlin and Mike's teammates as a token of their esteem for the way he has helped them lead the National Hocky league to date. Mike and the boys will try to increase that lead tonight against the Detroit Red Wings at the Stadium.

32 Prep Fives Open U. of C. Meet Dec. 26

Thirty-two of Chicago's public prep schools will comprise the bracket for the University of Chicago's sixth annual Christmas week basketball tournament, which will open at the Midway fieldhouse Dec. 26.

Invitations were limited this year to city schools. Each of the five previous tournaments have included half a dozen or more suburban schools, but it was decided this year to accommodate as many city teams as possible, and these teams claimed all the places on the bracket.

They're All Here.

Teams entered are Amundsen, Austin, Bowen, Calumet, Crane Tech, Englewood, Farragut, Fenger, Foreman, Hirsch, Hyde Park, Kelly, Kelvyn Park, Lake View, Lane Tech, Lindblom, Manley, Marshall, McKinley, Morgan Park, Parker, Phillips [old], Phillips [new], Roosevelt, Senn, Steinmetz, Sullivan, Tilden, Tuley, Von Steuben, Waller, and Wells.

In order to reduce the possibility of preparatory scouting, the pairings will not be announced for ten days.

Lane Defends Title.

Lane Tech, which won the tournament each of the last two years and placed third three years ago, is the defending champion. Lane defeated Hyde Park for the title last year, with Hirsch downing Roosevelt for third place honors. Eight first round games will be played on each of the first two days, beginning at 1 p. m. on Dec. 26 and Dec. 27. Eight second round games will be played on Dec. 28. The four quarter-final games will be played Dec. 30, the two semi-final matches will be played the evening of New Year's eve, Dec. 31, and the championship and third place games will be played the evening of New Year's day.

LOYOLA, ARMOUR MEET TOMORROW IN BOXING MATCH

The Loyola university varsity boxing team opens its 1935-'36 intercollegiate season tomorrow night against Armour Tech at Loyola. Ten bouts in all the weights will feature the card in the year's first intercollegiate boxing meet of the Chicago area. Next Friday, Dec. 20, Loyola will act as host to St. Norbert college of Du Pere, Wis.

The Armour match marks the revival of boxing at Loyola. The last match was held in 1933 when Loyola split with Northwestern. In 1930 Armour won two matches from Loyola.

ARMOUR TECH WHIPS GEORGE WILLIAMS, 31-20

Armour Tech defeated the George Williams basketball team, 31 to 20, yesterday at the 108th Engineers' armory. The combination of Dollenmaier, Warner, and O'Brien gave Armour an 11 to 7 lead at half time. Score:

Illinois Wins, 40 to 22, Over Wabash Five

Champaign, Ill., Dec. 11.—[Special.]—Illinois defeated Wabash, 40 to 22, here tonight for its second victory of the basketball season. Harry Combes, guard, again led the Illini with four baskets and two free throws and brilliant floor work.

Wabash stayed with the Illini until five minutes of the second half had elapsed, with the score 17 to 13. Combes dribbled through the Wabash defense for two consecutive baskets, Riegel scored twice, and Vopicka dropped in a goal and a free throw to give the Illini a 29 to 18 advantage.

William Snyder, playing the last five minutes for Wabash, led his team in scoring with 6 points. Wib Henry, veteran Illinois guard who injured a shoulder in football, made his first appearance and played the last two minutes.

ILLINOIS WESLEYAN WINS.

Bloomington, Ill., Dec. 11.—[Special.]—Illinois Wesleyan opened its basketball season here tonight with a 58 to 13 victory over Sparks college of Shelbyville. Two freshmen, Denny Cochrane of East St. Louis and Milt Morganthaler of Pinckneyville, sharing the right forward position, led the Titans in scoring. Cochrane sank five field goals while Morganthaler picked up four from the field and three from the free throw line.

VETERANS' PARTY TONIGHT.

The Midwest Baseball league will conduct its fifth annual Christmas party at Edward Hines Jr. Memorial hospital, Maywood, tonight.

Unbeaten Teams to Risk Standing in K. of C. League

With only five teams still left unbeaten in the Knights of Columbus Basketball league, the number will be even more limited when Sunday's games are decided. St. Cyr and Hughes lead the west division, while Quigley, Loyola-Hyde Park and Calumet are setting the pace in the south. Setters will attempt to stop the Hughes drive Sunday afternoon at St. Philip's gym, while Lafayette will oppose St. Cyr. On the south side, with the games played Sunday night at St. Rita's gym, the unbeaten Quigley and Loyola quintets will provide the headliner, with Englewood, former division champion, opposing Calumet.

The standings:

Sullivan Swimmers Win Dual Meet from Kelvyn

Sullivan won a dual swimming meet from Kelvyn Park in the Sullivan pool yesterday. The juniors were victorious, 38 to 8, and the seniors triumphed, 29 to 26.

N. U. or Pitt Due to Get First Defeat

Northwestern's basketball team will seek its second straight victory when it meets Pittsburgh's touring quintet at Patten gymnasium tomorrow night. Both teams won their opening games last week, the Wildcats turning back Carleton, 56 to 27, and Pitt defeating Washington and Jefferson, 41 to 36.

Tomorrow's game will be the seventh between the two schools. Each has won three games, the Wildcats having been victorious last year, 42 to 28. In addition to Northwestern, the Panthers will meet Iowa and Butler on the present tour.

Three Sophomores Start.

Northwestern will pin its hopes on the trio of sophomores who led the assault on Carleton. They are Don Worland and Mike McMichaels, forwards, and Jake Nagode, center. Worland and McMichaels each scored four baskets, while Nagode turned in a satisfactory performance at center. The other Wildcat starters will be Capt. Duke Vance and Babe Bender, guards.

Another sophomore who gave promise of future worth is Fred Trenkle of Bloomington, Ind. He played the second half against Carleton and made five field goals for individual scoring honors.

Heap May Play.

Don Heap, football star, who is making a bid for a guard position, is expected to see action tomorrow. He is still nursing an injury received in the Iowa game and has been unable to work out regularly.

MOSCONI WINS NO. 2 IN POCKET BILLIARD MEET

Rudolph Needs Only Five Innings for Victory.

New York, Dec. 11.—(AP)—Willie Mosconi, young Philadelphia player, scored his second triumph of the world pocket billiards tournament tonight, joining Erwin Rudolph of Cleveland and George Kelly of Philadelphia at the head of the standing. Mosconi defeated Joe Procita of Gloversville, N. Y., 125 to 85, in nine innings.

Mosconi equalled the second-best game of the tournament. It was the second defeat for Procita, who was added to the field after the withdrawal of Ralph Greenleaf.

Procita Starts Fast.

Procita, aided by two breaks on combinations, put together a cluster of 56 his second trip to the purple-covered table and followed with a run of 26. After a 25 in the second inning, Mosconi counted 40 in the third and got back into the running.

Getting the better of the safety play, Mosconi took the lead with a run of 31 in the eighth inning and after Procita scratched, completed his string with 18. The upstate entry failed to score in his last four innings.

James Caras, young Wilmington, Del., star, made it a fourway tie for the lead by taking the final match of the day from Charles Seaback of Astoria, N. Y., 125 to 36 in 15 innings.

Rudolph Beats Allen.

Rudolph, winner of the 1934 tourney who subsequently lost the title in a challenge match, and Kelly won their second matches in the afternoon. Rudolph gave the finest exhibition of the tournament in whipping Bennie Allen of Kansas City, 125 to 11, in five innings. Clusters of 42, 59 and 25 in succession enabled him to chalk up the speedy victory. Kelly, aided by a run of 51 which gave him an early lead, defeated Marcel Camp of Detroit, 125 to 74, in 15 innings.

Weinert Beats O'Shea in Six Round Battle

Puggy Weinert, Brighton Park welterweight, defeated Mickey O'Shea, north side, in six rounds in a feature bout on the athletic card at 132d infantry armory last night.

WARNING, CROWS! SPORTSMEN PLAN DEADLIER BOMBS

Annual Illinois War Will Open Soon.

BY BOB BECKER.

The annual war against crows soon will be under way in Illinois, and the state department of conservation is planning to invade the rookeries with bigger and better bombs for destroying the big black marauders, which are the enemies of song and game birds.

Last fall and winter the conservation forces killed tens' of thousands of crows in the central and southern parts of the state by placing bombs in the tops of hedgerows where they roosted. The bombs were exploded by remote control.

Clyde Warner of Havana, the man who designed the first bombs used by the state in its crow campaign, sketched the history of bombing crows in Illinois a few days ago. The first bombing killed about 400 crows in a small rookery; the next killed about 1,100, and the third, under favorable circumstances in a big rookery, destroyed 15,000.

Bad News, Mr. Crow.

Better bombs now are being made and the state also is learning more about crow habits, with the result that the campaign to take place this winter should be the most successful thus far.

The bomb Warner wants to try out this year is made of an ordinary cardboard cylinder used in mailing magazines and bulky newspapers. It is 18 inches long and an inch and a half in diameter. It will contain one pound of 40 per cent dynamite, two pounds of No. 6 shot, and half a pound of flint rock crushed into small pieces, each about three times the size of a shot pellet. When the bomb is set off the paper tube will offer no resistance, so the pellets and the pieces of rock should be extremely effective.

They'll Try Both Bombs.

Dixie Davis, a Mason county game warden, has suggested a bomb much like the one made by Warner, except that it will be made of a tin tube and will be only 10 inches long. Both bombs will be tried out to see which is more effective.

Charles F. Thompson, the state director of conservation, informs us that plans are going ahead rapidly for the first series of bombings. The campaign is more successful under the right weather conditions. First of all a cold night is necessary, otherwise many of the birds will stay in the fields instead of banding together in the rookery.

With northern investigators of duck nesting areas reporting an increasing amount of damage being done to the waterfowl by crows eating eggs and young, Illinois is making a valuable contribution to conservation by killing off thousands of crows during the winter.

ALCAZAR, OWNED BY WOODWARD, ARRIVES IN U. S.

New York, Dec. 11.—[Special.]—Alcazar, the Doncaster cup winner, owned by William Woodward, chairman of the Jocky club, was one of a shipment of twelve horses which arrived here today from England aboard the American Merchant lines' American Banker. The 4 year old son of Actoi and Priscilla Carter will be used to strengthen Mr. Woodward's stud and was shipped at once to Paris, Ky.

Other horses in the shipment were not so well known, but are destined for the farms of well known American owners. Baba au Rhum is a 3 year old filly for John Hay Whitney. Sandra II. is a 4 year old filly for Mrs. Dodge Sloane. Marshall Field had Crestema and Sans Lumiere, both fillies, consigned to him. The other seven horses were thoroughbreds consigned by Maj. Henry Leonard, U. S. A., retired.

HORNYAK LEADS SLAVIA ELEVEN AGAINST SPARTAS

The Slavia of Cleveland, O., one of the nation's outstanding soccer teams, will meet the Sparta Garden City at Sparta stadium, 21st street and Kostner avenue, Sunday afternoon. The Slavia lineup includes Alex Hornyak, recent arrival from Prague, Czechoslovakia, where he was a recognized star at center forward.

The Slavia recently played a tie game with the St. Louis Shamrocks. The Maccabees will meet the Moravaka in a preliminary game at 12:30 p. m. The main game is set for 2:15.

Lena Levy, Sister of King Levinsky, Adjudged Insane

Mrs. Lena Krakow Levy, 42 years old, 827 Wilson avenue, sister and manager of King Levinsky, the boxer, whose real name is Harry Krakow, was adjudged insane yesterday at a hearing held in the Cook County Psychopathic hospital before Judge Albert E. Isley of Newton, who is sitting in County court here. She will be taken to the Kankakee state hospital tomorrow. A commission of three physicians found that she was suffering from hallucinations. Mrs. Levy was committed to the hospital on Dec. 4 on a petition filed by another brother, Sam Krakow.

Former Stars of Notre Dame Win, 10 to 9

Boston, Mass., Dec. 11.—(AP)—A collection of former Notre Dame stars gave 10,000 of Boston's football public a demonstration of the indoor game tonight by defeating a group of collegians, 10 to 9, in the Boston Garden.

The Notre Dame team's winning points, scored during the last minute of play, were provided by Jim Leonard, who booted a 10 yard placement field goal after Joe Sheeketski, Holy Cross back field coach, provided the impetus for a 55 yard march by completing four successive passes, two of which were grabbed by Leonard.

The collegians opened the scoring in the first period when Dick Iderstine of Boston university intercepted Marty Brill's pass and raced 35 yards for a touchdown. Early in the second session they lengthened their lead to 9 to 0 when Bob Haley, who resigned his Harvard captaincy before the Crimson season opened, contributed a 25 yard placement field goal.

The Notre Dame players worked a 55 yard pass, Sheeketski to Brill, for their touchdown in the second period, and Leonard added the extra point with a placement.

The game, played on a gridiron that measured 70 yards by 40, was decidedly cramped from start to finish. Neither team, due to the lack of width, was able to get anywhere with a running attack, and every other play was a pass.

The lineup:

ALL NOTRE DAME [10].		COLLEGIANS [9].
Quinlan	L. E.	Hughes, Boston U.
Leahy	L. T.	Brookings, Harvard
Harris	L. G.	Chrusz, Northeastern
Bowdrin	C.	Casey, Harvard
Pivarneck	R. G.	Van Iderstine, Boston U
Thornton	R. T.	Curley, Georgetown
Devote	R. E.	Fleming, Catholic U.
Bonar	Q. B.	Haley, Harvard
Banas	L. H.	O'Neil, Temple
Brill	R. H.	Oliver, La Salle
O'Connor	F. B.	McNamara, Boston U.

Touchdowns—Brill, Van Iderstine. Field goals—Leonard, Haley. Point after touchdown—Leonard.

Montanez Knocks Out Zodda; Seventh Straight

New York, Dec. 11.—(AP)—Pedro Montanez, Porto Rican lightweight, won his seventh straight victory in New York tonight, knocking out Joe Zodda of New York in 2:33 of the first round of their scheduled ten round bout at the Lenox Sports club. Montanez weighed 134½; Zodda, 139½.

BALD CREST IS RACE VICTOR IN FEATURE AT N. O.

Beats Julia Grant by Neck in Driving Finish.

New Orleans, La., Dec. 11.—[Special.]—Rain and a sloppy track disturbed form somewhat at the Fair Grounds today, the winner of the feature, Bald Crest, being among the outsiders to score. This chestnut color bearer of Mrs. C. C. Winters led practically all the way of the six furlongs to win by a neck in a driving finish at $18.60 for $2.

Fifth choice in the betting, Bald Crest was piloted by Jocky R. Haber and finished in 1:15 1-5. Julia Grant forced the pace practically the whole route and she was second at the wire, a length before Brown Witch.

Favorite Next to Last.

The public choice was Heartbreak, which eventually finished next to last. Heartbreak ran as if she did not like the going and never was a contender. By contrast Bald Crest was off flying and opened up a wide lead. While Julia Grant was in close pursuit almost at once, she did not begin to wear away the winners' margin until the stretch was reached. There she gained stride by stride until Haber was driving his fullest aboard Bald Crest. The winner was tired, but hung on gamely.

One of the favorites to score was Judge Primrose, 6 year old son of Pagan Pan. Played down to 11 to 10, Judge Primrose sped along in front and won easily by four lengths. One of the long shots, Prosecutor, closed well to be second, another four lengths before Modesto.

Defier Pays $31.40.

Defier, one of the racers coupled in the mutuel field, won the third at $31.40 for $2. The margin at the end was two lengths, the former Rancocas color bearer going strongest of all at the end of the six furlongs. Papillote was the early pace maker, but Defier never was far away. The show went to Slip Knot.

The mutuel return in the second was $31.80 for $2 when A. A. Young's Poppet got down in front through the handling of Jocky W. Boganowski.

Murray Patrick, Son of N.Y. Rangers' Pilot, Wins Bout

New York, Dec. 11.—(AP)—Murray Patrick, Canadian amateur heavyweight champion and son of the manager of the New York Rangers Hocky club, made his debut in the United States by knocking out Howard Langraf of Baltimore in 2:58 of the first round to win one of the final brackets in an intercity amateur boxing tournament at Madison Square Garden tonight. Langraf, who was credited with eleven straight knockouts, was no match for Patrick.

Bettors Can't Deduct Losses on Income Tax

Washington, D. C., Dec. 11.—(AP)—Horse race bettors who expected to deduct losses from their income tax returns found today that under an informal ruling of the board of tax appeals such deductions have been abolished by the 1934 revenue act.

Board members explained that on cases arising prior to 1934 they had allowed deductions on horse race betting losses where evidence established losses. One such case was decided yesterday in which Francis M. Cronan, a Washington sports writer, was permitted to deduct $890 in losses at the Laurel, Md., races in 1932.

But the 1934 revenue act, the board members explained informally, removes gambling losses as deductions.

MRS. VARE WILL PLAY IN 1936 BRITISH GOLF

Pinehurst, N. C., Dec. 11.—(AP)—Mrs. Glenna Collett Vare, national women's golf champion from Philadelphia, disclosed today that she plans to compete next year in the British women's tournament, in which she was runner-up to Joyce Wethered in 1929 and to Diana Fishwick in 1930.

Mrs. Vare, here with her husband for the field trials and a few rounds of golf, said she not only plans to go after the championship never won by an American, but will be a member of the Curtis cup team, which will meet Britain's ranking women players at Gleneagles, Scotland, May 6. The national championship will be decided over the Southport and Ainsdale courses starting May 16.

Despite the fact that she had played only a couple of times since winning the national at Minneapolis, she had an 88 her first trip over the 6,600 yard layout today. She then shot the second round in 85, tossing away at least seven strokes around or on the greens. She had her woods working close to perfection on the last nine of the second round.

PUBLIC TAKING MORE AVIDLY TO WINTER SPORTS

Stores Filled with Wear for Outdoor Use.

BY HARRISON HOWARD.

Something has happened during the last few years to make the American public more winter sports minded than it has been in years if not in its history.

Whether it is due to the astute advertising of resorts and railroads or the alluring action pictures of rotogravure, or the trend to put health first the year around or just the desire on the part of a lot of people to have some fun during the dull winter months, is a matter of conjecture.

At any rate it is considered the thing to do. Thousands who previously couldn't be dragged from the fireside for more than a six block walk now go in for outdoor activity in winter time in a big way even to the point of assembling a special wardrobe to meet the needs. There are more hikers, skaters and skiers than ever before, all of which greatly widens the horizon for those who are perplexed to know what to give their male relatives or friends for Christmas.

Stores Well Stocked.

The first essential, of course, in winter sports clothes, is that they be light and warm, and the stores are loaded with innovations and practical suggestions to meet these requirements. If the man you have in mind is "fussy" and a follower of one particular line of activity, such as skiing, it may be well to buy him a harmonizing ensemble. Almost any first class men's store will gladly give you the essentials from both a practical and fashionable standpoint.

If, on the other hand, your friend already has an ensemble and you merely wish to add a piece, it will pay you to "match up" in your selection as nearly as you can.

Too, many a man simply wants something warm and useful for general outdoor wear and for him there are dozens of odd and individual pieces. There is, for instance, a general sport jacket that will go with almost anything and will serve in myriad ways. The best of these is simply a smart cut, two or three button tweed or homespun, with or without plaits and half belt and in the warmer brown and gray herringbones, overplaids and houndstooth designs.

Knickers a Good Gift.

Knickers likewise, in similar fabrics and designs, make an excellent gift for many a man. Along with the long, gay colored woolen hose they provide warmth and freedom of movement for skating, walking or almost any form of winter activity.

Other individual and useful articles include woolen scarfs, particularly in camel's hair or plain wool, turtle neck or pullover sweaters in a variety of stripes and patterns, skating shoes with high tops for ankle support, pullover and flannel shirts in such a wide variety of models and effects that they alone provide almost no end of desirable gift possibilities; shoe top socks for that extra warmth as well as style, lether waistcoats, likewise in a wide selection of styles; long flannel trousers to stuff in the tops of high shoes or low boots.

Sports Handbag.

Out of the ordinary yet useful is the sportsman's handbag, an oval shaped slide fastener affair of waterproof olive green closely woven duck fabric. When open, a cover flap folds back to provide ample room for packing. The edges are lether bound and the cover flap is fastened with lether straps. The bag is 30 inches long, 13 inches wide and 16 inches high and sells for around $12.

THIS WEEK'S QUESTION.

Question: What type of gloves should I wear with evening clothes? F. S.

Answer: Most men prefer natural colored chamois or gray suede or, with tails, white string gloves.

FALLS IN LOVE WITH HIS BRIDE; ADMITS SWINDLE

It sounds a little paradoxical, but the honeymoon of Jerry O'Riley, 29 years old, ended last night because his romance had begun. O'Riley, formerly an entertainer in Los Angeles cabarets, met Miss Mickie Zell, 25 years old, in South Bend on Thanksgiving day. Three hours later they were married.

Funds for the wedding trip were lacking, so O'Riley sent his bride out to cash a check. And ever since, at intervals, Mrs. Mickie O'Riley has been cashing checks. Last night the bridegroom went to the detective bureau and told all to Sergt. Kyran Phelan.

"I married Mickie not because I loved her," he said, "but because I thought she would be a good check passer. She was, but she was a lot more than that—so much more than I am now crazy about her and want to go straight. She didn't know the checks were phony."

When the police found Mrs. O'Riley visiting friends at 1341 South Ashland avenue she announced that she loved Jerry a lot and was going back to South Bend with him to face the check victims.

The bridegroom later admitted that the name O'Riley is an alias, that his right name is Warren Simpson Cook, that his original home was in Dallas, and that he served a hitch or two in the navy.

Mayor Fires Fire Chief Then Calls Him to a Fire

Richmond, Mo., Dec. 11.—(AP)—Mayor Robert S. Lyon fired Fire Chief Joe Pointer, who declined to quit, and hired Charles Wilkerson, who refused to serve. Today the mayor's house caught fire and—you've guessed it—Joe Pointer scaled the roof and doused the blaze.

DICK TRACY—To Confound the Enemy

FASHIONS FOR MEN ONLY

This fashion column for men will appear every Thursday in The Tribune. If you would like information about modes for men write to the Men's Fashion department, Chicago Tribune, Chicago, Illinois. Inclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your letter.

PERHAPS James Thompson thought he could solve the entire Christmas gift problem when he penned the following lines:

"Give a man a pipe he can smoke,
Give a man a book he can read,
And his home is bright with a calm delight
Though the room be poor indeed."

In a preceding verse he suggests a horse or a boat, which might be somewhat beyond the usual gift budget. His final suggestion is a girl you can love, but this seems to us to be a pretty big order even for a magnificent Christmas gift. We don't mind the pipe and the book suggestion, and we've added several others which we hope will prove helpful. In line with the horse and the boat, however, we might say that if he has a hobby of any kind, that's the perfect lead on what to give.

FOR BIG SHAVERS

Unless he's the possessor of a beard, you always will please with tonsorial equipment. A shaving brush of finest badger hair is a thing of beauty and a joy each morning. The excellence and luxury of many of the splendid soaps and lotions elevate them to the gift class. Or you can get him an electric razor that eliminates the need of any of the aforementioned.

FOR SIGHS AND SIGHTS

A portrait photograph from him to her, or vice versa, is enhanced when it arrives with a handsome frame of lether or metal. And there's no man who won't appreciate a pair of high powered binoculars. The good ones constitute a major purchase but are worth it.

FOR WRITING AND TIMING

Clock makers have done an excellent job of designing. Not only is there a wide variety of clocks from which to choose, but every type of decoration has been given consideration, whether for home or for office. We might say the same for modern pens and pencils. Mechanical pencils really work these days, and fountain pens are no longer a snare and a deception. A brace, such as we've shown, should adorn every manly chest-vest pocket.

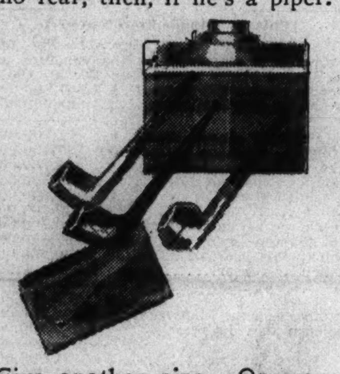
HOST DELIGHTS

One of the added benefits of repeal is that we can call 'em cocktail shakers right out, instead of beverage shakers.

Modern designers have added beauty to their utility. And we can recommend these glasses for those who go in for snooty after-dinner brandy snifting.

PIED PIPES

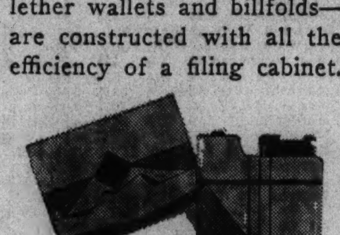
Pipe smoking and pipe collecting are analagous. Have no fear, then, if he's a piper.



Give another pipe. Or, you can be sure that he'll be pleased with a humidor that will keep his favorite brand of tobacco at the right degree of humidity. And the pipe addicts are "that way" about pouches, too.

PICKS FOR POCKETS

Our much vaunted Yankee ingenuity comes through with a cigaret case that contains its own lighter. It carries twenty cigarets without causing your pocket to bulge. Those other pocket conveniences—fine lether wallets and billfolds—are constructed with all the efficiency of a filing cabinet.



Pigskin, pinseal, or crocodile are the fashionable preferences.

TICKER TIPS

Some men inherit watches, some men buy watches, and some men have watches thrust upon them. For the boys in the latter class, or those others who could use one, more up to the minute, a wrist watch that is weatherproof or another curved to fit the wrist are earnestly recommended.

GOLD STANDARD

Few men have all the essential jewelry they may need for day or evening use. A pearl scarf pin, or one with a small animal figure, is much in fashion. Gold knot cuff links are new, and a key chain also is a good choice. A gold safety pin for the collar is a small but useful gift.

TOBACCO BAR REAL NOVELTY FOR SMOKERS

"Step up gents—this smoke is on me."

Already the rendezvous of many discriminating smokers and pipe collectors, Chicago boasts, in the southwest section of the loop, one of the most completely equipped tobacco stores in the country.

Chief among the innovations is the "tobacco bar" where, instead of ordering his favorite cocktail or highball, a man orders his favorite mixture of smoking tobacco. Equipped to resemble a regular bar in many details, the counter has 11 set-in containers similar to those which hold the flavors at a soda fountain. Each container holds a special type of tobacco such as Virginia, Turkish, Perique, Burley, Havana, and Latakia. Thus the man who likes a blend of Perique and Virginia or Perique and Havana has only to make his wants known and is served in any proportion or any amount.

In addition there is the modern glass front cold storage room, cedar lined, for keeping fine cigar stocks in good shape; cigarets of every kind and description up to those which sell for 25 cents each, and a full line of cigaret holders, cases, lighters, pipe racks, humidors, tobacco pouches, and fancy matches.

Ready for exhibition, too, or purchase if desired, are several old and interesting meerschaum and clay pipes which, because they went through the great Chicago fire of 1871, carry much of interest and tradition to any pipe collector.

SERVICE TO MARK FR. MARQUETTE'S FIRST MASS HERE

A special service will be held at St. Patrick's Catholic church at noon Sunday in observance of the 261st anniversary of the first sacrifice of mass offered on the site of Chicago by Father Jacques Marquette, French missionary and explorer.

The Rev. James I. Gallery, pastor of the church, will deliver the sermon. Rene Weiller, French consul general, and members of his staf will be present.

Other organizations are to coöperate in the observance. A vesper service will be held in the Lawson Y. M. C. A. in memory of the first mission here. A plan is on foot to have Dec. 15 set aside as an annual "worship day."

Mann's Widow Wins $53,000 in Insurance Suit

Mrs. Rose Mann, 832 Argyle street, widow of Fred L. Mann, owner of the Rainbo Gardens, a former Chicago night life center, was awarded a $53,099 verdict yesterday by a jury in Federal Judge Charles E. Woodward's court against the John Hancock Mutual Life Insurance company.

The company contended that the last $3,000 premium payment on Mann's $50,000 policy had not been made before Mann killed himself in Lincoln park on Oct. 8, 1930. Counsel for Mrs. Mann showed that a check for the payment had been sent to the company but had not cleared the bank before the suicide.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Dec. 11.—Increased strength in corporate liens and a sharp rally in Italian obligations featured the bond market today. Trading in United States governments was almost at a standstill.

Obligations of oil companies were in demand, based on the improved position within the industry, especially in California, in controling production.

Many Oil Issues Advance.

Petroleum obligations to show strength included Pure Oil 4½s, which made a new 1935 high at 109½; Richfield 6s, which advanced almost 5 points, and Pan-American Petroleum issues, which went up a similar amount.

Advances of fractions to 5¾ points were marked up against various issues in the Italian group. The government 7s climbed 5¾ points to 71. Public Works 7s were 5⅛ higher at 62.

Rails, Utilities Strong.

Rails and utilities were strong most of the day. Among the issues that featured the general corporate group were Allis-Chalmers 4¼s, American Rolling Mill 4¼, American Type Founders 6s, Kansas City Southern 3s, New Orleans, Texas and Mexico 5½s, Penn Dixie 6s, Atlantic Coast line 4½s, and Southern railway 5s.

In the United States government list only a few issues were traded and prices were mixed. Closing prices were 1-32 point higher to 1-32 lower. Sales in the group totaled $610,000. Total transfers aggregated $14,332,000, par value, against $15,238,000 Tuesday.

COTTONSEED OIL.

NEW YORK, Dec. 11.—(AP)—COTTONSEED OIL—Bleachable, was easier today under liquidation on the depressed tone of cotton. The market closed 8 to 10 points lower. Sales, 83 contracts. The trade is looking for a consumption report tomorrow of around 300,000 barrels, against 398,382 barrels consumed in October. Bleachable spot, nominal; December closed, 10.71c; January, 10.65c; March, 10.69c; May, 10.70c; July, 10.74c.

F. E. Myers & Brothers.

Investors' Guide: Will you kindly give me a report on Myers and Brothers common stock? Thank you.—Mrs. F. M.

Answer: F. E. Myers and Brothers company, originally established in 1870, is one of the largest American manufacturers of pumps. This division accounts for about 65 per cent of total volume, the remainder being derived from sale of spraying units, hay tools, door hangers, etc. Although demand is varied, largest percentage of sales is to farmers. Main plants are at Ashland, O.

Reflecting improved business conditions and better position of farmers, net income for the nine months to July 31, 1935, was $538,000, or $2.65 a share, against $483,000, or $2.19 a share on a larger capitalization, for the corresponding period of the preceding fiscal year.

In the year ended Oct. 31, 1934, net income was $568,000, or $2.58 a share, against $243,000, or 84 cents a share, for the preceding year. Net income in the Oct. 31, 1932, year was $197,000, against profits of $643,000 and $1,083,000 for the two preceding years.

On Oct. 31, 1934, current assets were $2,307,000 and current liabilities were $148,000.

Since 1928 the company has been retiring its preferred stock. On Dec. 31, 1934, the last 5,000 shares of a 30,000 share issue of 6 per cent preferred were redeemed.

Capitalization now consists of 200,000 shares of no par common. Effective Sept. 30, 1935, the quarterly dividend rate was increased to 50 cents, against the previous 40 cent rate. The stock has paid dividends every year since 1928. It deserves a fairly good rating.

Central Pacific.

Investors' Guide: Please give me your opinion of Central Pacific 4s, due 1946—Mrs. W. E.

Answer: Central Pacific Railway company 4s, due 1946, are unsecured, although they are guaranteed as to principal and interest by Southern Pacific company which has pledged as security for its guaranty certain securities of affiliated companies. There are outstanding in the hands of the public 65,353,000 francs of French franc bonds and $12,616,000 of United States dollar bonds.

They are callable at par and interest at any time on six months' notice. The bonds are sound.

DECLINE IN SILVER PRICES CAUSES BREAK IN COTTON

Cotton futures broke more than $1 a bale yesterday as the result of a wave of liquidation which followed the announcement of a new break in silver prices. The selling was said to be based on fears that the lower price for the metal might materially curtail the purchases by China.

Closing trades in leading markets were at practically the lowest level of the day, with losses ranging from 80 cents to $1.70 per bale, the latter on the July delivery in Chicago. Prices are now below the government loan level of 12 cents per pound to the producer.

Spot cotton closed $1.25 to $1.50 per bale lower, with New York quoted at 11.80 cents; New Orleans, 11.65 cents; Houston, 11.70 cents, and Galveston, 11.60 cents per pound. Prices in cents per pound:

EGG FUTURES CLOSE HIGHER AFTER REACHING NEW LOWS

Liquidation carried egg futures off ⅜ to ⅝ cents in the early trading on the Chicago Mercantile exchange yesterday to new low levels for the season, but heavy buying developed on the decline and a rally followed, with the close at gains of ⅛ to ¼ cent. December, after touching 19⅞ cents, closed at 20⅝ cents per dozen.

Butter futures were off ¼ to ⅜ cent per pound, with December closing at 31 cents. Sales of butter were 107 cars and eggs 228 cars. Prices:

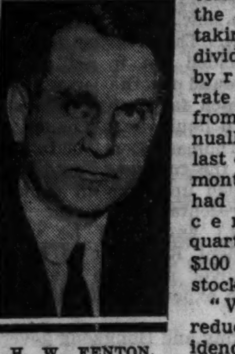
HARRIS TRUST LIFTS DIVIDEND TO $8 ANNUALLY

Balaban & Katz to Cut Arrearage.

The Harris Trust and Savings bank yesterday joined Chicago companies and other concerns throughout the country in taking favorable dividend action by raising the rate on the stock from $6 to $8 annually. For the last eighteen months the bank had paid 1½ per cent or $1.50 quarterly on its $100 par value stock.



H. W. FENTON.

"When we reduced our dividend in June of 1934 we desired to add substantially to reserves and capital resources, which we have done," said Howard W. Fenton, president of the bank, in announcing the dividend.

Expect Larger Earnings.

"Earnings for 1935 will be larger than in 1934 and we believe stockholders are now entitled to the increased payment. While extremely low interest rates now prevailing make it difficult for banks to make satisfactory earnings, we feel the banking situation as a whole is much improved by the conservative policy of charging off losses and increasing reserves, which has been generally followed the last few years."

The Chicago Title and Trust company voted a $1 a share dividend on its stock, similar to the payment made Oct. 1, when dividends were resumed after a lapse since Jan. 1, 1933.

Pay On Back Dividend.

Balaban & Katz voted a disbursement of $3.50 a share on 7 per cent preferred stock accumulations. Remaining arrearages amount to $3.50 a share.

Pittsburgh and Lake Erie railroad, controled by the New York Central, declared an extra dividend of $1. New York Central owns 50.2 per cent of the road's capital stock, and the extra dividend means an additional income to Central of $433,984, or about 8 cents a share on its own shares outstanding.

Chicago River and Indiana railroad, wholly owned subsidiary of the New York Central, which was expected to declare an extra dividend of about $3,000,000 at its directors' meeting yesterday, postponed action until Friday.

Pay on Accumulations.

Other extras for the day included 50 cents by the Independent Pneumatic Tool company, $1 by the Detroit Edison company, and 5 cents by the Davidson Biscuit company, which placed its stock on a 40 cent annual basis by declaring a quarterly of 10 cents. Grant Gillam, Chicago; C. J. Wither, Mount Vernon, Ill., and Arthur S. Dewing, Boston, were elected directors to fill vacancies.

Godchaux Sugars, Inc., declared a dividend of $3.75 on the preferred stock, consisting of a quarterly payment of $1.75 and $2 on account of accumulations. United Shoe Machinery company voted a special dividend of $2.

Directors of McKesson & Robbins, Inc., declared a special dividend of 50 cents a share on outstanding preference stock, in accordance with the recapitalization plan approved by stockholders Tuesday. The distribution is to be made when the present stock is presented in exchange for new preference shares authorized under the plan.

Continental Can's Tax Bill Is Equal to $1 Per Share

New York, Dec. 11.—(AP)—Continental Can company, in a communication to stockholders, asserted today that $1 a share will be required to cover its tax bill for 1935, using the result of last year as a basis. The statement said that by 1938, assuming no further changes are made in taxation, the amount required, including taxes under the social security act, will approximate $1.35 a share.

County Adopts 47 Million Funding Plan

The county finance committee yesterday adopted a bond refunding program calling for refinancing of the $47,291,910 county debt, although no selection of a refunding agent to carry out the program was made. The plan, drawn by County Auditor Lee J. Howard, provides for issuance of $35,781,000 series A bonds due Jan. 1, 1956, and $11,510,910 series B bonds due in 1951 and callable in 1946.

The series A bonds would be exchanged for a similar amount of outstanding obligations maturing after June 1, 1936, would bear the same rate of interest as bonds for which they would be exchanged and become optional for redemption on the Jan. 1 next following the maturity of the old bonds.

Sell Series B Issued for Cash.

The series B bonds would be sold for cash to retire a similar amount of defaulted obligations. Past due interest would be paid with funds now on hand.

A new refunding ordinance, calling for bond and interest levies of $4,500,000 annually over the next twenty years to service the new bonds, will be submitted to the county board shortly. The legislation must be passed by Dec. 31 in order to permit a reduction in the 1935 bond and interest tax levy which now stands at nearly $7,000,000. After passing the ordinance the county board will advertise for bids from banks and dealers to carry out the plan.

Park Board Discusses Refunding.

Officials of the Chicago park district also met yesterday with representatives of the five large local banks in the office of Robert J. Dunham, president, to make preliminary plans for effecting the $112,000,000 refunding program of the park district.

Dunham said that at least another week of conference will be necessary to complete details of the program which involves the exchange of new obligations of the consolidated district for bonds of all of the superseded park districts. The program is similar to the recently effected plan of the Sanitary district, providing for the exchange of new term bonds for unmatured obligations and retirement of past due obligations with proceeds from the sale of new bonds.

NOVEMBER'S NEW BUILDING 68 PCT. ABOVE YEAR AGO

New York, Dec. 11.—(AP)—Awards for all classes of construction in November totaled $118,115,000 in 37 eastern states, F. W. Dodge corporation reported today. This was an increase or about 68 per cent over the total of $111,691,500 reported for the same area in November, 1934. However, the volume failed to attain the level of $200,595,700 reported by the Dodge organization for October of this year.

November awards for residential building, as apart from other classes of construction, totaled $39,695,200 in the 37 eastern states. This was twice the total of $19,909,700 shown for November of last year and compares with $55,100,300 reported for October, 1935.

WALGREEN PLANS TO PUT DIVIDEND ON $2 ANNUAL BASIS

Directors of Walgreen company will raise the dividend rate of the company to $2 a share annually at their meeting in early January unless some material change appears in the economic situation, Charles R. Walgreen, president, indicated yesterday at the annual stockholders' meeting.

On Oct. 15 a quarterly payment of 40 cents a share was made on the common stock and three months earlier a 35 cent disbursement was distributed.

Walgreen said he was satisfied with the earnings record of the company which for the fiscal year ended Sept. 30 had a net income of $2,320,372, equal to $2.52 a share.

Stockholders reëlected all members of the board of directors.

POWER OUTPUT AGAIN SETS UP HIGH RECORD

Power output in the United States last week moved up to a new all-time peak, resuming the upward trend that was interrupted by the Thanksgiving holiday in the preceding week. Trade analysts said last week's gain was larger than seasonal.

The new peak high of 1,969,662,000 kilowatt hours was 4.9 per cent larger than in the preceding week and 13 per cent above the level a year ago. The previous record was 1,913,684,000 kilowatt hours established in the week ended Nov. 23.

In Chicago the best week's output in nearly six years was recorded on a total of 116,978,000 kilowatt hours, 6.7 per cent above a year ago, the Commonwealth Edison company reported.

Output in kilowatt hours for the Chicago area with percentage gains over 1934 are [last 3 ciphers omitted]:

BANKING SHARES RISE ON OUTLOOK FOR DIVIDENDS

Shares of the principal Chicago banks were bid up sharply yesterday in the unlisted market. The biggest gains were made by Continental Illinois, First National, and Harris Trust.

An advance of nearly 10 points, to 123 bid, 125 asked, was registered by Continental shares, which are expected to be put on a dividend basis shortly. Harris Trust stock was bid up to 305, 315 asked, a gain of 10 points, coincidentally with the increase in the dividend rate from $6 to $8 a year.

Stock of the First National was quoted at 218 bid, 222 asked, up 7 points. First National directors are scheduled to put the issue on a $4 annual dividend basis at their meeting tomorrow.

Pennsy Places 25 Million Car Order

Placing of orders for 10,000 new freight cars to cost approximately $25,000,000 was announced yesterday by the Pennsylvania Railroad company. The operation marks one of the most extensive equipment building programs undertaken in the road's history.

The road also announced that to assist in financing the building of the new cars it is asking bids today from a number of banking firms on $18,420,000 of equipment trust certificates. The remainder of the cost of the cars will be met out of company funds.

Bids Receivable Dec. 16.

The bids are to be receivable Dec. 16. Bidders are asked to quote prices on certificates bearing either 3 per cent or 2¾ per cent interest, the final choice to rest with the company. Any award must be approved by the interstate commerce commission.

It is estimated the new car project will provide approximately 11,000,000 man hours of work in equipment company and railroad shops, both in the fabrication of the cars and in the production of materials necessary for their construction.

Fabrication work alone, it is estimated, will provide employment for a full year to 2,000 men and an additional 6,000 men will be engaged over a long period producing various materials.

Four Types of Cars.

Included in the order are 3,000 automobile cars, 4,700 standard steel box cars, 2,000 mill type gondolas of a new design, and 300 covered hopper cars designed especially for the handling of cement and similar commodities in bulk.

A total of 3,300 cars will be built in the Pennsylvania's Altoona, Pa., works, 1,350 at the Enola, Pa., shops, and 1,300 in the Pitcairn, Pa., shops.

The remaining 4,000 have been allocated to equipment building companies as follows: American Car and Foundry company, Berwick, Pa., 800; Bethlehem Steel company, Johnstown, Pa., 600; General American Car company, East Chicago, Ind., 400; Greenville Steel Car company, Greenville, Pa., 250; Pressed Steel Car company, McKees Rocks, Pa., 1,000; Pullman Standard Car Manufacturing company, Butler, Pa., 700; Ralston Steel Car company, Columbus, O., 250.

Illinois Central Equipment Program Approved by ICC

Washington, D. C., Dec. 11.—(AP)—The interstate commerce commission today authorized the Illinois Central railroad to use approximately $3,000,000 of public works funds for repairs and overhauling of equipment. Improvements to be made include general repairs to 141 engines and tenders costing $996,620; general overhauling of 56 passenger cars, including instalation of air conditioning apparatus in 52, $459,640; general overhauling of 1,297 box cars, $1,543,740.

STOCKS STAGE RALLY; SILVER ISSUES HEAVY

Most Groups Share in Upturn.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Dec. 11.—Stocks recovered some of their confidence today but many traders continued to adhere to the sidelines pending definite indications of the treasury department's intentions concerning the silver outlook. Transactions totaled 2,143,290 shares.

ed to nearly all groups with gains running from fractions to about a point. A few issues made an even better showing.

Silver shares were again under pressure although liquidation in this direction was not nearly so pronounced as in yesterday's dealings. U. S. Smelting closed at 97½, off 3¾ points, Cerro de Pasco finished about $2 a share lower and American Smelting lost a small fraction.

Bullish Sentiment Prevails.

Comment indicated that constructive factors behind the market are sufficiently strong to outweigh deflationary influences in the present silver situation. Business improvement, linked with an abnormal amount of cheap money, are regarded as forces too potent to be long hindered by any collapse in the white metal market.

As in yesterday's dealings, gold mining shares showed a tendency to brace up as the silvers moved into lower ground. Homestake rose 10 points on a couple of sales, and McIntyre was higher most of the time.

A feature of the market was resumption of the rise in the automobile section. Chrysler spurted 2 points on the largest volume in the list, but eased fractionally from its high. Steels had a better undertone, rising a fraction to a point.

Rail Group Mixed.

Trading in the railroad group was mixed. Norfolk and Western rose to a new high on a gain of a point, and Atchison and Coast Line scored modest gains. Union Pacific and Pennsylvania found the going a bit heavy. Alleghany prior preferred dipped 3 points on one sale and then sagged a fraction further. The equipments showed a disposition to do better. Baldwin was firm but less active.

Liggett & Myers tumbled 6 points on a few sales. Oil shares came in for some fresh constructive attention. Amusement, chemical, and utility issues did little of account.

American Radiator attracted attention with an advance to a new high price for the year, up more than a point. Johns Manville also climbed 2 points on predictions of better times next year for the construction industries, but later fell back.

Stock Exchange Seat Sells for $135,000; Down $5,000

New York, Dec. 11.—[Special.]—Arrangements have been made for the sale of a stock exchange seat for $135,000, a decrease of $5,000 from a transaction on Nov. 19.

Influx of Gold Puts Reserve Board and Bankers on Spot

BY HOWARD WOOD.

One of the most puzzling monetary problems ever faced by the United States has developed during the last few months as the result of the vast influx of frightened capital from France and other European gold standard countries.

Presence of this unwanted and unsought money, the inflow of which has boosted gold reserves of the United States to the highest peak in history, has created a dilemma which to date has defied solution by the governors of the federal reserve board, the treasury, and the leading bankers who are members of the federal advisory council.

If these authorities could speak out and tell the public their story in straightforward fashion their big immediate problem might be solved because then they would be able to apply the controls which they believe to be necessary. But their tongues are tied because a candid and complete explanation of the American problem would necessitate comments on the situation in France and other foreign countries which might embarrass the governments of those nations.

The situation is this:

It is estimated that at least a billion and a quarter dollars of the funds that have fled to the United States during the last year represents the transfer of floating funds from France and other gold standard nations. Owners of this money have shipped it here chiefly because they fear that somewhere down the road France and the other nations will devalue their currencies. By sending the money here until this devaluation occurs—if it does occur—and then taking it back home the owners would protect themselves against losses resulting from such currency debasement. If, on the other hand, the anticipated devaluation in France and the other nations does not occur the funds can be returned after the storm is over and the owners will be out but little.

Because the presence of this billion and a quarter is admittedly only temporary leading bankers and the reserve authorities are anxious to prevent its being woven into the credit structure of the United States to such an extent that when it finally is demanded for return it would cause substantial and depressing liquidation of American securities.

When the billion and a quarter arrived in American ports it was in the form of gold shipped from European capitals, but immediately upon arrival it poured into the banking system of the nation as additional bank deposits.

There is no question whatever about the ability of American banks to produce plenty of cash to transfer this floating capital back to Europe now or at any time in the near future because they have more than three billion dollars in excess reserves lying idle in the federal reserve banks.

The reserve authorities and their banker advisers, however, are looking further into the future and are wondering what would happen later on if the demand for the return to Europe of this money should come after the banks should have expanded their loans and investments to such an extent that the raising of a billion and a quarter in cash for export would necessitate the liquidation of loans and investments by the banks, thereby depressing security markets and creating a tight money situation.

In the past when frightened capital has fled continental Europe it has gone largely to England, where that nation, with its highly centralized banking system, has been able to handle such situations neatly and without much publicity. The floating funds—"bad money," as it is called in England—has simply been isolated from the bank credit structure and kept available for reëxport upon demand.

In this country with its 15,000 separate banking institutions such a situation is harder to handle. Unless the whole setup is publicly explained, the reserve authorities fear, the controls might go awry. And they cannot publicy explain without making official comments about the possibility of French devaluation. Such comments from Washington, it is believed, would immediately precipitate another run on the French franc, bringing still more unwanted gold to this country and embarrassing the government of France and other gold standard nations.

The federal advisory council has advised the federal reserve board to protect the American banks and markets by requiring the federal reserve banks to reduce their holdings of government bonds and letting the commercial banks buy them. Their argument is that later when foreign depositors demand the return of their money the commercial banks could be sure of raising the cash without liquidation of other stocks and bonds by merelv selling some of their government bonds back to the federal reserve banks.

The governors of the federal reserve board in Washington, however, thus far have been afraid to take this precautionary step because of the possibility that the reduction of the federal reserve banks' holdings of government bonds might be interpreted by the smaller banks and the investing public generally as a signal to sell government bonds, thus endangering the credit of the federal government at a time when that credit must be maintained in order to finance the government's vast borrowing needs. They also fear that it might have a bearish effect upon the market for other securities.

Thus, being unable to act without talking and being unable to talk without precipitating trouble abroad the governors of the federal reserve board have adopted a "do nothing" policy for the time being, hoping that time and the gods will combine to solve the problem or at least make it easier to tackle.

Some experts believe that the possibility of the banks' excess reserves slopping over into the stock market and generating an abortive speculative boom is a greater threat than the possible future demand for the return of a billion and a quarter of gold to Europe, but the reserve authorities are concerning themselves with the latter problem—and they haven't yet found the answer.

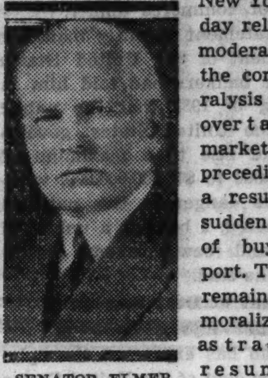
'U. S. BUYING' BREAKS TIEUP IN SILVER TRADE

But Markets Remain Demoralized.

Limited buying of silver by the American treasury in London and New York yesterday relieved to a moderate degree the complete paralysis which had overtaken the market on the preceding day as a result of the sudden withdraw of buying support. The market remained in a demoralized state as trading was resumed, however, and speculators and others with a stake in silver awaited a clarification by the United States of its policy.



SENATOR ELMER THOMAS.
[U. & U. Photo.]

The deadlock in the London market was not broken until some time after the regular hour for the opening of business. The receipt of what was described as "small American buying" was followed at 10:45 a. m. [Chicago time] by the posting of a price of 27½ pence an ounce, equivalent to approximately 60.94 cents in American funds at the prevailing rate on the pound sterling. The price quoted was 1¼ pence an ounce under Monday's last price.

N. Y., Montreal Prices Break.

In New York bar silver for commercial purposes was quoted at 62⅝ cents an ounce, a cent below Tuesday's quotation. The spread between the New York and London prices, brokers said, was an artificial one. There has been no attempt at arbitrage between the two markets because the unsettlement of the market made the price of the actual metal on arrival here a matter of uncertainty.

BANKER PREDICTS PUBLIC WILL HALT FEDERAL WASTE

Terms Balanced Budget Foremost Problem.

Houston, Tex., Dec. 11.—(AP)—A prediction that public resistance to governmental "extravagance" would come sooner or later was coupled tonight by Winthrop W. Aldrich, New York banker, with what he called encouraging signs of business improvement. Balancing of the federal budget, he said, was "first and foremost" among the problems yet to be solved. Aldrich spoke at a chamber of commerce dinner.

"The statement recently made by the President of the United States that great bankers had told him in the spring of 1933 that the public debt of the United States government could rise to a maximum of $55,000,000,000 to $70,000,000,000, without serious danger to the national credit, created, I believe, a universal surprise and bewilderment among bankers," he said.

Ignorant of Debt Statement.

"I do not myself know of any banker who has expressed the opinion that the debt of the United States government could safely rise to $55,000,000,000, to say nothing of $70,000,000,000.

"The question of how much debt the United States government could safely incur is not one which any banker should venture to answer with definite figures. The answer would depend both on moral and material considerations."

Aldrich, chairman of the Chase National bank, listed three factors in what he termed the current business improvement. They were "a lessening of fear of what the New Deal might do, disappearance of the NRA, and a tremendous replacement demand.

"The courts have spoken and have been supported by an overwhelming popular opinion in their defense of the constitution," he said, "and congress has begun to reassert itself."

Predicts Eventual Resistence.

While the federal government, by virtue of its prestige, can go more rapidly into extravagant expenditure and can persist longer without meeting taxpayer or creditor resistance, he said, such resistance will manifest itself eventually.

The net effect of continued government spending on private enterprise and private investment, he declared, was "definitly adverse."

He asserted that the existing excess reserves of member banks invite a far wilder speculative abuse of credit than that which culminated in 1929, and that individual banks, as well as the president of the stock exchange and the chairman of the Securities and Exchange commission had recognized their inability to control such a speculation.

'BUYING BY U. S.' BREAKS TIEUP IN SILVER TRADE

But All Markets Remain Demoralized.

treal remained in a highly demoralized state and prices declined 2½ to 5 cents an ounce. The closing price on the December future was 53 cents an ounce in that market. The quotations were reported as nominal.

While Washington officials refused to make any comments on the silver question, there was a general belief that the treasury had definitly embarked on a new policy with regard to the metal. The treasury had apparently decided not to act as the dumping ground for the large silver holdings which far eastern interests are trying to liquidate in London.

Senator Thomas [Dem., Okla.] declared that the treasury would probably be called upon for an explanation. Representative Martin Dies [Dem., Tex.] announced he would urge President Roosevelt to administer the silver purchase act so as to stimulate exports of surplus commodities.

The Nanking and Hongkong governments in China are offering the metal as a preliminary toward setting up a new system of managed currency which would be linked with the pound sterling.

Chinese Situation.

The Chinese government, as a requisite of establishing the new currency, must acquire foreign balances through the sale of silver. Such balances would be used to manage the external value of the Shanghai and Hongkong dollars.

Dispatches from Shanghai pictured government officials and bankers as greatly apprehensive over the future of the American policy. Officials were quoted as saying the success of the new currency is imperiled if silver prices continue to fall. The bankers are skeptical that the government will be able to maintain the stability of the Chinese dollar in the face of cessation of American buying. A shrinkage in the value of the metal backing the notes might lead to a loss of public confidence, it was asserted.

No Immediate Danger.

It was explained that the Chinese dollar is in no immediate danger, as the market in London is still approximately 4 pence above the price of 17½ pence at which the dollar has been pegged against the pound sterling.

Reverberations of the fall in silver were reported in Bombay, India, where the bullion board governing trading passed a resolution fixing minimum prices below which silver may not go on the next dates for the settlement of sales. The emergency measures were taken as a result of unloading by bears and heavy selling by option dealers during the trading Tuesday. The opening of the market yesterday was delayed until the board had taken its action.

GOLD MONEYS RISE AS SILVER UNITS WEAKEN

New York, Dec. 11.—[Special.]—Improvement in the gold currencies and weakness in sterling and silver moneys marked foreign exchanges today.

French francs gained ¾ point to close at 6.60½ cents. This reduced the value of the dollar against francs to $1.0043 from $1.0054 yesterday. Guilders rose 3 points to 67.73 cents. Swiss francs gained 1 point to 32.42 cents, but remained 1 point under the gold export level. Belgas gained a point.

The pound sterling declined both in New York and London, closing here at $4.92½, off 1 cent, and in London at $4.92 9/16, against the New York overnight rate of $4.93. Scandinavian currencies eased 2 points each.

The silver situation was reflected in weakness of the Hongkong and Shanghai dollars, the former dropping 10 points to 33.20 cents, or a new low, and the latter 15 points to 29.80 cents.

STEEL OUTPUT FALLS 1 POINT TO 56 PER CENT

Rising Trend Indicated in Scrap Price Boost.

Improvement in the steel industry since a year ago yesterday when Gen. Charles G. Dawes predicted a definite upturn by June of this year was strikingly reflected in Iron Age's estimate yesterday that the industry is operating at 56 per cent of capacity, compared with 33 per cent last year.

This week's level represents a dip of 1 point from the preceding week, but all signs point toward a continued upward trend rather than a decline, it said. The journal said that the rise of steel scrap prices to a peak since September, 1930, suggests further advances in the steel operating rate.

The current dip merely is the result of easing pressure from consumers for finished steel deliveries before the start of the new year, after the reaffirmation of most existing prices for the first quarter.

Several Industries Expand Orders.

Railroads, utilities and oil companies have begun to expand their purchases of both iron and steel, and construction awards are increasing.

Chicago mills were operating at 59 per cent of capacity, according to Iron Age's estimate as of Tuesday. This is a decline of 4½ points from a week ago, but last year this district was on a 35½ per cent basis.

The automobile industry continues to make large contributions to the current steel business, with large day by day requirements cushioning any reactions in mill schedules. Heavy requirements of motor car makers are also reflected in liberal first quarter contracting in pig iron by the automotive foundries.

Anticipatory Demand Heavy.

There are also heavy anticipatory orders for semi-finished steel, the prices of which were advanced, the journal said. Similarly, acceleration is reported in the output of finished items that were marked up, among them track bolts, track spikes, fence posts and bolts and nuts.

The Iron Age price composite for heavy melting steel scrap is at $13.42 a gross ton, compared with $13.25 a week ago. The prices on pig iron and finished steel are unchanged at $18.84 a gross ton and 2.130 cents a pound, respectively.

Steel scrap was reported sold in the Pittsburgh market near the $14.50 a ton level, steel trade circles heard yesterday. On this transaction the quotation for heavy melting material rose 50 cents a ton to $14.00@14.50, establishing the highest level in that market since March, 1934, when the average price was $14.25 a ton.

HEAVY RECEIPTS DEPRESS LIVE STOCK PRICES

Extremely large live stock receipts forced prices lower here yesterday. The cattle run of 11,000 was the largest for mid-week since early in May. With the exception of cheapest classes of stock going below $7.50, which held firm again, most steers suffered another drastic price slashing that brought values $1 under the best levels of last week. Calves were weak to 25 cents lower.

The hog market was weighted down with 25,000 head, the largest Wednesday run since January. Prices fell 10 to 15 cents, but an active market developed on the decline and little remained unsold at the close. There was practically no spread in prices for the bulk of the crop, approximately 85 per cent of the receipts of best 200 to 250 pound new crop stock going at $11.85 and $11.90. The top was $12, tax included, and the average at $11.85 was 10 cents under the preceding session.

Lambs dropped 25 cents. City butchers paid as high as $11 for selected fed western stock, the lowest top price since Nov. 21, while local packers obtained most of the good grades around $10.75.

American Type Founders Reorganization Approved

A proposed reorganization plan for the American Type Founders company has been approved by the federal court at Newark, N. J.

Europe Hides Troubles Behind Armaments, Asserts Palyi

Europe has chosen armaments, behind which is the specter of inflation, in trying to overcome its economic difficulties, Dr. Melchior Palyi, visiting professor of economics at the University of Chicago, said at a dinner meeting of the Chicago chapter of the American Statistical association last night in the Hamilton club.

The whole problem of world economic distress could be solved immediately, Palyi said, by stabilization of currencies, settling of the foreign debt situation and an active movement to foster trade among countries by removing present barriers.

Three Channels Open.

The three channels open to European powers in getting out of their current unstable positions consist of international settlements, bankruptcy, or war, and the countries involved are leaning more to war, he pointed out.

Germany has kept her industry alive with a vast rearmament program, the former adviser to the Reichsbank said, which is being financed by inflationary means consisting of short term commercial bills and longer term government bonds.

The best way to understand Germany, eliminating the political aspects, Palyi said, is to compare her with a corporation under receivership, which does not pay its debts. The comparison differs in that Germany as the debtor becomes its own receiver and satisfies the creditors without paying debts.

Government Chief Customer.

An upturn in industry for that country during the last two and a half years was limited to the capital goods industries, whose business consists of 60 per cent government orders and part of the other 40 per cent goes to companies supplying government orders, he pointed out.

Continuation of the German financial system is only a matter of months, Palyi said, as the burocratic regulation of foreign exchanges and imports kills exports to other countries that are setting up quotas on German goods.

Now that England's housing program has reached an end, the new government has taken to rearmament in keeping unemployment down, Palyi said, and the upturn in English industry will be maintained by this program, in his opinion.

Production and foreign trade in France are falling and the French position is precarious in anticipation of reorganization, he believes. Unlike England, which has reorganized in the sense of reducing debts by 40 per cent and cutting unemployment, France has no home markets to offset falling foreign trade. Besides, he pointed out, the French are not buying their government's bonds.

KEMMERER WARNS 50 BILLION U. S. DEBT WOULD BE OPPRESSIVE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 11.—[Special.]—Prof. Edwin Walker Kemmerer, arch-tory of high finance, today declared a national debt of from $50,000,000,000 to $70,000,000,000 "doubtless could be carried" by the federal government, but warned such a national debt would be "very oppressive" and would mean heavy pressure for further inflation, to which he is vigorously opposed.

The Princeton "money doctor" and critic of the New Deal, who has ministered to the fiscal ills of a dozen nations, thus commented on a statement made by President Roosevelt in his recent Atlanta address that bankers had told him in 1933 a national debt of such magnitude could be carried in the interests of recovery.

Kemmerer's views were expressed in a letter to Joseph Leib of Washington, who had inquired about the President's Atlanta statements. Leib described himself as active in the Roosevelt cause. He made the letter public today.

Eastern bankers denied indignantly that any "great" financiers had made such statements to Roosevelt.

BANKS ADVISED TO TELL PUBLIC TRUE FUNCTIONS

Bankers were advised yesterday by G. Munro Hubbard of New York, president of Doremus & Co., in a talk before the Chicago Financial Advertisers at the Hamilton club to explain their place in the economic world so that the man in the street understands it. By so doing, he said, much possibly could be done to avoid the difficulties that resulted in the 1933 bank runs.

"A large part of the public, due to the activities of demagogs and fanatics, has the mistaken idea that banks are reservoirs of wealth which cannot be tapped by borrowers because of the bankers' own timidity and pig headedness," Hubbard explained.

"Bankers should correct this misapprehension by pointing out that it is commerce and industry which creates the need for banking—banking is only a means to an end, not an end to itself. It is a secondary economic function and not a primary function. It is a viaduct built only to carry the stream of commerce."

APPEAL STAYS PIT ACTION IN ROSENBAUM CASE

Federal Judge William H. Holly yesterday signed the formal order vacating the injunction restraining the Chicago Board of Trade from carrying out disciplinary action against the Rosenbaum Grain corporation and two of its principal officers. At the same time he granted a supersedeas permitting the corporation and its officers to appeal the decision. Pending disposition of the case by the Circuit Court of Appeals the effect of the order dissolving the injunction is stayed.

Directors of the exchange last October voted to expel the corporation and Emanuel F. Rosenbaum, and to suspend Edwin S. Rosenbaum from membership for a period of five years. The defendants were found guilty of violating the exchange margin rules and making material misrepresentation of fact in reporting on the corporation's financial condition.

Utilities Power and Light Meeting Delayed to Jan. 29

Richmond, Va., Dec. 11.—(AP)—Utilities Power and Light corporation stockholders again adjourned their annual meeting here today without taking action on election of directors. Jan. 29, 1936, was set as the date of the next meeting.

OPEN HEARING TO HALT MEEHAN STOCK TRADING

Washington, D. C., Dec. 11.—[Special.]—The securities and exchange commission began today to pile up the weight of evidence with which it hopes to crush Michael J. Meehan, a member of the New York Stock exchange and one of the foremost speculators of the times, out of the brokerage business.

John J. Burns, counsel for the SEC, outlined testimony he said would support accusations that Meehan "unloaded" Bellanca Aircraft stock on the public when he knew it to be of little value.

Munroe Goldwater, Meehan's counsel, charged prejudice and sought without immediate success to have the trial examiner, William Green, halt the proceedings because of "the impossibility of a fair and impartial hearing to this defendant."

The day was spent in taking technical evidence in which commission witnesses called the Bellanca stock "a very speculative security" and the company's prospects" very poor.

AAA ALLOTS 1936 POTATO QUOTAS; CANADA LEADS

Washington, D. C., Dec. 11.—(AP)—The AAA announced today 2,777,000 bushels of potatoes may be imported to the United States in the year which began Dec. 1 without payment of the new potato act's 45 cent tax. This quota, divided among 17 nations, is intended to protect American growers. The regular tariff of 75 cents a bushel must be paid on table potatoes within the quota.

For each bushel imported in excess of the quota additional charges of 45 cents will be imposed. The quota represents 97.52 per cent of the average annual imports in the last six years.

A reduction in the 75 cent tariff on certified seed potatoes was made in the recent Canadian trade agreement, but an import quota was established for this type.

Canada will supply the bulk of the imported tax-free potatoes with an allotment of 2,682,087 bushels, based on its six year average of 2,750,180 bushels.

INDICATES U. S. LOSES ITS SUIT AGAINST HALSEY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 11.—[Special.]—A belief that the government had lost its Supreme court mail fraud case against Halsey, Stuart & Co., investment bankers, was expressed today by Joseph B. Keenan, assistant attorney general, after arguments in the case were concluded.

The government contends that the bankers were guilty of fraud because they issued $2,500,000 in bonds of the Wardman company for construction of apartments and hotels at a time when the company was unstable financially. The government, however, admits the company's assets were worth 19 million dollars and its indebtedness was only slightly more than 18 millions, and on this ground the district court ruled that the government could not prove its case.

CHICAGO STOCKS RISE; SIX ISSUES REACH NEW HIGHS

Six issues on the Chicago Stock exchange sold at new high quotations for the year in yesterday's trading. An advance of $3 a share in Keystone Steel was one of the features of the market. Other issues scoring gains included Sangamo Electric, National Gypsum and Borg Warner. Of 112 issues traded in, 50 closed with gains over the preceding day, 29 showed declines and 33 were unchanged. Seventeen stocks have made new high quotations this week.

Applications of Seymour L. Cromwell Jr. of New York, partner of Talcott, Potter & Co., and of William K. Archer, partner of W. K. Archer & Co., Kansas City, for membership on the Exchange, were approved yesterday by the governing committee.

Kurrie and Pettibone Named Monon Trustees

H. R. Kurrie and Holman D. Pettibone yesterday were appointed by Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson as co-trustees of the Chicago, Indianapolis and Louisville Railway company [the Monon] under bonds of $50,000 each. Kurrie is president of the road and Pettibone is president of the Chicago Title and Trust company. The railroad filed a bankruptcy petition under section 77 of the amended bankruptcy act in December, 1933, but so far no reorganization plan has been adopted.

SILVER CRISIS BRINGS DECLINE IN GRAIN PRICES

Wheat Values Fall Cent a Bushel.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

A moderate reaction occurred yesterday in wheat prices on the Chicago Board of Trade and other leading markets in this country and abroad. The world silver crisis appeared to be a factor in unsettling the market. A decline in values in Liverpool before trading began in Chicago and in Winnipeg set the pattern for the price action in other markets.

May wheat, the principal future contract traded here, closed at 95 cents, a loss of approximately a cent a bushel compared with Tuesday's last quotation. Selling orders filled the wheat pit in the last few minutes of trading. One of the principal commission houses was credited with a large part of the liquidation which appeared to originate with professional traders.

Await Decision on AAA.

Of immediate import to the market and a factor which is serving to restrict commercial operations is the forthcoming decision of the Supreme court on the AAA program. The progress of the case before the court is being followed with intense interest by traders. The unpredictable effects of a decision adverse to the government furnish an uncertain footing for market operations at present.

Aside from uncertainties surrounding the future of the agricultural program there appears to be a general belief that the world market is attaining a sounder basis as a result of evident determination of Canadian authorities to liquidate the government's holdings.

Observers profess to see the promise of a restoration of confidence to European wheat importers because of the manner in which Canada is tackling the problem.

Cite Rising Export Business.

As evidence of this returning confidence the daily reports on export sales are cited. A better demand appears to be developing and the more optimistic grain men believe they see the beginning of a new period of international trade in which the nationalistic tendency of recent years will be overcome.

Active export demand was reported again yesterday in Winnipeg and sales were estimated in the neighborhood of 1,000,000 bushels. The futures market in Winnipeg closed with a slight decline from Tuesday's prices. Prices were also slightly lower in Buenos Aires following the sharp advance of the preceding day.

Closing quotations on May futures in Chicago, with comparative prices, follow:

	Yest.	Tues.	Wk. ago.
Wheat	$ .95	$ .95⅝	$ .95½
Corn	.59¼	.59⅝	.58½
Oats	.26⅝	.26⅝	.26⅝
Rye	.50⅝	.50⅝	.51

Prices in the corn market were steady throughout yesterday's trading on a moderate volume of business. Prices in the cash market were strong and receipts of new corn were light. Quotations in the oats and rye pits showed only trifling changes, reflecting the extremely low ebb of activity in these grains.

SUGAR

NEW YORK, Dec. 11.—(AP)—SUGAR—Raw, was quiet today with prices unchanged at 3.10c for spots. Following losses, futures rallied on increased covering and local buying with final prices 4 points lower on December and unchanged to 1 point lower on later deliveries.

The early selling was influenced by the disappointing action of the spot market and uncertainty over political developments in Cuba. Washington reports that no further over-quota sugars in bond could be withdrawn in December, accounted for the recovery. Sales, 6,950 tons. The range follows:

The following is merely a brief outline of certain information contained in the Offering Prospectus and is subject to the more detailed statements in the Offering Prospectus and the Registration Statement, which also include important information not outlined or indicated herein. The Offering Prospectus, which must be furnished to each purchaser, should be read prior to any purchase of these Bonds.

THE COMPANY Southwestern Bell Telephone Company, all of the common stock of which, except Directors' qualifying shares, is owned by the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, is one of the associated telephone companies comprising the Bell System. The Company, incorporated in Missouri in 1882, is engaged in the telephone business in Missouri, Arkansas, Kansas, Oklahoma and Texas and in a small portion of Illinois adjacent to St. Louis. The Company's properties consist principally of telephone instruments and facilities for their inter-connection, the latter consisting chiefly of central office switching equipment and connecting lines. The business of the Company is subject to regulation, within their respective jurisdictions, by the Federal Communications Commission and by certain state and municipal authorities.

CAPITALIZATION

Seven Per Cent. Cumulative Preferred Stock—par value $100 per share	21,785,500.00
Common Stock—par value $100 per share	173,000,000.00

PURPOSE OF ISSUE The net proceeds to the Company from the contemplated sale of the $45,000,000 Series B Bonds, after deducting the estimated expenses of the Company in connection with such sale, are expected to approximate $44,935,000, and are to be applied, together with funds which the Company expects to obtain from its current cash and temporary cash investments, to the retirement of the Series A Bonds which the Company is calling for redemption on February 1, 1936, at 105% and accrued interest.

EARNINGS The Income Statements in the Offering Prospectus show the following as the Company's Operating Revenues, Total Income (the amount available for Fixed Charges), Fixed Charges (all interest charges and amortization of discount on funded debt), and Net Income, for the periods indicated below:

Years Ended December 31	Operating Revenues*	Total Income	Fixed Charges	Net Income
1932	$72,376,713.06	$16,368,136.79	$3,303,576.51	$13,064,560.28

1934	70,047,920.39	16,165,412.61	3,050,822.98	13,114,589.63
1935†	55,024,946.50	13,063,789.58	2,236,472.28	10,827,317.30

†Nine months ended September 30.

Include approximately $339,000, $256,000, $250,000 and $226,000, respectively, which the Company estimates would be refundable in whole or in part to subscribers in the event of adverse decisions in pending rate cases. Reservations of Surplus have been made against this contingency.*

SERIES B BONDS The Series B Bonds will be issued under the Company's First and Refunding Mortgage and will be secured by a lien on substantially all real estate, buildings and telephone plant owned by the Company in Missouri, Arkansas, Oklahoma and Texas and appertaining to or useful in the transaction of its business in those States. Upon redemption and payment of the Series A Bonds, the Series B Bonds will constitute the only then existing indebtedness secured by lien on such property, except for prior tax and assessment liens and prior closed mortgages on small portions of such property securing $144,900 of bonds, of which $5,900 are matured but unpresented. The Mortgage does not cover any property in Kansas or Illinois.

Series B Bonds are limited to the amount of $45,000,000 now authorized. The Mortgage, however, permits the issuance of additional bonds of other series, which would rank pari passu with the Series B Bonds.

The Mortgage permits the Company, in certain instances, to dispose of property covered by the Mortgage without a release from or notice to the Trustee, and also provides for releases and substitutions of such property. No notice is required to be given to bondholders in connection with any such disposal, release or substitution.

There is to be paid to a sinking fund agent, to be used as a sinking fund in purchasing Series B Bonds, but only if obtainable at not exceeding their principal amount and accrued interest, the sum of $250,000, on June 1, 1936, and semi-annually thereafter; provided, however, that any unexpended balance in the fund on any semi-annual payment date is to be credited on account of the payment due on that date.

UNDERWRITING Subject to certain terms and conditions, certain Underwriters named in the Offering Prospectus have severally agreed to purchase an aggregate of $44,000,000 of these Bonds from the Company at 100½%, or a total of $44,220,000, plus accrued interest. Such Bonds are to be offered to the public at 102½%, or a total of $45,100,000, plus accrued interest. The underwriting discounts are 2% or a total of $880,000. It is expected that delivery of such Bonds to the Underwriters, and payment therefor, is to be made on or about December 18, 1935. There is no firm commitment for the remaining $1,000,000 of Bonds, but the Company expects to sell such Bonds on or before February 1, 1936, without underwriting discounts or commissions, to the Trustee of Pension Funds established by the Company and by other companies of the Bell System, at 100½%, or a total of $1,005,000, plus accrued interest.

Price 102½% and Accrued Interest

The Underwriters have agreed to purchase $44,000,000 of these Bonds when, as and if issued, and subject to the approval of Messrs. Davis Polk Wardwell Gardiner & Reed, counsel for the Underwriters, and Messrs. Bryan, Williams, Cave & McPheeters, counsel for the Company. It is expected that delivery of Bonds in temporary form will be made at the office of J. P. Morgan & Co. on or about December 18, 1935, against payment therefor in New York funds.

Further information, in particular financial statements, is contained in the Registration Statement on file with the Commission, and in the Offering Prospectus which must be furnished to each purchaser and is obtainable only from such of the undersigned as are registered dealers in securities in this State.

COURT DOUBTS GUFFEY COAL ACT IS LEGAL

U. S. Judge Enjoins Tax Penalty Collections.

Lynchburg, Va., Dec. 11.—(AP)—Serious doubt as to the constitutionality of the Guffey coal act was expressed here today by Federal Judge John Paul as he granted fourteen Virginia and West Virginia coal producers a preliminary injunction, which restrains the United States from collecting a penalty tax for their refusal to acept the coal code.

The decision, filed two days after Judge Paul had heard attorneys for the producers and the government argue merits of the prayer, will remain effective until evidence can be taken on a motion for a permanent injunction. The producers would enjoin the government until the Supreme court of the United States passes upon the constitutionality of the Guffey act. That decision is expected within four or five months on several Kentucky cases already sent up for hearing.

Noncompliance Penalized.

The Guffey act imposes a tax of 15 per cent of sales on coal producers throughout the country. It provides, however, that those who accept the code shall be entitled to a rebate of 90 per cent of this amount. Companies staying outside the code are allowed no such rebate. Under terms of the statute the government would begin collecting this tax Jan. 2 and it was to avoid such monthly payments that the producers sought temporary relief from Judge Paul.

The court decision entered today was in the name of Pocahontas Fuel Company, Inc., but Judge Paul will apply his findings to two other Virginia petitioners and eleven others from West Virginia. The motions were argued jointly by agreement.

Holds Stay Is Justified.

Judge Paul concluded that the plaintifs seeking the injunction were in "imminent danger of irreparable injury" and that they had no "clear, adequate and complete remedy at law." In order to afford them due process of law for the protection of their constitutional rights he held the preliminary injunction to be justified.

The court referred to the 15 per cent tax as a "penalty," saying that the amount of the tax accruing "is so drastic, excessive and extreme as reasonably to deter or prevent the plaintif from testing the constitutionality of said act, unless it can be relieved from the payment thereof pending the judicial determination of the validity of said act or code."

LOOSE LARD BELOW $12 FOR FIRST TIME IN YEAR

Loose lard was offered yesterday on the Chicago Board of Trade at $11.87½ per 100 pounds, the first time it has been below the $12 level since December, 1934. Some accumulation in stocks is reported as the result of the recent increased run of hogs, while the export demand continues distinctly slow. Futures were affected to some extent by the drop of 12½ cents per 100 pounds in the cash product and closed 2½ to 12½ cents lower on scattered selling.

Cash lard closed at $12.50, leaf $12.25 and clear bellies [salt pork] at $19 per 100 pounds. Prices in dollars per 100 pounds:

BURNHAM'S

(for 64 years the world's largest beauty school)

Will Enable You to EARN MORE

The easy-to-learn Burnham System quickly enables you to become a skilled beauty operator. Plenty of living models. You learn by doing rather than by studying. Each teacher a specialist. Fewer pupils per teacher.

SEE FOR YOURSELF WHY MORE GIRLS ENROLL IN BURNHAM'S THAN IN ANY OTHER BEAUTY SCHOOL.

BURNHAM'S AWARDS TRIP TO PARIS to STUDENT. Geneve Huffman, winner of semi-annual Burnham scholarship for efficiency while in training, sailed June 19 on S. S. Manhattan, with all expenses paid. Burnham's offers opportunities not found elsewhere.

DAY OR EVENING CLASSES.

Pay for MOST of your tuition after graduation. It is to your advantage to register now, even if you cannot start until later. Open every day and on Monday, Wednesday, Friday evenings until 9 p. m.
